

LOST MILLIONAIRE REPORTED FOUND

Dazed and Legless Man Secretly by Des Moines Sleuth as Ambrose Small

$50,000 REWARD AT STAKE

By the Associated Press Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 15.—A man of mystery who, according to Frank Hart, former assistant chief of police, has been under surveillance here for six months as Ambrose Small, missing Toronto theatre owner, may be brought from his place of hiding today, Hart announced.

Hart said he was certain that the man is the Toronto millionaire for whom a worldwide search has been in progress since his disappearance in December, 1919. Hart said he had been in communication with Toronto authorities and that some one would be here from the Canadian city either today or tomorrow to verify the identity of the man. He said Mrs. Small might come to Des Moines.

Hart refused to discuss the condition of the man he claims to be Small, but John J. Brophy, former chief of detectives, who with Marshall Miller, former superintendent of Public Safety, assigned Hart in his investigation, said that the man is living in an isolated farm house just outside of the city limits, and that he could be reached in an hour's time when wanted.

Man Legless and Dazed Brophy stated reports that the man is legless and said he appears to be dazed. Brophy intimated, however, that he was injured by a train and was by gunshot wounds, as previously reported.

Brophy said the man believed to be Small was brought to Des Moines more than a year ago. He was identified as "Yes" or "No," and frequently mentioned a reward of $50,000 has been offered for Small's return to Toronto.

Local police officials today were inclined to question the story given out by the detectives.

Small's disappearance on the same day that he received a million-dollar check in a business deal, followed soon after by the disappearance of John Doughty, his confidential secretary, and the vanishing of Victory bonds valued at $150,000, caused a world-wide search which seldom has been paralleled.

Starting life as a newsboy, Small had risen to the dominant figure in the Eastern Canadian theatrical world. On December 2, 1919, he disposed of a part of his holdings to the Toronto-Canada Limited for approximately $1,750,000. A check for $1,000,000 was given him and he deposited this in a Toronto bank. That day he met for the first time a man who, it was said, would be home to dinner at 7 o'clock that evening. He was last seen by a newsboy who daily supplied him with papers.

Kept Secret Three Weeks His disappearance was not made public by his wife for three weeks. It was asserted that Small had disappeared once before and that later it had developed that he was away on a "party." Because of a tendency in this direction he was supposed to have made a separation agreement with his wife, which had not been carried out.

A week later the case was given a new and sinister aspect by the disappearance of Doughty and the discovery that Small had disappeared from Mrs. Small's safety deposit vault at a bank. Mrs. Small raised the reward she had offered to $50,000 and then to $50,000, adding an additional $15,000 for the discovery of the secretary.

Then Doughty was arrested in Oregon City, Ore., through an identification made by an amateur detective. After being brought to Toronto, he led officials to a cache hidden at the home of his sister, where $105,000 worth of the missing bonds were found.

Doughty, while arrested for grand larceny and kidnapping, was tried only on the larceny charge. He was found guilty and sentenced to six years' imprisonment at hard labor.

MOTORCARS INJURE FOUR

Boy, Two Men and Woman All Slightly Hurt

Four persons were injured in automobile accidents yesterday and, although all required hospital treatment, none was seriously hurt.

While playing near Trenton avenue and Huntington street, ten-year-old Charles Decker, 2155 East Albert street, was struck and injured by a street car.

While playing near Trenton avenue and Huntington street, ten-year-old Charles Decker, 2155 East Albert street, was struck and injured by a street car.

Benjamin Zorski, twenty-two years old, of 3228 Woodland avenue, was injured on the face and body when his machine became unmanageable and he was thrown and plunged into a ditch on the Rockville road, West Manayunk.

Other persons injured were Nicholas Pisano, twenty-two years old, of 629 Kimball street, and Mrs. George Baker, 3517 York road. Pisano received a fracture of the wrist when he was struck by an automobile at Seventh and Carpenter streets, and Mrs. Baker was driven into a ditch when the machine struck her while she was riding in a Torresdale trolley car at Rhawn and Montague streets.

