

JAPAN WILL HEAR MOTHER OF MARQUISE

Mrs. S. T. Henning, of International Fame as Stock Breeder, to Discuss Dairying

By a Staff Correspondent
Atlantic City, Aug. 15.—Four hundred miles away from her beloved blue grass Kentucky, Mrs. S. T. Henning, internationally known as head of a famous stock farm at Shelbyville, Ky., was discovered today in Atlantic City. Mrs. Henning is the mother of the Marquise de Charette, whose marriage to Suzanne Henning to a Marquis descended directly from King Charles X of France was attended by nobles of two continents. It is with the Marquise and her little daughter Suzanne, now on a visit to America, that she is staying at the shore.

If Mrs. Henning supervised her stock farms in the same way some magistrates run their corporations, to find her sitting leisurely on the porch of a big shore hotel would not be at all surprising. But this is a different sort of directing. It is not done over the long distance telephone nor, it may be added, over a tray sent up for breakfast in bed.

"I am up at 6:30 every morning," she explained placidly, "and very soon after that I am out making the rounds of the barns and the farms. There is, of course, a well-appointed office, but it is strictly utilitarian as well as beautiful. I am in it every morning."

Sold Jersey Bull for $7000
For many years the Hennings have figured prominently in New York, Kentucky and continental social circles. Millions have been known to come in and go, but all of this does not seem to give Mrs. Henning as much satisfaction as the fact that at her last sale one Jersey bull alone proved of such pure breed and record that he brought $7000. A pair of twin calves brought $1000 and the average per head of the whole sale was $800, which was a record.

Mrs. Henning has been asked by the Emperor of Japan to come to his country with an interpreter and lecture on dairying. It is quite likely that she will go.

"How did I come to 'get into it'?" Mrs. Henning said. Her voice was pleasantly low and her face of that attractive gentleness that goes with refinement of feature. Her eyes are blue and she smiles frequently.

"The story goes way back," she continued. "The land now partly covered by the farms was an original Colonial grant to Major Allen. My mother was an Allen. She was a widow and the responsibility of the farms eventually fell on her shoulders. She went to the Island of Jersey herself and brought back the first Jersey ever brought into Shelby County. For the day there are more Jerseys in the county than on the Island of Jersey itself."

It was in 1906 that Mrs. Henning took over the direction of the farms. Shortly afterward she made a trip to the Island of Jersey and brought back a fresh importation of Jersey. She went into the project determined to leave nothing unlearned that had any bearing on it. As a result she now holds the record for milk and butter production in the State of Kentucky, and also holds the grand championship. Recently a commission from Japan selected her place as a model stock farm to take moving pictures of for showing in Japan.

The Marquise, who with her little daughter Suzanne is here on a visit from France, is keenly interested in her mother's work, and will return to Kentucky to accompany her on a trip she will shortly make showing her Jerseys. This interesting mother, by the way, is the only woman member of the American Jersey Cattle Club.

During the war Mrs. Henning added to her activities the breeding of hogs. Only the very most are selected for selling. For instance, at a sale to be held in September, only fifty from 200 bred will be put forth. The "culls" will be the word is Mrs. Henning's will put through the slaughter and put on the market as country ham and bacon. The entire product of the culls already has been sold.

The original grant of land to Major Allen was 5000 acres. Thousands of visitors to the Blue Grass region do not consider their tour complete without a tour of the Allen Dale Farms, and the register contains the names of celebrities from all over the country. Not the most unheralded of these were the four grandsons of Brigham Young.

FIREMAN HURT IN FALL
Tumbles Three Stories in Blaze at 1209 Columbia Avenue
Morton Eyre, 2060 North Bonnell street, a fireman, was seriously injured last night when he fell thirty feet from a ladder during a fire in a building occupied by Morris Falstein, 1209 Columbia avenue.

In sight of spectators watching the flames eat their way through the building, Eyre fell from the ladder resting against the third-floor window. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital suffering from internal injuries and a broken right ankle.

