

5 CHINESE SAILORS NABBED IN ESCAPE

Men Jump From Ship, Swim Ashore and Are Caught After Fight

WANTED A REAL MEAL

Five Chinese sailors escaped from the Japanese steamer Chile Maru, anchored in the Delaware off Gloucester, early this morning and were captured in the yard of the New York Shipbuilding Co. after a fight with the police.

The five sailors said they were dissatisfied with the food served on the ship and wanted to get ashore to taste the choice viands of the cafes in Philadelphia's Chinatown.

Shortly after 4 o'clock this morning they crawled from their berths to a spot on the deck where obliging shadows hid them from the night watch. They dropped into the stream, one at a time. The man on watch heard five splashes and a few moments later saw as many dark forms swimming smoothly through the water. The men made for the New Jersey shore.

An alarm was sounded and two members of the crew put out in boats after the escaping sailors.

The men in the boat reached the shore ahead of the Chinese and informed the police at the shipyard. When within about twenty yards of the shore the Chinese shifted their course. Three swam to the north yard and two to the south yards of the shipbuilding plant.

Several police were sent along the shore. As the sailors climbed ashore, dripping wet, they were ordered to surrender.

The men showed fight for a few minutes, but on being convinced that odds were against them, surrendered. They were turned over to the immigration authorities at Gloucester. They are Yung Wing, Chang Wung, Ling Fong, Way Yu and Ho Chin.

They will be sent back to the ship.

HERE'S ONE TO SHOOT AT

Camden Boys, Held for Theft, Set Record for Nerve, Police Say

For consummate nerve, Camden police say, fourteen-year-old Roy Erwin has broken the record. James Collins, twelve years old, of Mount Vernon street, held for the juvenile court on a charge of being implicated with Erwin and Harry Pritchett, said in a statement to City Detective Whelan that they walked into a store on Fourth street near Mount Vernon to rob the cash drawer.

In the absence of the proprietor Erwin waited on a customer for twenty cents' worth of ice cream, pocketed the money and then, leisurely strolling back of the counter, took $20 from the money drawer and walked out. The boy is being sought by the police.

FIRE FOLLOWS EXPLOSION

Fifth Street Paint Supply Store is Damaged

An explosion in the basement of the paint supply store and dwelling of Charles Paritsky, 2814 North Fifth street, last night at 8 o'clock caused a fire which badly damaged the two-story brick structure. The loss is placed at $500.

The explosion, accompanied by a terrific report, broke window panes in nearby houses and created something like a panic in the vicinity. Residents ran out of their homes carrying their valuables. No one was injured. The explosion was caused when flames came in contact with gasoline stored in the basement.
