Rose Demanico. Albion. N. J., are the two women who have spoken for three of the five little girls left motherless last Wednesday when Mrs. Margaret Lucairetheh was murdered on her doorstep in the rear of 122 Spruce street.

Both women are childless.

Mrs. Chapman is a daughter of the late William Coles, of Camden, and is manager of a Chestnut street gown shop.

"I read about these poor little girls,"

Wrs. Chapman said, "and I could not work in the day time.

Mrs. Rose Demanico, whose husband is manager of the Pine Valley Golf Links, wants the two youngest of the Lucairetheh children. Victoria and Annie. She is anxious that the little ones have advantage of the fine fresh air and country food and feels that they will thrive in her care.

Both of these foster mothers are making application to the Catholic Children's Bureau, 1708 Vine street, in the children.

& CLOTHIER STRAWBRIDGE

Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday Will Be Inspection Days Prior to Our

August Sale of

Days of utmost importance to all who plan to select Furniture during August-for they afford an opportunity for leisurely shopping around and careful comparison in order to determine just where the best values are to be had. As has been the case heretofore, proper use of these inspection Days will mean GREATER SAVINGS than anticipated and insure lasting satisfaction. Therefore, use them well. Do not decide until comparison has revealed where your dollars will command greatest Furniture value. Compare! Compare! COMPARE!

In addition to our great regular stock at substantial reductions from prices already down to the new lower levels, we shall have many large special purchases at the most extraordinary savings.

NOTE:—It is not the purpose of this announcement to influence your decision in the matter of where to buy Furniture during August. Its purpose is to emphasize the necessity of CAREFUL, OPEN-EYED buying at a time when every dollar must do its full extra duty.
