Nancy Wynne Tells of the Death of Arthur Spencer. She Sees Smart Frocks and Talks of Wee Sma' Hours

IT WAS with great regret that I learned of the death of Arthur Donald Spencer at the Pennsylvania Hospital on Monday morning following an operation. Mrs. Spencer, who has been living with her friend, Edward Bradford, in Wilmington, where his interests were. He was taken here ten days ago and came on here to be operated on for appendicitis. After the operation complications developed which finally caused his death. Mrs. Spencer was telegraphed for and reached home five days before his death. His funeral took place yesterday at Laurel Hill.

Arthur was named after his uncle, the late Arthur Donald Smith, who lived for many years on Chestnut street between Eighteenth and Nineteenth. He is survived by his mother, one brother, Grahm Spencer, and five sisters, Mrs. Grahm Montgomery, Mrs. Charlie Potter, Mrs. Robert Hunter, Mrs. Bejard and Anne Spencer.

Arthur Spencer was an extremely popular man and his death will be greatly felt by his scores of friends.

WHAT a charming sub-deb Sally Henry is! I saw her the other day with her mother, Mrs. Gouverneur Cadwalader, looking chic in a dark blue skirt made with panels caught under the hem. She wore a red Eton jacket stitched in dark blue and her hair was fashioned of grograin ribbon, interlaced with patent leather ribbon.

BETTY is three years old and the other night was heard boasting to her small friend of four as to the late hour at which she had retired the preceding night. "I stayed late," she said, "I was out till twelve."

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES. Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Cox, of Haford, Penn., will be at home as usual on the evening of July 4. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Porter, who have been spending their wedding trip, will return in time for the affair, and many of those living around Penn. who are enjoying their house parties over the week-end will take their guests to the Coxes. There will be dancing. No cards have been sent out.

Miss Margaret H. Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Davis, of 419 West Haverford street, Germantown, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Philadelphia Club in honor of Miss Frances Wianton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Allison Scott, 2294 Pine street, who will be married today to the Rev. Albert Lewis. The guests included Miss Anne Lewis, Mrs. Fitz Eugene Dixon Newbold, Miss Lorraine Dixon, Miss Mary Dorothy Boyd, Miss Elizabeth Barr, of Wilkes-Barre; Miss Dorothy S. Spencer, of New Orleans; Miss Mary Elizabeth Ellis and Miss Marian, of Chester avenue.

DELAWARE COUNTY. Mr. and Mrs. T. Woodward Trainer are occupying their cottage at Cape May where they will remain until they return to their Chester home some time in September.

FRANKFORD. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Mathias, of 1502 Harrison street, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Betty Anne Mathias. Mrs. Mathias before her marriage was Miss Dorothy Custer.

Reunion at Longacre. A number of the former officers of the 192d Field Artillery, 24th Division, had a reunion at a luncheon on the Longacre roof on Monday. Among those present were: Lieutenant Colonel George Roth, Lieutenant Colonel Walton Clark, Major Norman Smith, Major Robert McKenrick, Lieutenant Colonel Peidman, Captain Charles N. Shaw, Jr., Captain G. Washington Morscher, Captain Harold Bromley, Lieutenant Errol Hay, Lieutenant James Duffy, Lieutenant William Wood, Lieutenant Charles Hicks, Lieutenant Harry C. Standbridge and Lieutenant George Lang. The formation of an officers' club was discussed.