11 PRIESTS ORDAINED

Includes One Philadelphia, the Rev. James McDonnell

Eleven priests were ordained this morning by Cardinal Dougherty at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Germantown, enrolling them into the order of the Congregation of the Mission Fathers. The list includes one Philadelphia, the Rev. James McDonnell, of Germantown; the others are the Revs. Thomas McCallen, James McDonnell, Devereaux, Henry Zandine, Arthur Hamilton, John Dunn, Joseph Dunn and Thomas O'Connor.

Father McDonnell will celebrate his first mass next Sunday in St. Vincent's Church, Germantown, where he was baptized.

The candidates were elevated to the priesthood yesterday at mass in St. Vincent's Seminary by the cardinal. A sub-deaconship was conferred at the same time on Joseph Kerper, who recently completed his theological studies at Orchard Lane.

HERE TO PLAY FOR WORLD'S TENNIS TITLE

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen met by a battery of movie cameramen as she arrived in New York on the steamer Paris. She will meet America's best women tennis players for the world's championship

CLIMAX IS NEAR IN MAYOR'S FIGHT

Only Week Remains for Filing Nomination Papers—Moore "Off Fishing"

WAIT ON SENATOR PENROSE

Mayor Moore's fight on the fifty-fifty combine is rapidly approaching a climax. Only a week remains before the last day for filing nomination papers August 23—rolls around. By that time the lines must be drawn and the candidates who are to battle with the Organization selections must be filed.

In the meantime Philadelphia politicians are awaiting word from Washington. Senator Penrose has told a number of his callers recently, including the Mayor, that he was opposed to a fifty-fifty ticket and the restoration of the Vares to city leadership. Indications from Washington are that Penrose is about to say something.

Mayor Not at Desk

Mayor Moore was not present in his office today, as had been expected, but was "off fishing somewhere," according to his staff. There was an air of mystery hovering over the Mayor's office, which led some of the doubters to speculate whether the fishing was at Island Heights, the Mayor's summer home, or in the troubled waters of Washington.

It became known that some of the Mayor's strongest supporters — among them Andrew Frosch, Administration leader of the Forty-second Ward, and Harry J. Trainer, who represents the Mayor in the Third Ward—had gone to Washington to see Senator Penrose.

In connection with the possibility of an early declaration in support of the Mayor coming from Senator Penrose was the conference Saturday between Penrose and former Judge Gordon. Mr. Gordon is special counsel for the Mayor, particularly in police matters. The general impression is that Judge Gordon called on the senior United States Senator for the purpose of re-energizing Mayor Moore's demand for a show-down. The Mayor has called on Penrose to declare publicly against the Vares.

Gordon's Mysterious Answer

Judge Gordon, when questioned as to his talk with Senator Penrose, gave a mysterious answer. It might be interpreted to mean that Penrose will shortly sound the alarm against the Vares.

"Did I talk politics with Senator Penrose?" Mr. Gordon said today. "I certainly did not. You know the fall will soon be here, and so my son and I drove down from my farm in Westtown to see Senator Penrose about my seeds for my fall planting. I think the winter wheat crop will be good. My son, the Assistant District Attorney, went with me to speed up some extradition matters for Mr. Rotan."

"Did you get the seeds?" he was asked. "Not yet, but soon," was Mr. Gordon's reply.

In the Vares camp the leaders profess an utter lack of interest in anything that may be said by Senator Penrose. They do say, however, that Penrose will not be in a hurry to say anything. They seem to feel confident that Tom Cunningham and President Judge Brown have been successful in painting the gloom of the combine. It is a safe bet, however, said the Moore men, that Judge Gordon struck a mailed fist through the curtains in the course of his conference with Penrose.

The Vares are going ahead on the theory that if they do not get two places out of the five on the county ticket, they will be ready for a factional battle all along the line. If there is a straight out-and-out fight, the Varet ticket will be headed by Judge Rogers for District Attorney, while the Moore-Penrose Voters League ticket will be headed by District Attorney Rotan.

