

SAYS ELOPING GIRL MAY BE HIS WIFE

Albert W. Evans, of New York, Investigates Marriage of Adele Arline Pickard

CALLED COREY RELATIVE

Attorneys for Albert W. Evans, of New York, are seeking to learn whether his wife, whom he is suing for annulment of their marriage, and who is a Philadelphia girl, is the same person as Adele Arline Pickard, the young woman who eloped to Peekskill last Monday night and was married to Charles Edward Pickard.

There is a most remarkable similarity in many ways, the lawyers point out. If the same Philadelphia girl is concerned in both cases, the attorneys, Dosey & Parsons, of New York, say here is one of the most complicated legal tangles they have known.

Mrs. Adele Arline Pickard has claimed variously. It is said, to be a daughter and a niece of William Ellis Corey, steel magnate. When the young woman who married Pickard in Peekskill obtained a marriage license, she said her mother's maiden name was Kathryn G. Williams.

The young woman who was married to Evans in New York city in 1919 told the marriage license clerk that her mother's maiden name was Kathryn G. Williams.

To bring the parallel closer, the attorneys claim that six days before Adele Arline eloped to Peekskill Evans' wife was served in the Hotel Biltmore with the papers in the Evans annulment suit.

The mystery over the young woman's identity, which has been receiving attention in the New York newspapers since she said she was a relative of Mr. Corey, was deepened by the revelation of the facts in the Evans case.

Mr. Evans' attorneys said he met the girl through a strange coincidence September 22, 1919, when he was a guest at the Hotel Belmont in New York. His room telephone rang and a girl's voice addressed him under another name. She had been given the number by mistake and was calling a man with whom she was to have gone to dinner. Evans "jolted" her and asked her to come to supper with him if the other appointment was not kept. They visited a theatre and cabarets, and next morning met again. Evans persuaded her to marry him. She told Evans she was a niece of Corey and of a prominent New York lawyer.

After the marriage the girl said she wanted to visit her parents in Philadelphia, and Evans gave her a check for $25. She wired him an affectionate message from Philadelphia. In his annulment suit Evans says his wife was an "adventuress," and had been married previously to Earl Randolph Stevens in 1914. It is said she says Stevens was killed in the world war.

Rigger's Skull Fractured

Falling thirty feet from a scaffold on a building operation at Rising Sun lane and Axtell pike, yesterday, Harry Banks, fifty-three years old, a vicar, of 208 McClellan street, suffered a fractured skull. Other workers were unable to discover the cause of Banks' fall. He was taken to the Frankford Hospital, where it was said his condition was serious.

SUIT RECOVERS RING

Woman Gets Gem Back Through Testimony of Thief's Wife

Mrs. Mary D. Sharwood was enabled to recover a valuable diamond ring stolen from her apartment in Overbrook a year ago by the testimony yesterday of Mrs. Dorothy Rigby in the suit brought by Mrs. Sharwood against Meyer Rothschild, Boardwalk jeweler at Atlantic City.

Mrs. Rigby is the young wife of Sholto Rigby, who is serving a sentence in the reformatory at Huntingdon, Pa., upon conviction of having robbed the Overbrook apartment. The ring, one of the pieces of jewelry stolen, was found in the possession of the Atlantic City jeweler. Mrs. Sharwood brought suit and Mrs. Rigby identified the ring as one that her husband had stolen from the Sharwood home and sold to Rothschild.

Judge Repetto, of the Atlantic City Court, ordered Rothschild to deliver the ring to its owner.

WILL HONOR DR. CLARKE

Scholarship Is Planned by Penn in Professor's Name

A plan is under way for the establishment of a Hugh A. Clarke musical scholarship in the Department of Music of the University of Pennsylvania in honor of Dr. Hugh A. Clarke, now rounding out his forty-sixth year as professor of music at the University.

The scholarship will be established in recognition of Dr. Clarke's contribution to the musical development of Philadelphia in the sixty years he has been in this city.

Subscriptions to the project should be sent before May 1. Checks should be made payable to Anna Colchbury Barrow, chairman of the Scholarship Committee, 4811 Chestnut avenue.

Dr. Chambers Changes Job

Dr. George Gayley Chambers, who has been director of admissions at the University of Pennsylvania for the last ten years, yesterday resigned from this office to devote all of his time to his professorship in the department of mathematics.

LEGION TO START DRIVE ON MAY 1

Department of Pennsylvania to Seek 15,000 New Members in Campaign

PLANS FOR MEMORIAL DAY

May 1 will inaugurate the state-wide drive of the department of Pennsylvania of the American Legion for 15,000 new members. Virtually every post in the state will contribute its individual effort to making the campaign a success and the goal an accomplished fact.

When Colonel John J. Davis was elected department commander at the state convention, last June, he expressed an ambition to double the Legion membership in the state. At that time the total membership was about 30,000. Today it is very close to 50,000.

At least twenty-five. There are 417 Legion posts in the state, and if that is done the Legion will more than have succeeded in doubling last year's membership.

If the 15,000 aimed at are not all enrolled next month, the Legion has until next September, the month of the state convention, to attain that number and fulfill its contract.

Frederick D. and Irving S. Clair Post No. 37 is making early preparations for Memorial Day. A committee has charge of the arrangements for the parade and a squad will be detailed to fire the customary salute over the graves of the deceased post comrades. Flowers and Legion markers will be placed on each grave. A monument will be unveiled over the grave of Charles Rothman, a former member of the post.

Post No. 37 has been greatly strengthened by admitting, to an honorary membership, the entire post of the General E. D. Baker Post, No. 8, G. A. R., thus bringing into close relation the veterans of two great wars, and despite the disparity in age the advantages for the propagation of true Americanism in the combination cannot be overestimated.

What Would YOU Give for the Key to Happiness?

You want to love and be loved... to be happy... to be successful.

"What I wanted, I thought about... and then I always got it," said the late Andrew Carnegie... happy with love... and tens of millions.

Not new... for didn't the old Chinese Philosopher say it ten thousand years ago?

If YOU think right, YOUR work is beautiful... YOUR sweetheart is beautiful... YOUR wife is beautiful.

Remember... as you think, so you are.

All the beauty in life and success in welfare that you can understand, will come to you IF YOU THINK THAT BEAUTY IS SUCCESS.

There are three young people who tested it... two young men and a girl.

She is a dancing girl. The flashing grace of her lyrical body and slim black-stockinged legs once saved a theatre from panic.

She is gentle, brave and gay, swift and restless as a bird. Each pulse of her body sings for joy. Her name is Gypsy Fair.

The older of the boys is James "Spike" McFadden, a handsome blonde giant who conquers the girls with his voice... and the males with his great fist.

The younger is Billy, his brother, blessed with talent... cursed with temper... splendid with devotion.

Pitted against them was opposition... their own thoughts in the first place... and again the Malay adventurer who wished the girl to go with him to his own land of lilies and blue nights. She scorned him... he plotted vengeance against her... surprising schemes.

You will see how thoughts drive you away from happiness... and to happiness... you will be kissed with golden romance... you will spend an exciting evening full of adventure and glimpses of glorious life.

And tomorrow... after the thrills and spell have passed away, you will thrill again to realize that you have SOMETHING you didn't have before.

Follow the idea in this play, and you absolutely will find THE KEY TO HAPPINESS, besides spending a great evening.

"A love that is transcendent animates the tale." —Record

"The strongest emotional acting that the local screens have had." —Evening Ledger

You will never see more graphically what THOUGHTS can do than in seeing "DREAM STREET." It is at the Chestnut Street Opera House... with two performances daily... for a limited time.
