Nancy Wynne Talks of the Cantacuzene-Curtis Wedding Today and Yesterday in Nahant and Boston—She Attends the Packard Wedding Here

THOSE of us who have had the pleasure of meeting the Princess Cantacuzene Speransky, who as you know, was Miss Julia Grant, granddaughter of President Grant, on the various occasions when she has been here are especially interested in the marriage today of her eldest son, Michael Cantacuzene Speransky, to Clarianna Peiham Curtis, of Boston.

They were married yesterday afternoon at a religious ceremony in the Greek Catholic Church, Dearborn street, Boston, with the Russian Orthodox rites. The official ceremony with all the bridal party and bride in white takes place today in Nahant.

Princess Cantacuzene came on here from New York just about two weeks ago to lunch at the ritz with Mrs. Lorimer and later attended the Lorraine Diston wedding in Nahant.

LET us hope it will be cooler in Nahant, where the wedding is to be this afternoon, than it was yesterday for Betty Packard's. Was not it hot? Well, fortunately, the hour being 5 o'clock, it was cooler than it had been all day, and then being able to go out on the grounds for the reception made it cooler than I otherwise had dared to hope, but it was certainly going some, getting out there and trying to keep cool.

FRANCES SCOTT'S wedding to the Rev. Albert Lucas is to take place tomorrow in St. Mark's at 4 o'clock. I hope it will be cooler then, too. St. Mark's is a pretty cool church, however, and the ceremony does not last long. Lorraine Diston, who is to be the bridesmaid, returned home from Europe a couple of weeks ago and Mrs. Brad Fraley came with her.

DARRARA BENSON, by the way, is on her way to Northeast with her parents, the Rev. Louis C. Benson and Mrs. Benson. Her engagement to Bob Jeffreys, you remember, was announced just a couple of weeks ago. I saw her the other day looking beautiful in an organdie frock of bright orange made with a ruffled sash and short sleeves and a way hat of burnt straw edged with bright blue and white ribbon and finished with blue streamers.

JACKIE got cantaguerous the other day and decided not to eat. Well, the family reasoned with him and told him he would not live to grow up and be strong, and finally some sort of an impression was made, though growing strong seemed to be slightly mixed with a capacity for wage earning in his mind, for that night, as he knelt down for his prayers, he said: "Please make me a good, strong man, not dewyful, and let me make lots of money, Amen."

Probably no cotton Dress Fabric is more popular than navy blue voile, dotted in white. With self or white organdie or voile trimming, it fashions Frocks that are cool, becoming and serviceable.

This group offers two models: The accordion-plaited apron effect of the model pictured is an adaptation of the model shown in the accompanying illustration, and this material lends itself to the treatment in a charming manner. The second model has a surplice of organdie and lace and is decidedly youthful.