No one knows how the fire started. Falstein and his family, police say, were away for the day. Before the flames were noticed they had spread through the greater part of the interior.

Ladders were thrown against the structure, from which hose lines might be played on the blaze in the upper stories. Upon the first ladder thrown up Eyre carried a line. A few moments after he reached the top the ladder tottered and the fireman fell to the ground.

NOT THIEF—ONLY THIRSTY
Suspect Says 3 A. M. Call Was Merely to Get Some Beer
Joseph S. Johnson, a Philadelphian who has a summer home in Gloucester, had his house robbed last night by burglars who paid him a visit merely to get a drink. He was awakened shortly before 3 o'clock by three men who threatened him with a revolver and then ransacked his home, taking $107 in cash, a watch and two rings. They also drank half a case of beer, according to Johnson.

Andrew Hubbard was arrested by Detective Blackburn, of Gloucester, as he left Johnson's house, but the others escaped. At a hearing this morning before Mayor Anderson, Hubbard said they had gone to Johnson's house just to get a drink and denied any intention of robbing him. He was held in $500 bail.

MRS. OAKLEY NOT ON JURY
Wife of Illustrator Could Not Be Located, Sheriff's Office Says
Mrs. Anne E. Oakley, 605 Clinton street, whose name appeared on the list of jurors selected for service in Quarter Sessions Court to begin service today, was not located, according to the return made to Judge Davis by the Sheriff's office. It was said she is out of the city.

Mrs. Oakley is the wife of Thornton Oakley, illustrator, the son of Mrs. Margaret B. Oakley, prominent in civic work who recently served on a criminal jury in Quarter Sessions Court No. 2.

The TRIBUNE IS FIRST IN CHICAGO

Circulation

LARGEST morning daily circulation in America, July average, 479,695. Second largest Sunday circulation in America, July average, 788,161. Largest circulation in Chicago and suburbs, July Sunday average, 450,723, which is 89,891 more than that of the nearest competitor—an evening paper.

This evening paper claims that with 360,832 circulation (in 7 overlapping editions) it reaches 7 out of 9 of the English reading people of Chicago and suburbs. If this is true, The Sunday Tribune with its 89,000 ADDITIONAL circulation (only one Sunday Tribune to any home, and practically every one of the 450,723 copies right into the home) must reach MORE than ALL of the English readers of this metropolis!

Advertising

First in want advertising—first in display advertising—first in total advertising. In July The Tribune printed one-fifth more want advertising than the other five Chicago papers combined.

In July The Tribune led in the following 22 out of the 29 main divisions of display advertising. This includes each division which used as much as 5,000 lines in the six papers combined.

- | | | |
|----------------------|-------------------------|------------------------|
| Advertising Agencies | Educational | Opticians |
| Amusements | Financial | Public Utilities |
| Automobiles | Furniture | Publishers |
| Building Material | Groceries | Railroads |
| Clothing | Hardware | Resorts |
| Coal | Heating and Ventilating | Restaurants and Hotels |
| Confectionery | Musical Instruments | Tobacco |
| | | Trunks and Bags |

The Tribune was SECOND in these 3 divisions, in which The News was First, except Dental, which The Tribune rejects:

- | | | |
|-------------------|--------|---------------------|
| Department Stores | Dental | Household Utilities |
|-------------------|--------|---------------------|

The Herald-Examiner was first in:

- | | |
|---------------------|----------|
| Toilet Preparations | Printers |
|---------------------|----------|

The American was first in:

- | | |
|----------|---------|
| Jewelers | Medical |
|----------|---------|

Although The News leads in Department Stores, the largest single division, The Tribune leads in State Street Department Store lineage from "above-the-street-level" departments—in other words, from the main body of the store.

BOOK of FACTS

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S 1921 BOOK OF FACTS will be sent free of charge to any selling organization requesting it on business stationery. Its 80 pages are packed full of valuable data on markets and merchandising. In addition it contains reproductions of The Tribune's series of advertisements on the themes "1921 will reward FIGHTERS" and
