

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTE BOOK
By Lee Page

Yesterday afternoon me and Puds Skinkins went to the Little Grand, being a pretty good of a movie there called Herried Alive in 7 Reels, and part of it showed a newy looking ners bandaging a soldier around the head, the ners saying, "Does it hurt?" and the soldier saying, "No, it's a near scratch." And while he was wawking home I had a hiler, saying, "Hay Puds, will you do me a favor, will you lone me your bottle of red ink, I'll give it back after supper."
With Puds went in his house and after I smeared some on one end of my thumb and went around to Mary Watkins's house and Mary Watkins was standing by herself on her feet looking even better looking than usual, me showing her my thumb and saying, "Wetch, holey amooks, may be you think this dont hurt, its only a near scratch, tho."

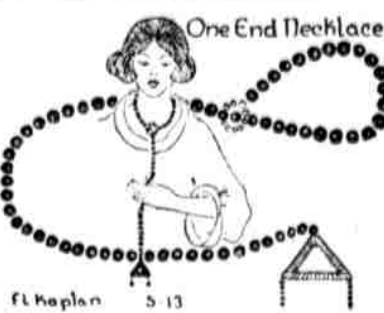

Q. my goodness, O nersy, izent that perfectly dreadfil, wy in the world didnt you have it tied up? sed Mary Watkins.
Nobody offered to tie it up for me, its a near scratch, I sed, and she sed, O, you poor boy, Ill tie it up for you, have you got a hankerchief?

No, I sed, Ony I had, but it wasnt good enuff looking to take out, and Mary Watkins sed, Then Ill tie it up with mine, O deer I cant hardly bare to look at it, does it hurt wen I tie it? and I sed, You bet it does, its a near scratch, Wetch just wen she got it tied who came up but Puds Skinkins, an account of him thinking Mary Watkins is all rite too, and she said, O Puds, you aint to of seen Benny's thumb, its all cut and red and I tied it up with my hankerchief.
All red? sed Puds, hay, wares my red ink, levee me see your thumb, and I sed, Like fun, do you think I want to expose it to the air agin? And I quick started to wawk away, saying, Ill go and get your ink, I forgot all about it, I didnt use it after all.
I dare you to levee me see your thumb, I dubble dare you, sed Puds, Wetch I kepp on going as if I thavet I didnt heer him, and he properly told Mary Watkins all about wat he thavet I did with the red ink, ony he cant prove it so wat do I care?

Adventures With a Purse

EARRINGS have a fascination for me and I cannot pass them by without stopping to admire. Today I saw a most unusual pair, even Ruth liked them, and she is most fastidious as to jewelry. They are about an inch and a half long and made to resemble a graceful bunch of grapes. They fasten to the ear with a small ball that looks like old gold—there are two or three leaves at the top of the bunch and small green beads very much like jade form the grapes. They are priced at $7.50, and would most certainly give an air of distinction to the wearer.

Things You'll Love to Make

Something delightfully new! A ONE-END NECKLACE. A handsome one can be made by choosing beads of two colors; a black and red. The red are the smaller ones. String enough red beads to make a circle one inch in diameter. Join the thread, on which you are to string the necklace, to one of the beads in the circle. String a sufficient number of the black beads to encircle your neck and leave an end as long as you desire. Slip the string of black beads through the circle of red ones. Join some sort of quality Chinese pendant to the end and your unique ONE-END NECKLACE is complete.

The children's little feet do look so nice when they are pattering around in white shoes, but it is a problem to keep the cleaning fluid from rubbing off onto everything with which the shoes come in contact. Today I found a fluid that carries with it the guarantee that it will not rub off, and it is perfectly splendid for the cleaning of buckskin and canvas shoes. It comes in quite a large-sized jar and sells for fifty cents.

1847 ROGERS BROS. SILVERPLATE

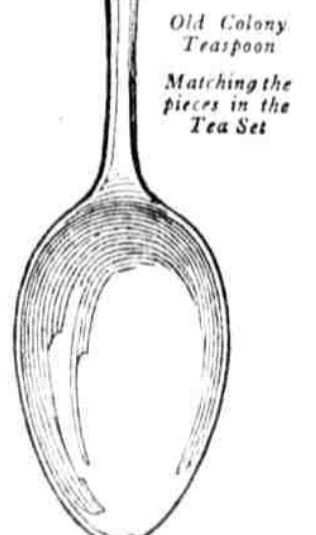

The Harmony that makes a Table Service beautiful

NO woman would think of furnishing her dining room with a William and Mary serving table, a Queen Ann buffet and an Adam dining table.

Yet, it is possible to choose silverplate quite as thoughtlessly. To get the desirable harmony, choose 1847 Rogers Bros. Silverplate. It has been made distinctive by reason of the perfect match-up in pattern between the spoons, knives and forks and the larger pieces—tea and coffee sets, meat and vegetable dishes, etc.

Your gift to the bride might be a cold meat fork, at $2.25; a berry spoon, at $3.50; individual salad forks, at $8.00 for six, or teaspoons, $4.00 a half dozen. All of them make modest, but extremely useful beginnings for the complete all-one-pattern table service.

Leading dealers display a wide variety of "1847 Rogers Bros." patterns, or can order them for you. All are unqualifiedly guaranteed.

For ware of lighter weight, choose one of the attractive patterns in the "W.M. ROGERS & SON" brand. It is also made and guaranteed by the International Silver Company.
