

BRAISTED TO QUIT AND BE RENAMED

Pharmacy College Head, Whose Election Was Attacked, Finds Way to Meet Critics

TRUSTEES SUPPORT MOVE

Rear Admiral William C. Braisted will resign his disputed office as president of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and then be re-elected at the next stated meeting of the Board of Trustees, September 26.

The resignation is a move to crush his opponents, who have made the election the subject of a contest in court. They contend it was carried out at a special meeting of the Board of Trustees, and therefore not legal.

When Admiral Braisted announced his intentions at a meeting yesterday virtually the entire body of dignified trustees joined in cheers for five minutes.

George M. Beringer, leader of the opposition and one of those who carried the election fight into court, attempted to object to the resignation on the ground that that of his predecessor was only conditional.

Samuel Wetherill, Jr., recently elected to the Board of Trustees, arose to say he felt the institution should be ashamed to have put its president in such an embarrassing position.

"We have heard the opinion of the gentleman who has seen fit to bring our college into the courts," he said. "That sort of thing is all right for children, but we are here for business. I ask you to adopt the resolution which I will now read."

The resolution, censuring those who had contested the election and expressing regrets of the college to Admiral Braisted that he should have been placed in a difficult position, was given an almost overwhelming endorsement.

Announcement was made of the gift of 200 acres of land at Ridgway, Pa., by the H. K. Mulford Co. for a botanical garden and research bureau. The gift was accepted by the Board of Trustees, with a vote of thanks to the donor. Dr. Heber W. Young was appointed to take charge of the new research work.

Girl Hit by Truck in Rain

Gertrude Young, twenty-two years old, 6428 Argyle street, Lansdale, was struck by a light motortruck at 6:30 P. M. yesterday as she was crossing Benner street at Rising Sun avenue during a heavy rain. Her left leg was bruised and her face cut. She was taken to the Frankford Hospital. The driver of the truck did not stop after hitting Miss Young.

FREAK STORM DOES BIG DAMAGE HERE

Lightning Hits Churches and Hail Breaks Windows—Trees Are Blown Down

SOME SECTIONS ESCAPE

The storm of yesterday afternoon was one of the queerest kinds that this section has experienced in years. It assumed the proportions of a cloudburst in some sections of the city, while in other parts only a few drops of rain fell. Some farms in this district were drenched, others received no rain at all.

Olney and nearby farming sections received a deluge of hail and water. In West Philadelphia barely a sprinkle fell. North of Girard avenue the storm was almost a cloudburst, while south of Girard avenue scarcely any rain descended. In some other ways the storm was a freak, also.

About 5 o'clock the northern sky became overcast with purplish clouds, which worked their way toward the center of the city, then disappeared toward the south. Gusts of wind that whirled the dust around, accompanied these clouds.

Hail Breaks Windows in Olney

More than 1000 windows were broken by hailstones in Olney, while the tower of the North Presbyterian Church, Broad street and Allegheny avenue, was hit by lightning and damaged. Blocks of stone crashing to the street and narrowly missing passersby. The steeple of the Park Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Park avenue and Norris street, also was damaged by a lightning bolt.

The greenhouse of John Kuhn, 405 West Tabor road, near Olney, was damaged to the extent of $2000 by hailstones, every pane of glass in the roof being smashed by the hail, which beat down for ten minutes. Many plants in the greenhouse also were damaged. Lightning struck the main building of the Beechwood School, near the Jenkintown station of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway. It was struck by lightning about 6 o'clock last night and set on fire. The school is used as a hotel in summer time, and the 100 or more guests were panic stricken. No one was injured.

Fallen trees and telegraph poles stalled trolley cars for an hour in Hellsburg, while traffic on East Columbia avenue at Thompson street was blocked by a fallen tree. Another tree at Dauphin and Cedar streets was sent crashing down. Candles were used for lighting purposes in the police station at East Girard and Montgomery avenues, as the electric lighting system was put out of business.

Streets were flooded and house lights extinguished in many parts of the city where the rainstorm was most severe. By 7 o'clock the storm had ceased, but with little resultant coolness. Yesterday was as hot as any June 27 during the last forty-five years of Weather Bureau history.

Storm Severe in Camden

In Camden the storm was very severe. Streets were flooded and trees torn up, and many windows were broken. The roof of the house of Robert Bolan, at 1238 Knight street, was struck by lightning and a hole torn in the shingles.

Merchantville, Collingswood, Had-

don Heights, Audubon and towns in the vicinity were hit severely by the storm, while Westville, Brooklawn and National Park received no rain at all and very little wind. The storm swirled around the towns, missing them altogether. A bolt of lightning struck the home of Dr. Grafton E. Day, Haddon and Lincoln avenues, Collingswood, a part of the roof being torn away and fire starting. The flames were extinguished by the Collingswood Fire Company. Dr. Day, Mrs. Day, their daughter and Mrs. Day's sister were in the house when it was struck. Although they were stunned, they were unharmed.

Lightning struck a trolley car in Collingswood at the outbreak of the storm, blew out the fuse, set fire to the front platform and started a small panic among the passengers. People in the car said a red and blue flame effect ran through the trolley and smoke ascended from the floor. No one was hurt.

Dancing by George Guebel's Famous Musical Entertainers

Where Shall We Spend the Fourth?

We know of no better answer to the question than to suggest that you come out here to Strath Haven, where nature has donned her charming summer raiment and where one may dine and dance 'midst surroundings that are clean and beautiful. Truly, then, will time slip its tether, for there are shady walks for those who like them and at least twelve charming vistas to be seen while paddling up the "Crumm." And afterward there's the dinner at 6 o'clock, which is followed by a dance to the syncopated melodies of a five-piece orchestra. If you do come and we hope you will, come in the afternoon and visit the Tea Room—m-m-m—Chocolate Fudge Cake such as you've never tasted.

If Washington could have had motor trucks and Atlantic Gasoline!

Battles—wars—histories—would have been different had gasoline and automobiles been known in Washington's time.

For invention shapes nations' destinies; guides "the course of human events," governs industry and commerce, affects our mode of living. Because it gives us different ways of doing things.

Gasoline has given us a new means of transportation; and this year's Atlantic has especially aided the hand of Progress because it is a different—an improved—gasoline.

Quicker in action, higher in calorific units, greater in power, Atlantic is better than ever—the finest gasoline in the market today. You can feel the difference!

Puts Pep in Your Motor

Did you ever ride thirteen in a Ford?

Talk about bad luck, here's a case where they invited it—but read the letter

"I have used Diamond Tires on my Ford stage that runs from Austin to Langley, Wash., and have obtained better mileage from your tires than from any of the other standard tires I have used. My best record on this rocky road is 9,000 miles on a 30 x 3 1/2 Diamond Squeegee Tire. As many as thirteen people have been in the Ford car on one trip and the rear tires are always overloaded."
