Frederick Graham Talks of Hazard in His Experience

To Frederick Graham, clever English comedian, who is playing in "Mary," has come the necessity of being a bit of a fatalist.

Fate seems to have chosen the sea as her medium for thrusts at Mr. Graham s twice he barely escaped Davy Jones' locker. A third time, though it was starvation he faced, the sea played its part in ripping the rudder and propellor from a boat, causing it to drift for many days.

In spite of the tragedies he has seen and felt on the water, the lure is strong and each vacation finds him unable to turn a deaf car to the call of the sea.

Perhaps that is a heritage, though, because there were old salts among Mr. Graham's ancestors.

Sitting in his dressing room at the Garrick Theatre, he told of the tragic events, the greatest catastrophe being the loss of the Coombana in 1911.

"Mrs. Graham and I were starting on a long planned vacation, and we left."

the England of King Henry VIII'S time. "Deception." which will be shown at the Stanley week of June 6, is a gorgeous historical pageant, supplemented by a royal romance.

Henry Porten and Emil Jannings, European screen artists, play the leading roles.

"THE WAKEFIELD CASE," which comes to the Victoria week of June 6 with Herbert Rawlinson as star, is the work of Shannon Fife, an author long experienced in writting for the streen. He has woven together melodramatic incidents, all of which revolve about the detection of crime.

"Mrs. Graham and I were starting on a long planned vacation, and we left Freemantle, Australia, on the Coombana bound for Singapore," said Mr. Graham. "The ship was an interstate boat and the first port of call was Geraldston. "Leaning over the rail we observed a familiar face on the pier, and when the gang plank was lowered resumed acquaintance with a gentleman we had met in New Zealand many years before. He was the owner of a moving picture and vaudeville house in Geraldston and urged us to defer our trip and finally persuaded us to sign a two weeks' contract with him. You see we had a repertoire of one-act plays.

"Well, after considerable difficulty in getting the Captain to take our baggage getting the Captain to take our baggage out of the hold we left the ship and it started for Singapore. Do you know, it has never been heard of to this day?

Guide to Photoplays For the Week to Come

New Photoplays

STANEEY — "Peck's Bad Boy" is the first starring vehicle for little Jackie Coogan, the kid who made such a hit with Charles Chaplin in "The Kid." The story has had the benefit of Irvin Cobb's subtitles. Supporting cast includes such favorites as Raymond Hatton, Wheeler Oakman, Doris May and James Corrigan. In addition are Harold Lloyd, in his latest, "Now or Never"; singing of the prologue from "Pagliacci" by Signor Albano and "Fun in a Music Store," orchestral novelty.

STANTON—"Sacred and Profane Love" novelty.

BTANTON—"Sacred and Profane Love" shows Elsie Ferguson in the movie of the play in which she appeared last season. The plot deals with the love of a woman for a musician who has fallen into evil habits. William D. Taylor directed. 'Conrad Nagel is the musician. ''Circus Heroes,'' featuring Sid Smith, is an added "Hallroom Boy" comedy.

PALACE—"The Traveling Salesman," featuring Fatty Arbuckle, is a reissue of a funny piece in which a fat man shows his generous spirit and clever resourcefulness while selling goods in a small town. A pretty romance is involved.

ARCADIA—"Sham" is the feature, with Ethel Clayton as star. She is seen in the role of a woman who is clever enough to dodge bill collectors and sham her way through society. Thomas Heffron directed the Geraldine Bonner play.

entrance as a leading man. Keefe is the leading woman.

Special Photoplays

FORREST—"The Parish Priest" is the story that the Hon. Daniel L. Haw. Mayor of Wilkes-Barre, wrote for the starring seasons of Lan Sully. A plot of love and romance is varied with universal comedy that makes it a good entertainment of a non-sectarian nature. William Desmond leads a big supporting company. Specially added attractions include Kineto Review of "Ireland." Enlarged orchestra and vocal selections will be other novelties.
