Sees a Smart Costume

Now that the summer trocks are appearing on the streets. I think a may safely say that summer is here; and did you ever hear anything like the plans for spending the summer mouths this year? Somehow I think a great many of us had got used to going away for just short distances, if we went away at all, during the war times and the two summers since then; but now we begin to realise that we really can go places with clear consciences, and we are going. It would help a bit if car fare should come down, though, wouldn't it?

However, if you are going away you want to go and have a good time and just have enough money to get home again.

warm weather and the Horse Show and the June Fete and everything else in advance of me makes me think of summer.

Talking of summer plans and dolings, I hear that the Charlie Coxes are at present in London and are having a beautiful time there. They are going to fer fetural from their weading trip to California. REN'T showers the loveliest things? A A bit embarrassing, I'll admit; but after all, you get over that when the after all, you get over that when the presents are brought in, and soon find something appropriate to say about them all, and you love it all so, and you think each girl is so dear to come o the party and to give you such lovely, ureful things. And then when the time comes to use the things, how you love each one. "That apron Mary B- made for me," you say. "And isn't that pan the cutest thing you ever saw? Sarah K—gave that to me." And "Tell me, have you ever seen one of these potato cut-"And isn't that pan the ters? They're so odd and so useful, Carrie F- gave me that at Florence's shower before I was married." And you remember each thing and has all the delightful accessories of the bath. You know, embroidered towels and those lovely glass bottles for tooth-wash and hair tonic, all painted by hand, and the most fascinating array of brushes and washeloths and fixings almost makes you want to get into a And then there is to be a silk-stock-ing booth, which Mrs. Howard Wilson has undertaken, and have you heard about the prohibition drinks? Mrs. John Sargent Newbold has that booth, and you will think you are getting an hon-est-to-goodness cocktail when you order your drink and see it, but you won't when you taste it. However, do not let that deter you, for, even though the kick may be a minus quantity, the taste I am told is to be perfectly "de-luscious" and so cooling and "much better for you than the real article."

7 SAW Mrs. George Reynolds on the street recently wearing a stunning costume of dark blue tricolette, the jacket trimmed with black braid. A sash of the material edged with black silk tassels finished the suit. Her hat was of violet atraw turned up smartly at the back and trimmed with bunches of violets, and she wore amethysts, which gave a decidedly beautiful touch to the attractive costume. to the attractive costume. SKIN

DISEASES SPREAD

Skin affection should not be neglected.

Skin eruptions, rash or blotches on face, neck, arms or body should not be allowed to run on. They are unsightly, un-confortable and may be dan-group.

A little Nonzema Greasciess Skin Cream will bring an im-provement in a day.

The greaseless cream van-lakes into the skin with a tin-gling, cooling sensation. You can feel it heal.

You can obtain a small jar from any druggist, or the Nox-senia Chemical Co., of Bulti-more, Md., will mall you a large soutenir jar on receipt of this clipping and 10c to cover post-age and packing,—dds.

However, if you are going away you don't want to think about the cost; you want to go and have a good time and just have enough money to get home again.

It's never so much fun to have plenty when you come back. You enjoy yourself much more if you think: "I am spending too much, and I'll have to economize for several months afterward to make up; but while I'm away I am going to have everything deluxe!" It's great to travel that way.

All of which has nothing to do with what I started out to say; but the warm weather and the Horse Show and the June Fete and everything else in advance of me makes me think of summer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lyman Cox, of 12 Summit avenue, Chestnut Hill, will entertain at dinner on Saturday evening in honor of Miss Evelyn H. Mrs. James Francis Sullivan, of The Woods, Radnor, entertained at luncheon yesterday in honor of Marquise de Fraysseux Mazieres, of France, who is the guest of Mrs. Harry C. Thayer at her home in Haverford.

And you remember each thing and think of the giver every time you use it—you really do!

I NEVER heard such plans as there are for the June Fete, which is to be held just two weeks from today. They have the most killing things to auction. And Mary and Doug are to be there. Now don't get excited, for while you might want to see the real Mary and Doug in person, I'm sure they would not look as sweet and white and woolly as the two lambs that are named after them. And they have a "permanent wave," if you get me, and a pig and an automobile, all to be auctioned.

Mrs. William Denegre has planned one of the most attractive booths, It has all the delightful accessories of the bath. You know ambraideast send.

Weak Arches?

When you step in your stockinged foot, does the whole inner side of your foot touch the floor? We hope not, for that would indicate a fallen or weak arch. Between the ball of the foot and the heel, the arch should curve up, on the inner side of the foot, and not touch the To strengthen the arch muscles and keep the foot healthy and comfortable, wear the Cantilever Shoe. For the shank is flexible, it bends WITH the foot. It encourages the muscles to exercise. Cantilevers correct and prevent flat foot by strengthening the muscles that surround the bones of the arch.

The natural inner sole line provides room for the toes in Canti-lever Shoes. This and the set of the heel encourage correct posture. Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Northrop. o' Melrose Park, announce the engagement of
