Speakers at American Academy Meeting Differ as to "Practical" and "Ideal"

SAY U.S. SHOULD TAKE LEAD

The third session of the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Science today developed into a clash between the advocates of practical diplomacy, as represented by European Powers at the Peace Conference, and the proponents of the idealism which the United States presented in bringing the League of represented in bringing the League of Nations into being.

Herbert Adams Gibbons, war correspondent and Princeton University professor, led the attack upon the motives and methods of the French and British Premiers in Paris.

Heary Morgenthau, former Ambassador to Turkey, presiding at the session held in the Bellevue-Stratford, sion held in the Bellevue-Stratford, followed Dr. Gibbons' address with the assertion that the idea born at Ver-"There are many of us." he said,

GIRLS EXCEL BOYS IN ARITHMETIC TEST

Show Superiority at "Intermediate Day" at Germantown Friends' School

TWO PLAYS ON PROGRAM

Everything was interesting - the arithmetic test, where girls showed their superiority to boys, four out of nine of the former standing when the last boy sat down—and the spelling bee for students ten and eleven years old, when they spelled such words as embroider, decimal, comprehend, musician and orchestra; their enunciation being worthy of comment, too. But the plays were the feature of the program and followed two o'd French songs rendered admirably. The fifth class, section two, wrote and presented the first, a Pilgrim tercentenary play entitled "For the Love of Freedom." Indians in Life of Brewster Dressed in quaint Puritan garb and using plain speech, they gave four acts of the life of one William Brewster in the trying days of 1620. The first scene was laid in England and the little Puritan mother, knitting as she rocked the made a charmthe crade with her foot, made a charming picture. The second scene was in Holland, the third on the voyage over and the last in the promised land-America. The old knight, Sir Huber Haddon, who was afflicted with a gouty toe, was well portrayed by Charles A. Roland with a very realistic limp.

More Than Speed or Climbing

DOWER means more than brute strength. The power of the Standard Eight is not the power of the motor alone, any more than the strength of a man means big biceps alone.

Power in an automobile involves the relation of motivity to weight, the co-ordination of balance with mass. This gives a responsiveness that is quick and sure. It is what the good golfer puts into his drive that gives him long distance without apparent effort. It is what the billiard player puts into his shot that gives a long roll to the bails without seeming to shoot hard.

Driving a Standard Eight gives you the same sort of pleasure you get when you play a game extremely well. You are exhilarated every minute of the while, you are not fatigued at the end, and you look forward to doing it again. STANDARD EIGHT
