

3 COUPLES ENGAGE IN STREET BATTLES

One Makes Peace in Hospital After Quarrel Over Petty Cause

TWO HUSBANDS ARRESTED

Two street battles by couples in the central part of the city last night kept physicians at the Hammann Hospital busy until early this morning.

The first fight took place at Twenty-second and Vine streets between Mrs. Katie Pileri and her husband—John. Fully a hundred persons were attracted by the contest, and no one interfered because the woman appeared to be giving as much as she received.

Early in the fight Mrs. Pileri knocked her husband down with a right and left to the jaw. He jumped to his feet and put straight lefts to the face and body. They mangled each other for nearly ten minutes. When both were pretty badly battered and showed signs of weakening, a spectator suggested that they call it off. Both went to the hospital unaided.

A wound in Mrs. Pileri's head required eight stitches and a similar wound in the head of her husband required four.

Mr. and Mrs. Pileri told doctors at the hospital that the quarrel started over a difference of opinion as to what car they should take to reach home. Peace was established at the hospital, and both walked home. They live at Third and Lombard streets. Today both were sent to the House of Correction for three months.

The second fight took place between Mrs. Katie Daugert and her husband Charles, at Franklin and Green streets. The couple gave their address as 624 North Franklin street.

Trouble started, it appears, over a discussion as to what they would have for breakfast. Daugert struck his wife and she pummeled him, much to the delight of many women sympathizers.

No one had the courage to interfere until a patrolman arrived. As the crowd which gathered was blocking traffic the policemen decided to remove the cause by arresting Daugert. He was taken to the Tenth and Buttonwood streets police station.

Harry Knauft, 871 North Pennock street, was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate Carney this morning, charged with beating his wife, Mary, in an automobile at Broad and Spring Garden streets yesterday.

The fight occurred in front of Magistrate Carney's office, and the latter's deputy, Jacob Werner, made the arrest. Werner testified today that Knauft deserted the wheel of his machine, which was moving in order to beat his wife. The latter denied the moving car, but admitted the beating. The husband said he "hardly touched her." According to Werner Knauft was intoxicated at the time.

Germantown Players

MISS ALICE WILLIAMS
MISS HAZEL FITZ

For the benefit of the Germantown High School Scholarship Fund, the players will give three one-act plays on Saturday evening at the Germantown Y. M. C. A. auditorium.

He was buried from this address, an escort from the Edward Basle Post, American Legion, following the body to the church and grave, and firing a last salute. At his funeral also were his mother and a brother, George, who was in the Twenty-eighth Division and gassed at Chateau Thierry, but who finally recovered his health.

The dead soldier was gassed at St. Mihiel July 26, 1918, and when in Base Hospital 17, suffering from gas and "flu," was bombed. Some of the nurses were killed and the patients badly shocked. Langan developed pneumonia and died. His body was one of those recently restored to their families by the War Department.

WOMAN PREVENTS HOLD-UP OF MAN

Hears Victim's Cries at 87th St. and Tincum Ave. and Phones for Police

ONE SUSPECT IS CAUGHT

An attempted hold-up by two men early this morning at Eighty-seventh street and Tincum avenue was frustrated when a woman in front of whose home the affair took place summoned the police.

The victim of the attempted robbery was John McCluskey, 1125 North Second street, who says he had been visiting in the neighborhood and had become confused as to how to get home. He declares he was standing at the corner trying to decide where to get the car when the two men came along. He asked them for information, he says, and was told to follow them to Eighty-ninth street.

He walked with them, he says, until they came to a dark spot on Tincum avenue when one of the men put his hands around his throat and started to choke him, while the other began to go through his pockets.

McCluskey's cries awoke Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, whose home, facing on Tincum avenue, is the only house in the block. She fired a revolver in the air out of a window, and called up the police of the Sixty-fifth street and Woodland avenue station.

A detail led by Motorcicle Patrolman McKenna responded, and arrived in time to see the two men running away from McCluskey. They pursued them across the meadows, and finally caught one man.

The prisoner gave his name to the police as Walter Van Camp, thirty-nine years old, 8326 Harley street, and declared he was drunk and did not know what he was doing. He declared he did not know who the other man was. The latter escaped. Van Camp will have a hearing today.

McCluskey declared the hold-up man had not had time to get anything from him before they were frightened away.

MADE LOVE FROM JAIL

Philadelphia and Camden Girls Disappointed by News

A cowboy on the open range may be a desirable suitor. A cowboy in jail may not be. A definite answer must come from the fifteen Philadelphia and Camden girls who wrote coy notes expressing matrimonial inclinations to

"seven lonesome cowboys of Brownwood, Tex."

The cowboys are lonesome. They are in jail. They do live, as their letter of recent date stated, "in a handsome two-story, stone house with a stone turret at 401 Broadway." That is the Brownwood Jail. They will remain there for some time, says the Brownwood Chief of Police, who revealed the present whereabouts of the "romantic cowboys" in a letter received here yesterday.

The Chief hopes that if the fifteen maidens who wrote to the cowboys their demands as "nice-tempered girls who can cook, sew and keep house for us," they will look elsewhere for their husbands. Most probably they will.

FULL MILITARY HONORS

Private W. J. Langan Buried From Home Here

William J. Langan, private in Company F, 318th Infantry, of the Eightieth Division, who gave his life for his country in France, was buried today with the full honors of war in Westminster Cemetery, after a solemn mass of requiem at St. Bridget's Church, Falls of Schuylkill.

The youth, who was twenty-three years old when he died in a hospital October 24, 1918, lived at 4148 Ridge

He came—he saw—he conquered his filing troubles—

He had come into our storerooms merely to buy folders. He also asked about the L. B. Automatic index, which he said he had seen advertised. Wondered if we would tell him more about it?

"Certainly," said we. "That's our business." And then we explained why this filing system is the quickest and most accurate there is.

"It's a great system," said our visitor, as he filed and un-filed a few letters himself. "But I'm afraid I can't afford it. You see, my firm is trying to economize."

Trying to economize? Why, bless your heart, that's just the reason why you should install the L. B. Automatic index.

Suppose it saves you or your file clerk only twenty minutes a day? Or that, through the correct filing or un-filing of only one letter, it saves you only one order a year?

Right there the L. B. Automatic index will pay back far more than its purchase price and "earn its keep" through the years.

Write for "Vertical filing"—the best book on filing ever written.
