They are going to join Tony and Hope Crom-well and visit them at Cannes, where they have had a house for some time. Eton Cromwells lived abroad through the winter you know. They rented their house on Locust street to Judge Martin and his family. By the way, did you hear that Mrs. Martin has been quite ill with ptomaine poisoning? I suppose this recent severe heat helped to prostrate her, but the latest reports of her condition were that she is much better. The Martins are at nt at their place in Chestnut Hill.

TN SPITE of the heat, we have to shop, do we not? In fact, just about this time of year we are apt to find that we really have not provided enough that we really have not provided chough frocks for the summer, and so into town we go. I came upon Augusta Harrison shopping the other day, look-ing very well in a frock of dark blue georgetta crepe made with a pointed overskirt and short sleeves. She was wearing a very becoming hat of corncolored straw, trimmed with daisies.

UNT JANEY gave Molly five cents A the other day, and every one was much impressed with what Molly would buy at the candy store when she went there later in the day. Well, she went out walking with nurse that afternoon and went into one of the big stores.

Going to the counter, she asked for "five-cents worth of minties." "Sorry. "five-cents' worth of minties." "Sorry but we don't sell less than a quarter of a pound." said the girl. "Well." said Molly obligingly. "give me five cents' worth of chocolates." "Sorry but we do not sell less than ten cents' worth." answered the attendant.

Molly. who is five, gave it up by that time and started walking out of the store, leaving the nickel on the store, leaving the nickel on the store, leaving the nickel on the saleswoman, "you left your nickel."

"Oh." said Molly. "you can have it; you can't buy anything with it, any way."
