Caven Says Council Delay Will Cost City More Than $150,000

"ARGUMENTS" ARE RIDDLED

A belief that the combine in Council scheming to continue the contract system of street cleaning here next year was expressed today by Director

The Director, commenting on Council's blocking of the plan to start citywide municipal street cleaning by October 1, said he felt that the combine members would "stall along" until it was too late to advertise for equip-

A delay beyond October 1 will simply be taking $150,000 from the pockets of the taxpayers, Director Caven said. As a result the city not only will have to pay to the contractors $150,000 more than the municipal system would cost, but the delay will require the city begin its city-wide service in the middle of winter.

Means Extra Handicap "Purely a matter of subterfuge," was the way Director Caven referred to the combine's arguments, while Councilman Develin said they were "mere pretexts and not sincere."

The skirmish yesterday was seen by many as part of the fight the contractors began when the forces of good government moved to knock the contractor in fluence out of city government. Mayor Moore and a majority of the Council were elected in November, 1919 on a platform pledged to give the city municipal street cleaning. Through Director Caren the Mayor Mayor Caren the Mayor Mayor Caren the Mayor rector Caven the Mayor had proposed to extend this work over the entire city ore winter set in

Planned to Save City Money guarantee the city would save $150,000 from October 1 to January 1. Director Caven said. "By starting Oc-tober 1, we would be in better shape than on January 1, when adverse weather conditions are probable.

"Another thing that requires early action by Council is the need of funds to purchase destructors to be used for rubbish and refuse, and will require about six months to obtain and set up. The hauls to the dumps are getting longer and more costly and the destrucwould save more money for the

No Valid Excuse for Delay Councilman Develin, who voted to start municipal street cleaning over the entire city by October 1, said he can see no legal or business reason why the work should not be started then, if the Council combine did not stand in the

'Any delay will react against the city's interests and in favor of the contractors," he said. "I think some of the reasons offered for delay are mere pretexts and not sincere. The Director of Public Works is the best authority as to the saving of money in this matter, and if he says we can save $150,000 we certainly ought to do it."
