Nancy Wynne Speaks of the Illness of Miss McNeal-She Sees Several Pretty Summer Costumes-Dickie Does Away With a Present

T WAS with regret that I learned last week that Margaretta McNeal has been ill with appendicitis and has had to undergo an operation at the lankenau Hospital. It's hard enough to have to be operated upon, but to be weak and sick with the humidity as high as it was last week—well that must have been a trial.

SPEAKING of Lucy reminds me that I saw her the other day looking awhilly well in a blue frock and a small hat of gray silk and straw, which was most becoming. You know, Lucy's hair is auburn, and she has had it bobbed; and while she is not small as to height, she is one of the few girls I know who look just right with bobbed hair. She is simply dear. She is engaged to McKnight Black, you know.

SAW Pansy Scott on the street the other day looking very fetching in one of those stunning sports dresses of herma jersey cloth, made with the ated skirt and straight jersey pleared skirt and cuffs and narrow Peter Pan collar and cuffs and narrow assh of the jersey cloth. Her hat was a combination of black lace and straw a combination of black lace and straw and had a lace edge which covered the eres; you-know, one of those harem

WHILE the young married set on the Main Line is having a gay time these days giving little dinners and dances at the various houses, and the school set is gay as well, by this time next week (and it will be the "great and glorious Fourth," too), except for parties at the clubs on the Fourth, you would scarcely know there was any one out there, so many will be leaving for Europe, the West and New England. The De Witt Cuylers will go to Bar Harbor for part of July, the Rod Griscoms have gone to Watch Hill, the Bob Cassatts are going up to Newport and the Stewarts to Narragansett Pier.

DICKIE was very much interested in the lovely bureau scarf Grandma was embroidering for Aunt Emily. In fact, he was so interested that every time he got the chance he would take time he got the chance he would take it out of the drawer to look at it. Finally he was told very positively that the searf must stay in the drawer and never be put anywhere else. Well, at last the searf was finished and all wrapped up beautifully in tissue paper and ribbon in a box. When Aunt Emily came to call the box was opened and it was perfectly empty. Imagine the conwas perfectly empty. Imagine the consternation:

And then a hunt started all over the house. Finally Dickie came in from play, and Grandma had the inspiration to ask him if he had seen the pretty seaf anywhere. "Yes." said Dickie, "somebody put it in a box, and I knew it ought to be in the drawer, so I took it out and put it there." NANOY WYNNE.