Vare Stands Pat

Senator Vare contends that if there be harmony, his friends must be recognized by the slating of W. Freeland Kendrick for Receiver of Taxes and Thomas F. Watson for City Treasurer. Because of the heavy fire that has been directed against his demand, some of the Penrose leaders have been working to reduce the Vares demands to one place on the ticket. Watson for City Treasurer. So far Senator Vare has refused to haul down his flag.

Mayor Moore's position is that Pen-

RUSSIAN DEADLOCK DELAYS U. S. FOOD

Soviet Insists on Control of Personnel of Relief Workers

POINTS PUT UP TO HOOVER

By the Associated Press Riga, Latvia, Aug. 15.—A deadlock was reached today in negotiations relating to American relief for Russia's famine sufferers, between the American relief administration and Maxim Litvinov, acting on behalf of the Soviet Relief Committee.

Whether the American relief administration will compromise on some of its usual methods and allow Russia greater control of the personnel and distribution of American food than has been granted any other country which has been aided, has been put up to Herbert Hoover, head of the relief administration, by Walter Lyman Brown, its European director.

Pending a reply from Mr. Hoover, the conferees will discuss minor points, but Litvinov, it is understood, will stand firm in his refusal to sign some of the American conditions unless ordered so to do by the Moscow government.

The Rosta agency reports that the newspapers in Moscow have published an announcement that all Americans wishing to leave Russia must apply to the Foreign Office for visas, producing identification documents. Some Americans, among them Royal C. Keely, are expected out in a few days, as M. Litvinov has been made aware that the Americans would like to see one or two citizens out before an agreement is signed.

Paris, Aug. 15.—The fundamental idea inspiring Russia's foreign policy is the revival of agriculture and industry, says a lengthy statement by M. Chicherin, Bolshevik Foreign Minister, printed by Humanist yesterday. He declares the basis of the foreign policy is the economy of Russia must apply to Russia with the capitalist States.

DELAY PENROSE INQUEST

May Not Be Held Until Middle of Week

Norman Penrose, young ex-service man, of Ogontz and Doylestown, who shot and killed his brother, Ralph Penrose, followed by a lengthy statement by M. Chicherin, Bolshevik Foreign Minister, printed by Humanist yesterday. He declares the basis of the foreign policy is the economy of Russia must apply to Russia with the capitalist States.

Charles C. H. Robinson, seventy-four years old, of 402 Arch street, died in the Philadelphia Hospital yesterday morning after a short illness, following a paralytic stroke. Mr. Robinson had followed the sea twenty-five years, and he had been captain of several steamships. He retired about five years ago. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Amanda Baker, of this city, and Miss Ida Robinson, of Arco, N. J. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday at his home.

Dr. H. W. Mindel

Dr. H. W. Mindel, formerly of 2802 Girard avenue, who practiced medicine in Philadelphia forty-two years, died yesterday in Wildwood while on the way to the station to be brought to a hospital in this city for treatment. He was seventy years old.

Dr. Mindel was graduated from Jefferson Medical College in 1873. Since his retirement several years ago he had lived in Wildwood. He leaves a widow and son. Death was the result of heart disease.

Dr. Philip Y. Eisenberg

Norristown, Pa., Aug. 15.—Dr. Philip Y. Eisenberg is dead after a long illness. For half a century he practiced medicine in Norristown. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania. He taught in Millersville State Normal School following service in the Civil War.

FINE FRAMING PAINTINGS CLEANED AND RESTORED

THE ROSENBAK GALLERIES 1220 Walnut Street

HOUSES WIRED

VERY REASONABLY VISIT OUR SHOWROOMS RELIABLE GAS & ELEC. FIXTURE CO., 1511 Arch St.

$8850

$1500 Cash New McClatchy Homes

Many surprises to be found in these new, twin, stone-front homes. All-copper rain spouting. Open daily, 9 to 6:30. See the Furnished Sample House.

John H. McClatchy 69th St., opposite Market St. Elevated Terminal

How Fast with Comfort

Learn what the Marmon 34 can do in comparison with other cars. A demonstration of the Marmon 34 given gladly.

THE HATCH MOTORS CO. DISTRIBUTORS 720 N. BROAD ST. - PHILA.

