

BOY SCALPED BY CRATE
Fruit Box Fell Upon Him, Tearing Off His Hair
Orlando Brown, six years old, of 708 South Reese street, was scalped yesterday when a crate of fruit fell upon his head. The boy was in front of a wholesale fruit store on South street, near Front, where crates of fruit were being hoisted to the second floor. One of the crates slipped and fell on the child's head, tearing off the scalp.
S. Croughal, the proprietor of the store, took the child to the Pennsylvania Hospital.

FIRE ROASTS POTATOES
Otherwise Blaze in Grocery Store Does Little Damage
M. T. Casanova, manager of an American store at 1206 Vine street, found when he came to open up this morning that firemen had been there before him, extinguishing a small blaze and gone away.
The fire, which was discovered at 6:30 o'clock this morning by a patrolman, burned among some bags of potatoes in the cellar. The cause remains undetermined. The damage was confined to a few pecks of potatoes half-roasted.

THE ancients liked to start on a voyage under a good omen, and we, likewise, have the feeling that a trip will be thoroughly enjoyable if we are sent on our way rejoicing. A delightful way of conveying this message to one's friends is to send one of these lovely Steamer-Hampers of Fruit from the store of Henry R. Hallowell & Son, Broad Street below Chestnut. Crisp, white-Spanish Almeria Grapes, King Tangerine Oranges, Beurre d'Anjou Pears—these and other fruits are most enjoyable on shipboard, and the packages of stuffed fruits and salted nuts will be enjoyed to the very end of the voyage. Hallowell's guaranteed perfect delivery of their Steamer Gift-Hampers of Fruit to any United States seaport.

ALMOST every man has a favorite necktie—usually it's a foulard—and he wears it until his family beseeches and implores him to throw that tie away. Now, an easy way out of the difficulty is to buy for him several new foulard neckties. One seldom goes wrong in the patterns of the English foulards, for they all seem to be attractive. At least, judging from those I saw at the store of Macdonald & Campbell, 1304-36 Chestnut Street. Their foulards, too, are just right. The material—genuine English twill—is light in texture, knots easily and always looks well. Men like these scarfs, too, because they wear so splendidly.

IF YOU'VE been thinking of having some of your jewels reset in a manner befitting the demands of the present mode, you'll find it advisable for several reasons to take them to the store of Bailey, Banks & Biddle Company. For one thing, you have the satisfaction of knowing that your jewels will not leave the building. Then, too, you are certain of the very best in design, for this house employs a corps of craftsmen who are experts in their particular field; who are quite capable of designing settings for your jewels that will add much to their beauty. You need have no fear of intrusting your jewels to Bailey, Banks & Biddle Company for remounting.

SCIENTISTS say that we may expect an unusually severe invasion of moths this season, so it would be well to take precautions now before they arrive. One of the best moth preventives that I've used is "No-Moth," which you'll find at The Housefurnishing Store of J. Franklin Miller, 1612 Chestnut Street. A bottle of "No-Moth" attached to the baseboard of a closet turns it into a moth-proof cedar chest. The faint perfume is most agreeable to all but the moths. Its price is 32¢. Miller's also has the far bags which keep both moths and dust from your garments. They are $1.25 to $1.90. Ball and flake camphor are 18 cents a pound, and gum camphor is $1.65 a pound.
