RUTH SPEEDING TO NEW MARK

Bambino Sixteen Days Ahead of Record—Traveling at Rate of 65 1/2 Homers a Season

JIMMY DYKES A SLUGGER

Babe Ruth selected the first appearance of Tyrus Cobb as manager of the Detroit Tigers in New York to shatter his record for home runs on consecutive days.

Ruth's two home runs yesterday placed him sixteen days ahead of his record last year.

Ruth is speeding at the rate of sixty-five and one-half homers a season. There are, however, several home-run records left for him to break.

With the heavy hitting of the present day Ruth might yet perform the feat of batting two in one inning, which was done by Love in 1894 and by C. Jones, Boston, in 1880.

Ruth's two-a-day performance was equaled yesterday by Cruise, of the Boston Nationals, and Dykes, of the Athletics.

In making four wild pitches yesterday Ring, of the Philadelphia Nationals, fell one short of equalling the record, held jointly by Cheney, formerly of the Brooklyn Nationals, who threw five in 1918, and J. Hagen, of the Philadelphia team of 1882.

The major league mark of accepting only one chance at first base was equaled by Grimm, of Pittsburgh. The Pirates player also made an error.

U. S. MUST BE AT BEST IN POLO PLAY

England's Four Is Sure to Be Good, if Not Great, and Is Favorite to Retain Cup in International Tournament

By GRANTLAND RICE
Hurlingham, England, June 15.
WHAT about England's four and England's polo chances? Unless the American four is at its best, England will retain the cup, for this veteran, well-mounted, courageous and skillful team, being content to gallop just about hard enough to get there and win.

England is replete with fine polo players. In addition to Tomkinson, Barrett, Lockett and Woodhouse, there are Buckmaster, John Traill, Rockswold and others who can go the distance. But Buckmaster, one of the greatest polo players that ever lived, has a heart that may not stand the strain of a big international match, while Traill is a bit too much of a chance taker to be risked, a whirlwind who may upset his own four as well as the enemy.

The British four has international experience all in its favor and undoubtedly is possessed of more polo craft. But it remains to be seen whether it still has enough craft to offset and put down the dash of the American team, riding and hitting hell-bent for glory.

In discussing British chances, one of the leading experts in England has the following to say about the approaching contest, with something on polo in general.

"We are all polo experts at the moment. I asked to answer is this: 'Can we beat the Americans?' The answer is I think it would not serve us right if we did not. I believe that the team that has been selected at long last is a good one.

"As to our adversaries, although I think we ought to beat them, we must make the mistake of our lives if we think that we are going to do it without a regular dog fight the whole way through. I think that the team is a great deal better one than the old four (the Waterburys, Harry Payne, Whiteley and Der Millburn), and a better one than that which we beat at Meadow Brook in 1914.

"This team rides really well, is very well mounted, it is full of ginger and it will take a great deal of stopping if we had attempted to take it on with a single lame duck in our outfit it would have beaten our heads off."