Templar Motors, Inc., of Pa. 822 North Broad St.

Templar

We guarantee TEMPLAR cars not to exceed $50 in repairs the first year. It is a fact that TEMPLAR owners get over 20 miles to one gallon of gasoline; 15,000 miles to one set of tires.

Templar Motors, Inc., of Pa. 822 North Broad St.

THE HATCH MOTORS CO. DISTRIBUTORS 720 N. BROAD ST. - PHILA.

MEN AT MT. GRETTA BEGIN LAST WEEK

Big Day and Night Hike to Be Complicated by Cavalry's Participation

END WITH FIELD MEET

Special Dispatch to Evening Public Ledger Camp Sigerfoos, Mt. Gretna, Pa., Aug. 15.—This morning the 3000 officers and men of the Pennsylvania National Guard in camp here entered upon their last week of training with new enthusiasm following a week-end devoted to rest and the entertainment of friends.

The feature of the program for the last five days of instruction is a big day-and-night hike, which will be more complicated than any yet held because of the presence of 1200 cavalrymen. On Friday, the last day of camp, the men will return from their hike and prepare for the homeward movement and the field meet, which will form an afternoon of sporting activity for all the men in camp.

Today the cavalrymen began the more complicated maneuvers of riding while the members of the Provisional Infantry Regiment spent their time in the block areas and on the rifle range. The regular army instructors in charge of the specialized training contemplate the most strenuous work for the first two days of the week. The rest of the time will be utilized in putting the finishing touches upon the soldiers, most of whom were but new recruits when the camp opened a week ago.

Rains Halt Rifle Matches

The rifle competition scheduled for Saturday and Sunday at the rifle range under the direction of Colonel George E. Kemp was not completed owing to rain and continued showers yesterday. Saturday one team of thirty men each from the four regiments in camp began a rifle match for the honor of the best team in camp. Sunday the fifteen with the highest scores from each regiment competed for the final round. Only a little shooting was done in the morning owing to the weather. This morning Colonel Kemp said he expected the match would be finished Tuesday afternoon.

A feature of the services about camp yesterday was the one held in front of the headquarters of the Fifty-second Cavalry Brigade by Captain John L. Lee, chaplain of the 103d Cavalry. A large number of guardsmen and especially visitors, attended. Chaplain Lee delivered an impressive sermon on "The Citizen Soldier." He appealed to the men as upholders of the highest ideals of righteousness and purity. He exhorted them to show themselves worthy of those who laid the foundations of our country and built the walls in such glory and strength.

Band Plays Sacred Music

The regimental band, from Philadelphia, R. E. McKee, leader, played special sacred selections. As a departure from the usual camp service an instrumental quartet played "The Holy City." Major General William G. Price, division commander; General Edward C. Shannon, commander of the Fifty-sixth Infantry Brigade; and Colonel Theodore D. Boal, of Philadelphia, were guests at the worship.

The polo match, which was postponed yesterday afternoon on account of rain, will in all probability be played tomorrow afternoon, according to General John P. Wood, commander of the Fifty-second Cavalry Brigade.

MEN AT MT. GRETTA BEGIN LAST WEEK

Big Day and Night Hike to Be Complicated by Cavalry's Participation

END WITH FIELD MEET

Special Dispatch to Evening Public Ledger Camp Sigerfoos, Mt. Gretna, Pa., Aug. 15.—This morning the 3000 officers and men of the Pennsylvania National Guard in camp here entered upon their last week of training with new enthusiasm following a week-end devoted to rest and the entertainment of friends.

The feature of the program for the last five days of instruction is a big day-and-night hike, which will be more complicated than any yet held because of the presence of 1200 cavalrymen. On Friday, the last day of camp, the men will return from their hike and prepare for the homeward movement and the field meet, which will form an afternoon of sporting activity for all the men in camp.

Today the cavalrymen began the more complicated maneuvers of riding while the members of the Provisional Infantry Regiment spent their time in the block areas and on the rifle range. The regular army instructors in charge of the specialized training contemplate the most strenuous work for the first two days of the week. The rest of the time will be utilized in putting the finishing touches upon the soldiers, most of whom were but new recruits when the camp opened a week ago.

