Mr. Stillman was said to feel keenly the publicity that has attended his divorce action and to have expressed dread of the further publicity which he expected when Mrs. Stillman began to offer witnesses for her "affirmative defense."

"Fear of Consequences" Mentioned "Fear of consequence" was another motive in his desire to drop the suit, according to a person who has been in touch with the case from its beginning. The person explained that the naming rence H. Leeds by Stillman and the threat of the defense cerning his relations with at least nine her women had made Mr. Stillman apprehensive.

This apprehension was intensified, was said, by the fact that neither Mr tillman nor his counsel knew exactly the testimony that the defense intended offer. An attempt to throw a searchigh upon his private life for the last years was something to which Stillman was said to have looked for ward to with anything but pleasure and he was said to have expected that the unfavorable publicity when Mrs. Stillman's witnesses testified would be even more widespread than it has been.

The present negotiations looking teward a settlement were instituted, it is said, a few days ago by Mr. Stillman. No papers of any kind have been signed, but it is almost assured that the banker has capitulated and will agree to a set-tlement that is a victory for Mrs. Still-men and Guy.

Mrs. Stillman, accompanied by two briends of high social position, went to day. They were driven by seventeenyear-old "Bud" Stillman. There they Withdrawal of the divorce action.

The size of the financial settlement be granted by the banker is thought to be the last hitch and that may be inally determined soon. Mrs. Stillman said to be demanding $90,000 a year. Thich is on the basis of the $7,500 a nonth alimony recently awarded her by Supreme Court Justice Morchauser, pading the outcome of the divorce action. Attorneys for Mr. Stillman are reported to have declared this amount casessive, but are continuing to negotiate. The figure they name is said to be $75,000 a year.

PARADE TO BE FEATURE

Knights Templar and their ladies are arriving from all parts of the State today to take part in the sixty-eighth annual conclave of the Grand Commandery, beginning today and lasting until Wednesday.

There are eighty commanderies in the State, exclusive of those in Philadelphia, and all are sending delegations. Reservations were made long in advance at the principal hotels, several commanderies reserving as many as 500 rooms three months ago.

It is estimated there will be more than 7000 visitors here during the conclave. A multiplicity of entertainnents has been provided.

Escorts were ready early today to meet arriving commanderies at the railroad depots and escort them to their respective headquarters. The Masonic Temple was open to Templar visitors from 10 o'clock this morning until 2 'clock this afternoo

An entertainment arranged for early this afternoon is an automobile sight-seeing tour for visiting Knights Temp-lar and their ladies. Corinthian Chasseur Commandery, No. 53, mounted, will act as escort. The knights will wear full uniform, with swords. There are more than 2200 members in the Grand Commandery, and while not all will be in the city in time for the visit, it is expected that not less than 500 knights, and probably a greater number than this, ac-companied by their ladies, will take part in the reception.

This evening will be given over to social diversions. The grand commander will bold a brief reception in the Red Room of the Bellevue-Stratford, and the rest of the evening will be given over to receptions and dances at the headquarters of the various local and visiting commandering. visiting commanderies.
