CITY HOUSE SEATS UNCHANGED IN BILL

Measure Denies Increase, but Gives Allegheny County Three Additional Members

NEW TOTAL WOULD BE 208

Harrisburg, April 14.—The legislative apportionment bill was introduced today in the Senate after the House refused to give unanimous consent to its introduction.

Representative James A. Walker, of Philadelphia, attempted to introduce the bill, but objections were raised and it was taken into the Senate.

The bill increases the total House membership to 208. Philadelphia, which gained 250,000 population by the last federal census, does not get a new member, but Allegheny county, which gained considerably less in population, gains three new members.

BROWN COURT BILL GETS SEVERE JOLT

Harrisburg, April 14.—Notice has been served on the Cunningham-Brown combination, that it must consider Speaker Spangler and Washington Oliver forces before it attempts to slip through its favored legislation.

This became apparent last night when Spangler supported Harry Trainer in a successful effort to block acceptance by the House of the bill making it mandatory for Philadelphia to set up a judicial council.

The bill also would make possible a salary increase for the judges of the Court, which is now reported from the Vore-controlled committee on judicial special.

VICTORY FOR HUGHES SEEN IN FRENCH REPLY ON YAP

Admissions Indicate American Success in Fight to Establish Rights of U. S. as Beligerent and Reopen Peace Negotiations

By CLINTON W. GILBERT

Washington, April 14.—The reply of France to Secretary Hughes' note on Yap, given today by the State Department, is the first indication that the administration will succeed in its policy of insisting upon its rights as a belligerent. It is true that France does not go so far as to say, the exact language of Premier Briand being "that France will approach the examination thereof of the question the United States has raised with the greatest desire to find a solution which will give every satisfaction to the United States."

The language of the note is confined to Yap, but every European power admires Mr. Hughes' note as to the real purpose of this country's renewed participation in international councils for the making of peace.

The promptness with which France has replied, the breadth of the assurances she gives, is eminently satisfactory to the State Department, and those familiar with the diplomatic practice of France are inclined to believe that Mr. Hughes in having international questions generally in which we are interested dropped on the terms laid down in his sensational note, is not only a victory for Mr. Hughes' demands, but also a victory for the United States.

The question of Yap and, of course, the broader question of acceding to the general demand of Mr. Hughes, will have to come before the supreme council, before the supreme council, the note having been addressed to all the powers which sit in that council and no one power being in a position to satisfy Mr. Hughes' demands.

Great Britain, Italy and Japan have not yet been heard from in reply to Mr. Hughes' note, but France is not likely to have taken a position out of harmony with that of Great Britain, with whom she is forced to co-operate closely by reason of her requiring her neighbor's support in the collection of German reparations.

The replies of Great Britain and Italy when they come will undoubtedly be similar to that of France.

On the narrower question of the disposition of Yap, Mr. Briand points out that in an earlier note France had supported the American contention that the giving of Yap to Japan had been a mistake and that the American Government had made no objection to the Japanese representatives at Paris, to which reservations Baron Makino for Japan had made no objection.

For this reason France maintains that a basis exists for a resumption of conversations between the United States and Japan.

The striking advance made in this note from France over previous communications from the allied powers and all the members of the supreme council, which awarded Yap to Japan in spite of President Wilson's reservations, is that the note from abroad maintained, but one objection to the American position, and that the Japanese representative at Paris, in the course of the conference, had formulated in the course of a former meeting in the presence of the representative of Japan "categorical reservation concerning the island of Yap," and that the Japanese representative had not objected to the American position.

The full text of the French reply as made public by the State Department does not differ materially from that given out in Paris.

Paris, April 14.—(By A. P.)—Premier Briand has dispatched to Washington a note which acknowledges receipt of the communication from the American State Department regarding the Japanese mandate over Pacific islands north of the equator and then says: "The memorandum, being addressed to Great Britain, Italy and Japan, and, simultaneously, a reply cannot be made until after an accord between the governments of the four interested powers at the next meeting of the supreme council."

