Clever People to Whom Everything Comes Easy

are like a young friend of years ago, whose natural ability and college education, because of his readiness and ease in doing everything, promised great things, but who became slipshod.

He spent his time "come day, go day," as some young fellows say, thus forming a wasteful habit of both time and money, and when his accomplishments were counted up there was nothing left to carry over, and nothing to show for the fine education and the money and properties left to him by his painstaking father, whose lifetime savings were frittered away.

Fruit trees that bear only blossoms are lumberers of the ground.

Straw Hats Ready at Wanamaker's Famous Lincoln-Bennett and Redleaf London Hats All of Them Genuine 1921 Straw Hats Undoubtedly the Greatest Values in Philadelphia Prices $3 to $6

Nearly all the sons and fathers and grandfathers and bachelors in Philadelphia feel that they must have straw hats by Saturday.

Saturday, by reason of settled custom, starts the straw hat season with the Penn-Princeton game.

All sorts of stores sell all sorts of straw hats, but this Store can be depended upon to sell only good straw hats and every one of them satisfactory.

To many men the straw hat is just a name for an article of apparel that is fashionable, that is uncomfortable and easily soiled.

Which is quite true of most low-grade hats. But a good straw hat is a vastly different proposition.

We have been experimenting for years trying out one maker after another and one method after another, until finally our ideas have been embodied in the straw hats that are made for us under the Redleaf and Lincoln-Bennett labels, which are the most finished products to be obtained.

They are comfortable because of the anatomically applied egg oval. They are comfortable because of the cushioned-for-comfort head line. They are extraordinary in value because Wanamaker straw hats keep fresh.

Every one of our straw hats is a 1921 hat, none carried over from last year. Sizes and correct new lines for every man. We specialize in correct fitting.