Rains Halt Rifle Matches The rifle competition scheduled for Saturday and Sunday at the rifle range under the direction of Colonel George E. Kemp was not completed owing to rain and continued showers yesterday.

Saturday one team of thirty men each from the four regiments in camp began a rifle match for the honor of the best team in camp. Sunday the fifteen with the highest scores from each regiment competed for the final round. Only a little shooting was done in the morning owing to the weather. This morning Colonel Kemp said he expected the match would be finished Tuesday afternoon.

A feature of the services about camp yesterday was the one held in front of the headquarters of the Fifty-second Cavalry Brigade by Captain John L. Lee, chaplain of the 103d Cavalry. A large number of guardsmen and especially visitors, attended. Chaplain Lee delivered an impressive sermon on "The Citizen Soldier." He appealed to the men as upholders of the highest ideals of righteousness and purity. He exhorted them to show themselves worthy of those who laid the foundations of our country and built the walls in such glory and strength.

Band Plays Sacred Music The regimental band, from Philadelphia, R. E. McKee, leader, played special sacred selections. As a departure from the usual camp service an instrumental quartet played "The Holy City." Major General William G. Price, division commander; General Edward C. Shannon, commander of the Fifty-sixth Infantry Brigade; and Colonel Theodore D. Boal, of Philadelphia, were guests at the worship.

The polo match, which was postponed yesterday afternoon on account of rain, will in all probability be played tomorrow afternoon, according to General John P. Wood, commander of the Fifty-second Cavalry Brigade.

Blind Soldiers' Friend

MISS WINIFRED HOLT

WINIFRED HOLT DECORATED

Friend of Blinded Soldiers Receives Insignia of Legion of Honor

Paris, Aug. 15.—Miss Winifred Holt, sculptress, was among five Americans decorated with the insignia of the Legion of Honor by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the list being published this morning. The others were Charles Holman-Black, singer; Ernest Tower Rosen, a painter who resides in Paris; Sidney B. Veit, a business man in Paris; and William Huguet, a writer, who also resides in Paris.

Miss Winifred Holt's fame as a sculptress, well established in the world of art and with the American public before she founded the New York Association for the Blind, became world-wide in extent through her service in the war. As the moving spirit of the "Light-house," an institution for the blind in New York, she was well equipped for the service work she undertook in Europe. Among the institutions established by her were the Commission for Men Blinded in Battle, the Phare de Bordeaux and the Phare de France, the latter opened by the President of France, and both of which did invaluable service for blinded soldiers. She opened several more "lighthouses for the blind" in that country and in Italy and received high honors from the Governments of both those countries. Miss Holt has lectured in Philadelphia and various other cities of the United States and Canada on work for blinded soldiers.

Miss Winifred Holt's fame as a sculptress, well established in the world of art and with the American public before she founded the New York Association for the Blind, became world-wide in extent through her service in the war. As the moving spirit of the "Light-house," an institution for the blind in New York, she was well equipped for the service work she undertook in Europe. Among the institutions established by her were the Commission for Men Blinded in Battle, the Phare de Bordeaux and the Phare de France, the latter opened by the President of France, and both of which did invaluable service for blinded soldiers. She opened several more "lighthouses for the blind" in that country and in Italy and received high honors from the Governments of both those countries. Miss Holt has lectured in Philadelphia and various other cities of the United States and Canada on work for blinded soldiers.

Miss Winifred Holt's fame as a sculptress, well established in the world of art and with the American public before she founded the New York Association for the Blind, became world-wide in extent through her service in the war. As the moving spirit of the "Light-house," an institution for the blind in New York, she was well equipped for the service work she undertook in Europe. Among the institutions established by her were the Commission for Men Blinded in Battle, the Phare de Bordeaux and the Phare de France, the latter opened by the President of France, and both of which did invaluable service for blinded soldiers. She opened several more "lighthouses for the blind" in that country and in Italy and received high honors from the Governments of both those countries. Miss Holt has lectured in Philadelphia and various other cities of the United States and Canada on work for blinded soldiers.

