Nancy Wynne Talks of the Taylor-Walker Wedding in Massachusetts Tomorrow and the Yates-Barnes Marriage in Washington

A NUMBER of Philadelphians will go to Boston today to attend the wedding of Hester Walker and Merritt Harrison Taylor, which is to be solemnized tomorrow evening at Longwood, Mass. Among them will be Mr. Taylor's mother, Mrs. Edith Harrison Taylor; his aunt, Mrs. Robert Carter Randolph, of Virginia, and Miss Pauline Bowie, of Chestnut Hill.

I hope Mrs. Randolph will stop off here on her way home and visit some of her friends. It has been a long time since I have seen her, and she is so attractive. She is a sister of Mrs. Taylor, who was Edith Harrison. Mrs. Randolph was Isabelle Harrison. They are both nieces of Mr. Davis Page, and both made their debut in this city from his home. Mrs. Taylor married Mr. A. Merritt Taylor, but they separated some years ago. Mr. Taylor marrying again later.

Joe Taylor, who is a brother of Merritt Taylor, is to be his best man, and John Coleman Purves, of this city, will be one of the ushers. Mrs. Harrison Taylor lives part of the time here and part of the year in Virginia. She is very much interested in the Daughters of the Confederacy and takes an active part in their meetings here. If I am not mistaken she is president of the Dabney Maury Chapter of the U. D. C. in this city. She was last year, I know, and Mrs. James T. Halsey is honorary president.

SATURDAY will certainly be a great wedding day for out-of-town affairs, will it not? Natalie Barnes is to be married down in Washington, and Mr. John Sellers Barnes, a brother of Natalie, will give her in marriage. The bridegroom, Mark Reid Yates, you knows, comes from Warrenton, Va., and I understand they have known each other for a number of years. They are both awfully fond of horses and riding, and Warrenton is one of the most wonderful places for that sport.

Mrs. Fred Levering, Jr., of Baltimore, is to be matron of honor, and Mary Campbell Spencer, of Pittsburgh, will be flower girl. J. William Yates, a brother of the bridegroom, is to be best man, and there will be four ushers—Sears Yates, of Buffalo; Fred Levering, Jr., of Baltimore, the matron of honor's husband; Harry Hickey and Hugh Spillman, of Warrenton.

The Rev. Frederick R. Griffen, of the First Unitarian Church, of this city, will go down to Washington to perform the ceremony, and will be assisted by Dr. U. G. B. Pierce, of that city.

I SAW Lisa Norris the other day on Chestnut street, and she was wearing a very pretty dark blue dress, which was embroidered down the front in red, and worn with a red cape, finished with a light fur collar. Her hat was extremely becoming, a small dark blue silk affair. Katherine Cassard is looking very well these days also. She is wearing a very pretty dark blue dress, with a light blue collar, and a soft light blue hat.

JOHN is five years old and, be it known, five though he is, he goes to school. Now at school there is a small co-ed named Margaret, and the other day John and Margaret came downstairs together to go out to play. Miss N——, their teacher, was just ahead of them with the other little boys and girls, but she came back to the turn in the stairs to send them all ahead of her to the garden to play. She discovered Margaret rather pink as to the ears and looking very self-conscious, and as Margaret put on her hat she whispered, "John kissed me, Miss N——." "Did he, dear?" said Miss N——, thinking it best not to make much of the occurrence. But the spirit of fun made her ask John as he came to the door with his small cap on his head, "John, what happened in the hallway?" "Oh! nothing," said John. "Nothing, John, are you sure?" "No, nothing happened," insisted John. "Oh!" said Miss N——, "You didn't kiss Margaret, then, did you?" "Well," said John squirming around from side to side, "I didn't exactly kiss her, but I was very close."

NANCY WYNNE.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Mr. and Mrs. James Starr, of Olney avenue, Germantown, have issued invitations for a garden supper in honor of their daughter, Miss Sarah Logan Starr. Miss Starr was the guest of honor at a luncheon yesterday at the Art Club and theatre party given by Mrs. William Law, of Abington. The guests included Miss Marian Harris, Miss Elise du Pont, Miss Gertrude Graham and Miss Catharine Luxmore. Miss Starr will be introduced to society at a tea by her parents on Thursday, October 6. Many entertainments will be planned in Miss Starr's honor.

Among the guests who will attend the dinner tonight which Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Pardee Earle, of Chestnut Hill, will give in honor of their daughters, Miss Margaret Earle and Miss Virginia Earle, before the dance at the Philadelphia Cricket Club for the Home for Consumptives will be Miss Elizabeth Ross, Miss Catharine B. Knight, Miss Carl Smith, Miss Elizabeth Roos, Miss Clarissa Smythe, Mr. Mahlon Hutchinson, Mr. Lawrence Godley, Mr. Barclay Knight, Mr. Charles Phelps, Mr. Norman Milne, Mr. Grant Worrell and Mr. Grenville Toogood.
