GIBSON'S NEW SYSTEM IS A GREAT SUCCESS; TEAM LEADS LEAGUE

Pittsburgh Manager Tells Athletes Not to Lose Two Games in a Row and Orders Are Obeyed—Phils Succeed in Breaking Into Cellar, but It Means Nothing

By ROBERT W. MAXWELL. GEORGE GIBSON, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has discovered the system to keep out in front in the National League. Today his club is sitting the second place with nineteen victories and five defeats, and the reason for it all is the advanced new system used by Mr. Gibson.

"I have ten pitchers," says Gibson, "and nine are in shape to pitch the full nine innings any day. The only man not ready is Rider, the kid southpaw, but he will be in form within a week. Yellowhorse, the Indian, looks very good, and Glazner has lived up to the reputation he made in the minors. In only three games have pitchers been changed, and that tells better than anything else the condition of the hurlers."

"HARRY is something else worth scrambling. Five of my pitchers have not had a name this season. Cooper has won five straight. Glazner, here, Ponder two and Yellowhorse and Carlini one each. That accounts for twelve of the sixteen victories."

Puts the kibosh on Pennant Chatter. "BUT don't talk pennant to me or any of my players. That's one thing I will not discuss. We have a good ball club, the boys know it also, but they realize they must play their hardest to prove it. Opposition will be much stiffer from now on and it will take almost perfect baseball to stay in the lead."

"Never have I seen a more satisfied bunch of players. Everybody is working his head off and there is no grumbling. Of course, this is due to the large number of victories, but I have a hunch they will be just the same if they run into some tough luck."

"We were lucky in getting two young infielders this year who could hit in and play the game up to big league standards. Cotton Tierney has helped the club, and so has Barnhart. The latter started at third, with Tierney at second and Outslaw was on the bench for utility purposes. One day Barnhart was hurt and Tierney went to third, while Outslaw went back to second. The veteran played such baseball in that game that I couldn't take him out of the lineup until he had pitched three innings. Now Barnhart is the utility man."

"Marvelli has helped as wonderfully. He has put some pep in the team and, in addition to that, steadied the young players. He made it possible for Tierney and Barnhart to get by in the early games by telling them how to play for every batter and shouting words of encouragement. The Rabbit is an important cog in the machine and a greater player than ever before."

"The outfield, with Rigbee, Carey and George Whitted, is a class trio. Whitted, getting good, and although he is in a batting slump at present, he soon will get out of it."

"And don't forget Mike Wilson, the young catcher. Mike is improving every day and will be a very good receiver."

"All we want to do now is win ball games. We will discuss the personal possibilities later. What is important now is to win. New York and Brooklyn, and those games will be tough—very tough."

Phils Finally Break Into the Cellar. AT LAST it has happened. The Phils slipped into last place on Saturday when the St. Louis Cardinals stepped aside so as not to interfere with the final day. All season Branch Rickey's team made it impossible for Wild Wilyum's men to take the high drive, but in the game with Brooklyn they fought themselves and failed to play according to the St. Louis standard.

Twenty-four hours after the Phils had slipped into the basement, the A's did a nose dive and landed in the same spot. The White Sox put over the unfriendly spirit of training out American Leagueers in a Sunday victory by the count of 7 to 3.

PHILS AND A'S HAVE HIT BOTTOM

Macks Slide Into Cellar After White Sox Game and Pirates Sink Phils

The Phillies and Athletics have finally landed in the roasting place of home brew, the heater and the electrical washer. For some time our boys at Fifteenth and Huntington streets and at Twenty-first and Lehigh have been plugging along with their heads above water, but Saturday when Pittsburgh copped an extra-round fray from the Phils they dropped into the cellar, and yesterday the A's did likewise when Eddie Collins and a few of his Chicago friends gave them a 7-3 wallop out in the Burg of Breezes.

While these events draw the major portion of comment from Philadelphia fans, the league leaders are attracting the eyes of many hags. The biggest change among the topnotchers was the jump of the New York Yankees into first place. The Yanks gave the champion Cleveland club a beating yesterday and now they are attached to the one rung below. Pittsburgh is languishing in the National League.

The Athletics dropped their game yesterday to the White Sox, largely because Dominick Mullenback, a rookie, held them to three runs, while the Sox managed to paste Rommel, Hasty and Barry. The Sox were not able to fool them in the matter of strike outs. Witt was the only victim, and it was not until the ninth round that he fanned.

What A's will do next is to go to Cleveland for four games with the Indians, after which they visit Detroit and then come East.

EX-PENN ATHLETES TO TAKE ON VARSITY Stars of Other Days to Compete on Franklin Field Thursday. A two-mile race between the University of Pennsylvania varsity track team and a team composed of Penn track stars of other days will be held on Franklin field tomorrow afternoon.

By LOUIS H. JAFFE. Give gossip these days pretence to the big boy—the mittman who tips the beam 175 pounds or more, because of the intense interest in the extravaganza scheduled for Jersey City July 2 between Jacques Dempsey and Georges Carpentier.

It seems a difficult matter to pick a worthy opponent for the winner of the Dempsey-Carpentier match. The American looms as a big favorite for this international battle, but one never can tell. Experts in boxing are well known, just like they are in various other sports competitions.

LARSEN A STAR HURLER Utah Lad Twirls Penn to Win Over Dartmouth Nine. Pennsylvania and Dartmouth play a return game on Franklin field Wednesday afternoon and Coach Carris of the Red and Blue started the game by naming Larsen as pitcher.

1913 U. S. POLO TEAM STAGED GREAT GAME

Whitney, Milburn and the Two Waterburys Did Come Back by Upsetting the Dope and British Four in Historic Battle

By GRANTLAND RICE. Our British readers will pardon us if we name the international polo match of 1913, which resulted in an American victory, over the 1914 battle, which resulted in an American defeat.

You may recall the fact that in the spring of 1913 it had been officially decided that the Big Four of 1912—Whitney, Milburn and the two Waterburys—were no longer capable of defending the cup.

Outside of Milburn, and possibly one other, they were supposed to be a bit beyond the athletic age and had found it difficult to get back into championship condition.

AND then Foxhall Keene suffered a serious riding accident and almost at the last moment the Old Four went into the arena.

AMATEUR BASEBALL NOTES. The Anchor A. A. is in the field again this year with a strong team. They are looking games with all first-class home teams and have in their ranks some of the best talent in South Philadelphia.
