Nancy Wynne Tells of General Pershing's Attendance at the Polo Game at Bryn Mawr Today. Handsome Gowns at Fete

THE final polo match for the Victor Montague Lycett, of 2124 Pine street, at their summer home.

Dr. and Mrs. Burton Chance will give a musical on Saturday evening at their home, Mayfield House, Radnor.

Mr. and Mrs. Moncure Biddle and their family. her daughter, Mrs. Ward Hinkson, too, will be among the spectators. Bryn Mayr has had a wonderful two weeks of polo, and the last few days, with the col wind and perfect atmosphere, have wonderful beyond words. Isn't it sen wongering beyond words. Isn't it an exquisite spot, sort of nestled down there, with its high hedges of green, which shut it out from the surrounding places, and its beautiful little clubing places, and its beautiful little clubing and wonderful sole and its beautiful little clubing. lang places, and its beautiful fittle club-bouse and wonderful polo green or field? I know it's an awful faux pas to say green for anything but golf, but if you have seen that polo field at Bryn Mawr vill agree with me that it is one of the greenest spots you have ever is me, being the spot about Philadelphia for the most wonderful variety of green bush, tree and lawn.

LAVE you ever walked along Grant M avenue in Torresdale and looked toward the river through the Foerderers' place and tried to count the various slace and tried to count the various sades of green in the trees and ferns and shrubs and bushes and vines? That sades used to belong to the Henry Bories, you know. After Mr. Borie died its, you know. After Mr. Borie and Mrs. Borie lived there a few years and Mrs. Borie lived there a few years and faslly sold it. She owns that old-faslly sold it. She owns that oldped house on Twelfth street at the corner of Sansom, you know. For several years the house was closed and Mrs. Borle lived at the Aldine, but last year, I believe, the old house was opened rar. I believe the on nouse in the lower more. We're getting like lower few York here now. In the midst of spiness we find just one house or two of that type still standing and occupied that type still standing and occupied for association sake the owner, who for association sake

There's Miss Knight's beautiful home, a Chestnut street above Sixteenth; and the Reeds' house, on the corner of Six-tenth and Chestnut, is another. I was looking at Miss Knight's the other day as I passed and thinking what a valuable ty it is and how perfectly wonderful it is to have that garden right in the middle of the business section. The inside of the house is even handner than the outside, for Miss Knight many curious and beautiful things.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tucker, of 2000
Stenton avenue, entertained informally at their home on Monday evening in honor of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Tucker. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Hoefelman, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wagner. Mrs. Sophia Goetz.
Mr. Alfred Goetz, Miss Elizabeth Tucker,
Miss Annabelle Tucker and Miss Lillian Tucker.
The wedd SAW Mrs. Van Rensselaer up at the Yarmarka this week looking She had a rather narrow girdle out the waist in soft shades of green and blue and her black lace hat was trimmed at the side with a long gyerined aigrette of black which swept erer the shoulder. Mrs. George Lorimer was also attired in a black canton crepe frock made square-necked and finished sout the neck with wide black lace over flesh-colored chiffon. Her hat was a black lace and jet beads and had a wing aigrette placed on the side fall ing down to the shoulder. Mrs. Sey-mour Davis, who was there, looked very mart in black crepe de chine and the Princess Cantacuzene, who came on to attend the fete which was given by the ommittee which bears her name, looked charming in a gown of cream canton crepe trimmed with heavy Russian em-broidery done in cream. Her cream-estered hat was faced in black and she tue a white lace veil.
