JEWELS AND MONEY

South Sixth Street Jeweler Enticed into Auto by Thugs

BOY BANDITS CAPTURED

Max Tannbaum, 2517 South Sixth street, a wholesale jeweler merchant, was robbed of $2500 in jewels and money last night after he had been enticed into a motor car by a man who knew of a relative. This was one of a lengthy series of robberies reported to police over the holidays. Pickpockets, thieves and bandits worked overtime. Tannbaum speaks only Yiddish. Through an interpreter he told the police he had just left a jewelry store near Sixth and Tasker streets, after delivering some jewels he had sold, when an automobile stopped opposite him and a man in the rear seat addressed him. The car and the Negro chauffeur resembled his brother's car, said Mr. Tannbaum, your cousin in West Philadelphia wants to see you in a hurry," he was unsuspecting and got in. Drive to Parkway The car was driven to Broad street. Tannbaum said, and there two other men jumped in. Then they went out Broad, frequently turning off into side streets, to the Roosevelt Boulevard. Out the boulevard one of the men stuck a gun in the victim's ribs, he said, and ordered in Yiddish, "Don't say a word." Then they stripped him of money and jewelry, keeping up their hiding place in the last jewel from its search after he protested they had all and gleaming the last jewel from its hiding place in his vest pocket. They took every cent he had, $250, besides the jewelry that brought the whole to $2500. They then threw him out of the car, and his head was cut. He wandered to Tenth street before he could find any one to understand him. A man who spoke Yiddish finally gave him care, and after he was home he reported to the police of the Third and Dickinson streets station, who in turn communicated with the Branchtown station. At midnight Frank Monts, living at Fifteenth and Spring Garden streets, was held up and robbed by two men at Thirteenth and Callowhill streets. According to the story, Monts told the police, the highwaymen stopped him and asked for a match and when informed that he had none one of them struck a gun against his stomach and relieved him of a diamond stick pin and $31 in cash. Three hours later Fred Belky, 1524 North Merwin street, was aroused from a sleep on a step at Darien and Parrish streets by three Negroes. One demanded fifteen cents and when this was not forthcoming the three seized Belky and took his watch and chain. Belky called for help and Patrolman Harold Smith, of the Eighth and Jefferson streets police station, crossing into the Eighth district, gave chase. He caught Lloyd Carmish, who said he lived at 1008 Lemon street. Belky's watch and chain were found in Carmish's pocket. While Carmish and his pals were sticking up Belky, two more Negroes were busy robbing the tailoring establishment of Mike Kudrey, 920 Poplar street. These men, who threw a brick through the window of the front door, worked fast in getting out with two bolts of cloth, but they were not fast enough to evade the clutches of a patrolman from the Eighth and Jefferson streets station, who, aroused by the crash of glass, succeeded in capturing Lonney Clark, who says he lives at 916 North Jessup street, and James Walker, who gives his address at 654 North Jessup street. These men were identified by Herman Gilman, of 814 North Marshall street.

Built like a filing cabinet ought to be—

Library Bureau Steel card and filing cabinets are not merely "strong as steel." That is important, of course. But you want more than strength in your filing cabinets.

A filing cabinet may be as everlasting as the Rock of Gibraltar, but it isn't worth a whoop if it doesn't do the work a filing cabinet is supposed to do.

It means something, therefore, when we say that L. B. Steel card and filing cabinets are built for constant, day-by-day, year-after-year service.

Endurance is built into them as a matter of course. And an unmatched beauty of design and finish to harmonize with the furnishing of offices where good taste counts.

But most important of all is the fact that L. B. Steel card and filing cabinets are a reflection of Library Bureau's forty-four years of experience in the better handling of office records. It is this experience that transforms them from empty shells to filing cabinets that handle your letters and records better than they have ever been handled before. Come in and see them!

Reno Lorenzen's Blow Over Heart Fatal to Frank Lee in Germantown

LAD WEEPS OVER TRAGEDY

Seventeen-year-old Frank Lee, 8112 Norwood street, was killed by Reno Lorenzen, fifteen years old, while the boys were sparring in fun yesterday at Gravers Lane Station. One blow that landed over Lee's heart caused his death. Lorenzen, who lives at 200 Benet street, surrendered to the Germantown police. On hearing of the death of Lee at the police station the youthful prisoner burst into tears. He said he and Lee were boxing in a friendly way. While the boys were playing they found an old wash boiler and dragged it to the rear of the railroad station. Lee stood on the boiler and Lorenzen said in fun, "Get down from there or I'll knock your block off." Lee made some reply, and the boys engaged in a scuffle. Lee suddenly fell to the ground from a blow over the heart. When he did not arise his companions were frightened. A passenger at the station had Lee sent to the Chestnut Hill Hospital. Physicians there said the blow had caused instant death. Lee's mother is a widow. He had a brother and sister, both of whom were younger than he. Mrs. Lee said her son was not strong and had been ill recently.

OVEN BAKED BEANS

with Tomato Sauce

Good news from the kitchen! A fragrant whiff that adds zest to the appetite! A foretaste of what's coming! The assurance of a delicious meal—all ready to eat in just no time at all!

Heinz Baked Beans are good, rich, mealy and wholesome because they are oven baked. This preserves the real bean flavor and the real bean nutriment, and thus gives you the most food value for your money.

Blended with the rich oven baked bean flavor is the delicious tang of the Tomato Sauce made famous by its use in the preparation of some of the "57".

So the good news "from the kitchen" is really from the spotless kitchens of Heinz.

Save Labor In Summer

There are many things that make the home-work easier, but which many homes lack because the cost is rather heavy to add to the household expenditures all at once. For instance, the electric clothes washer, dishwasher, ironing machine, sewing machine, vacuum sweeper, fireless cooker, etc. But our—

Deferred Payment

—System makes it easy to own any of these or new furniture, or anything not in the weekly or monthly expense budget. Any responsible person may take advantage of this plan—the payments extended over a period of time—the amount purchased governing the time extended.
