

MRS. WILSON PRESERVES FRESH RIPE STRAWBERRIES

Some Delicious Recipes for Putting Up Summer Fruits for Winter Use—Sugar May Be Used or Not, According to Taste

By MRS. M. A. WILSON

THE strawberry is a native fruit of both North and South America and of the southern parts of Europe.

As a means of preventing the berries from becoming moldy, mulched them with straw to prevent bruising.

For many years I have preserved for winter use a large portion of the summer fruit without the least bit of sugar.

Place in small pieces and place in a saucepan and add two cups of water.

Other delicacies that can be made from strawberries are many; here is a delicious paste:

Soak four tablespoons of gelatin in one cup of juice prepared as directed in canning the strawberries with sugar.

Soak for a half hour and then place in a preserving kettle.

Four cups of sugar.

Three quarts of strawberries.

Stir to blend and heat slowly to the boiling point.

Boil for five minutes and add the prepared gelatin.

Stir to dissolve thoroughly and cook for twenty minutes.

Rinse a shallow pan with cold water and then turn in the mixture.

Set aside and let harden for twelve hours.

Loosen from the pan with a knife and turn out.

Cut in blocks and then roll in powdered sugar.

Pack into wooden or tin boxes, with wax paper between the rows.

Store in a cool, dry cellar or a place secure from atmosphere and mice.

This confection will be found to be delicious at Christmas.

Rose and Strawberry Conserve

June time is rose time, and the housewife can, if she wishes, make some real Colonial rose and strawberry conserve.

Wash sufficient rose petals to measure one pint and then turn in a cloth to drain.

Place in a saucepan

One cup of strained juice of cooked rhubarb.

Three tablespoons of grated lemon peel.

One quart of strawberries.

One quart of sugar.

Heat slowly and then place an asbestos mat under the saucepan.

Cook until thick like jam. Fill into small glasses and finish as for jellies.

Paupouri of Strawberries

Fill a quart jar, packing tightly, with strawberries and then cover with one and one-half cups of granulated sugar.

For Ordinary Towels On the new, every-day towels or even the old ones, a cross-stitch touch is not at all necessary, but it does make them a whole lot more attractive, and one is justified in putting it on, for this reason.

A Dainty and Delicious Strawberry Cake

Place in a mixing bowl

Two-thirds cup of sugar, Yolks of two eggs, Two tablespoons of butter.

Cream until light lemon color and then add

Four tablespoons of water, One cup of sifted flour, Two level teaspoons of baking powder.

Beat to mix and then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs.

Turn into an oblong pan and bake in a slow oven for thirty minutes.

Grease and flour a pan before turning in the cake.

Cool and split and then spread with whole berries.

Put the top part on cover with crushed and sweetened berries and then pile with Caledonian cream.

Strawberry Juice for Cordial

Wash the berries and then place in a kettle and mash. Heat very slowly and mash and stir constantly.

Cook twenty minutes. Turn into a jelly bag and let drip, squeezing the fruit very dry.

Now line a large sieve or colander with two thicknesses of paper napkins and set a small bowl in a large one.

Set the colander on the small bowl and turn in the juice and let filter.

Measure the juice and then add one cup of sugar to each cup of juice.

Boil for ten minutes and then filter. Fill into sterilized bottles and place the bottles in hot-water bath and process for twenty minutes.

Seal or cork, and when cold dip the tops of the bottles in melted paraffin or sealing wax.

This syrup can be used for sodas, sundaes and as a sauce for puddings.

Old English housewives claim that this strawberry cordial can be made by putting one-third of strawberry cordial in a cup and then filling with boiling water.

Add a pinch of nutmeg and then drink in place of tea.

Justified in putting it on, for this reason. Small initials of a modest, well-wearing blue, can be quickly worked on each towel. You'll find that they have a sort of gay appearance that just makes you want to look at them.
