Interesting and Varied Performance Finely Given by Organization Under Dr. Tily

The Strawbrulge & Clathier Chorus under the direction of Dr. Herbert J. Tily, gave one of its characteristic and interesting entertainments in the Academy of Music last evening befor an audience that filled the auditorium the beautiful spectacular effects the equally fine singing.

The program was divided into two parts, the first being "I.a Source de la Reine,'- in which the composer Gluck, impersonated by Dr. Tily, was given the power to forecast the musical future power to forecast the musical future, after some music of his own day had been performed and typical excepts from later operas instrumental and popular music were given by the Strawbridge & Clothier Chorus and an excellent orchestra, made up from members of the Philadelphia Orchestra, besides the soloists of the genning Man sides the soloists of the evening. Mar Ebrey Hotz. Clara Yocum Jovee Charles Stabl and Henry Hotz. The second part of the program was Gouned's 'Faust' cleverly arranged for concert performance by John Pointer. The stage settings were as ciaborate

The stage settings were as claborate and beautiful as the entertainments of the chorus have been in the past, and plainly showed that no expense and time had been spared to have the costumes and settings historically correct and attractive to the eye. The members of attractive to the eye. The members of the chorus as well as the soloists were costumed in the time of Marie An-tresponded in color and design to that elaborate period. The tableaux, which for several years have been an original and attractive feature of the Straw-bridge & Clothier Chorus entertain bridge & Clothier Chorus cutertainments, were given last evening on the same high artistic plane as in previous years, which means that they were both beautiful and effective. The "cast" was large and the different parts were well taken, as follows

The chorus sang admirably with good tone and much enthusiasm, numerous and not always easy selections which were give nihem in both parts of the program, the a capella work in the under the direction of Stahley Addicks and a varied and enjoyable program was performed. The club showed a good tone quality and volume and a good tone quality and volume and a did well the work assigned to them which the principal choral number was the cantata, "The Sea Fairies." by Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, but there were also several interesting and beautiful smaller numbers, among them being "In May," by Horatio Parker, and a charming chorus, "To Greet the Spring," by Mr. Addicks, director of the chorus, last evening's presentation being the first. Choruses by Ethelbert is substituted a long list of solotists, nearly all of them being from the membership of the organization. All did well the work assigned to them, who deepened the favorable manner in which he has been received by Philadelphia and leaves in previous appearances here.

1217-19 Chestnut Street The Triumphant New CENTURY Is Now On The News-stands

IF you have not seen this new and greater I magazine, stop at the news-stand today and ask for the May CENTURY. It is the most distinctive magazine on the stands. The heavy rich brown cover with gold stamping is a relief. The entire magazine is beautifully illustrated and printed. But it is the contents that surprise and delight the appreciative reader. A reading section of 160 pages with a wealth of stories, articles and essays by notable writers. Superb illustrations by talented artists. Poems of literary quality.

The May CENTURY is the first revelation of a new idea in magazine publishing. That idea is, briefly, to produce a magazine that for literary and artistic value, vitality and humanity shall surpass anything ever attempted before. How well this has been accomplished you shall judge. Ask your news-dealer today for

CENTURY for May

The Century Magazine was founded by Dr. J. G. Holland and Roswell Smith in 1869. For more than years it has been the leading monthly periodical of America. Its contributors have included nearly all the leading writers of the half century. But never in its history has this leadership been so marked as now—never before has its contributors numbered so many of the foremost authors of the day. This brief summary of May contents is illuminating. The front spiece is a beautiful color-tone portrait of John S. Sargent, engraved for the Century by Davison.

THE POST-MORTEM MURDER By Sinclair Lewis An exceptionally stirring short story by the author of "Main Street AT HOME IN THE MODERN WORLD By Sir Gilbert Murray A thoughtful article by one of Britain's forement scholars and novelists. It discusses some of the biggest problems that engross the world today.

THE LATEST THING By Alexander Black An essay by the author of "The Great Desire" which created a literary sensation last year, and whose novel "The Seventh Angel" is just off the press. TO THE STARS

By Anzia Yeziersha

A human, self-story by this remarkable young writer to whom many critics gave first place in the fiction of 1920. Splendidly illustrated.

THE TROUBLESOMENESS OF BULBULS By Edward A. Morphy A fascinating essay-story of Indian Jungles, wonderfully illustrated.

THE CRYSTAL HEART By Phyllis Bottome
Tart One of a new serial by the author of "The Dark Tower." Beautifully illustrated. JULIUS CAESAR'S STENOGRAPHER

By John R. Gregg
It will be surprising that shorthand was used to report "The Sermon on the Mount," "(nesar's Commentaries," "Cicero's Orations," and "Martin Luther's Sermons." The author is the inventor of a well-known system of shorthand. Quaint illustrations.

THE HAIRS OF THE OCCASION By James Mahoney A whimsical French story with good fun and swift

BRITON BLOOD AND GIPSY INSTINCT By Charmian London The opening chapter of Jack London's Biography, written by his wife.

THE MENACE OF MIGRATING PEOPLES By Edward Alsworth Ross A brilliant study of an important problem and also a most fascinating story.

I WALK WITH A PRINCESS By Frederick O'Brien
A charming fact-story of the South Seas, by the author of "White Shadows." Superb illustrations.

Travel Articles by Harry Franck and Charles Hanson Towns. "Mr. Lansing's Plain Speech" by Herbert Adams Gibbons, "The Tide of Affairs" Editorial Forum conducted by the Editor of CENTURY, Glenn Frank, and a number of delightful poems complete this most remarkable magazine. The May CENTURY is for sale on news-stands everywhere at 50c per copy. It has achieved an unprecedented sale. It is the most talked-of magazine of the month. Subscriptions at $5 per year may be sent to THE CENTURY COMPANY. Publishers, 353 Fourth Avenue, New York.