"I desire, however, to declare now that when the question comes before the Supreme Council the representatives of France will support the question with the most ardent desire to find a solution satisfactory to the United States. Your excellency knows that already in the course of the conference, the Japanese representative at Paris, in the course of a former meeting in the presence of the representative of Japan, had formulated in the course of a former meeting in the presence of the representative of Japan 'categorical reservation concerning the island of Yap,' and that the Japanese representative had not objected to the American position."

"That note was the same day communicated to the Japanese embassy in Paris, and your excellency was kind enough to express to my department a lively satisfaction in the fact that it had given assurance that it would be particularly attentive in Washington."

At the same time the President transmitted more than thirty names of men he had given temporary appointments while Congress was in recess. The list included the name of John J. Each, of Wisconsin, to be a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, whose confirmation was held up by opposition at the last session.

Charles G. Dawes, of Chicago, who served as a brigadier general in the American expeditionary force, and recently headed a committee which investigated governmental relations to service men, was nominated for the rank of brigadier general in the officers' reserve corps.

The President also sent to the Senate the names of Captain Julian L. Latimer to be judge advocate general of the navy, and of Captain David Ferry, to be paymaster general of the navy, together with a long list of marine corps promotions.

FRANCE, IN REPLY TO HUGHES, ADMITS U. S. RIGHTS IN YAP

Note Interpreted as Conceding America's Interest in Former German Possessions

By the Associated Press

Washington, April 14.—France has replied to Secretary Hughes' note of April 4 regarding the Japanese mandate over the Pacific island of Yap. The reply is interpreted in official circles here as tantamount to acceptance of the principle laid down by the American Government that the United States has surrendered none of its rights in the former German overseas possessions.

The text of the French note, which is in the form of a reply, was made public today both in Washington and in Paris. It is signed by Premier Briand, who gives assurance that the French Government will place before the Supreme Council at its next meeting the question of Yap with the "greatest desire to find a solution which will give every satisfaction to the United States."

Premier Briand declares that his government "has already done all in its power to lend its aid to the American Government in the matter of the Japanese mandate over the islands of the Northern Pacific. President Wilson and Secretary Lansing have formulated in the course of a former meeting in the presence of the representative of Japan 'categorical reservation concerning the island of Yap,' and that the Japanese representative had not objected to the American position."

THINGS TO GREET FOTTERALL SQUARE "SPOONERS' PARK"

Huge "Standing Parade" is So Tustin Tells Delegation Who to Be Feature of Great Reception to Prelate

Oppose Its Use as a Playground

Philadelphia's Plans to Greet New Cardinal

Cardinal Dougherty arrives at North Philadelphia Station at 7:45 o'clock this evening.

"Standing parade" will stretch on Broad street from Cayuga street to Snyder avenue.

From the railroad station, the cardinal will be driven by motor north to Cayuga street; then south to Parkway avenue; returning north to the Parkway and then out Parkway to his residence, Eighteenth and Race streets.

Catholics of Philadelphia and surrounding counties tonight will give a tremendous welcome to Dennis Dougherty, who returns to his see clothed with a rank in his Church second only to the papacy itself.

The outstanding feature of the demonstration will be a "standing parade" stretching on Broad street from Cayuga street to the north to Snyder avenue on the south.

Blazing electric signs, arches of honor, spattering red fire, many bands of music and delegations of the laity representing every parish in the archdiocese will be features of the demonstration.

The cardinal and the big reception committee which will journey here with him from New York, where he landed yesterday, are scheduled to reach North Philadelphia Station at 7:45 o'clock this evening.

General Moore to Direct Parade

General Moore and other prominent officials and men conspicuous in civic life will greet the cardinal when he leaves the train. He will be escorted to an automobile, which will be at rear of a long line of automobiles.

At a signal from Major General William G. Price, grand marshal of the parade, the line of motors will move slowly north on Broad street between thousands of men and women.

The turn for the southward trip will be made at Cayuga street. At St. Stephen's Catholic Church, Broad and Butler streets, the procession will pass under a triumphal arch erected by the members of that parish.

At Broad street and Susquehanna avenue a huge electric sign "Welcome, Cardinal," will glow from the Church of Our Lady of Mercy.

Preceded by mounted police, the line will proceed to the residence of the cardinal.