Miss Winifred Holt's fame as a sculptress, well established in the world of art and with the American public before she founded the New York Association for the Blind, became world-wide in extent through her service in the war. As the moving spirit of the "Light-house," an institution for the blind in New York, she was well equipped for the service work she undertook in Europe. Among the institutions established by her were the Commission for Men Blinded in Battle, the Phare de Bordeaux and the Phare de France, the latter opened by the President of France, and both of which did invaluable service for blinded soldiers. She opened several more "lighthouses for the blind" in that country and in Italy and received high honors from the Governments of both those countries. Miss Holt has lectured in Philadelphia and various other cities of the United States and Canada on work for blinded soldiers.

Miss Winifred Holt's fame as a sculptress, well established in the world of art and with the American public before she founded the New York Association for the Blind, became world-wide in extent through her service in the war. As the moving spirit of the "Light-house," an institution for the blind in New York, she was well equipped for the service work she undertook in Europe. Among the institutions established by her were the Commission for Men Blinded in Battle, the Phare de Bordeaux and the Phare de France, the latter opened by the President of France, and both of which did invaluable service for blinded soldiers. She opened several more "lighthouses for the blind" in that country and in Italy and received high honors from the Governments of both those countries. Miss Holt has lectured in Philadelphia and various other cities of the United States and Canada on work for blinded soldiers.

Miss Winifred Holt's fame as a sculptress, well established in the world of art and with the American public before she founded the New York Association for the Blind, became world-wide in extent through her service in the war. As the moving spirit of the "Light-house," an institution for the blind in New York, she was well equipped for the service work she undertook in Europe. Among the institutions established by her were the Commission for Men Blinded in Battle, the Phare de Bordeaux and the Phare de France, the latter opened by the President of France, and both of which did invaluable service for blinded soldiers. She opened several more "lighthouses for the blind" in that country and in Italy and received high honors from the Governments of both those countries. Miss Holt has lectured in Philadelphia and various other cities of the United States and Canada on work for blinded soldiers.

Miss Winifred Holt's fame as a sculptress, well established in the world of art and with the American public before she founded the New York Association for the Blind, became world-wide in extent through her service in the war. As the moving spirit of the "Light-house," an institution for the blind in New York, she was well equipped for the service work she undertook in Europe. Among the institutions established by her were the Commission for Men Blinded in Battle, the Phare de Bordeaux and the Phare de France, the latter opened by the President of France, and both of which did invaluable service for blinded soldiers. She opened several more "lighthouses for the blind" in that country and in Italy and received high honors from the Governments of both those countries. Miss Holt has lectured in Philadelphia and various other cities of the United States and Canada on work for blinded soldiers.

Miss Winifred Holt's fame as a sculptress, well established in the world of art and with the American public before she founded the New York Association for the Blind, became world-wide in extent through her service in the war. As the moving spirit of the "Light-house," an institution for the blind in New York, she was well equipped for the service work she undertook in Europe. Among the institutions established by her were the Commission for Men Blinded in Battle, the Phare de Bordeaux and the Phare de France, the latter opened by the President of France, and both of which did invaluable service for blinded soldiers. She opened several more "lighthouses for the blind" in that country and in Italy and received high honors from the Governments of both those countries. Miss Holt has lectured in Philadelphia and various other cities of the United States and Canada on work for blinded soldiers.

Miss Winifred Holt's fame as a sculptress, well established in the world of art and with the American public before she founded the New York Association for the Blind, became world-wide in extent through her service in the war. As the moving spirit of the "Light-house," an institution for the blind in New York, she was well equipped for the service work she undertook in Europe. Among the institutions established by her were the Commission for Men Blinded in Battle, the Phare de Bordeaux and the Phare de France, the latter opened by the President of France, and both of which did invaluable service for blinded soldiers. She opened several more "lighthouses for the blind" in that country and in Italy and received high honors from the Governments of both those countries. Miss Holt has lectured in Philadelphia and various other cities of the United States and Canada on work for blinded soldiers.

Miss Winifred Holt's fame as a sculptress, well established in the world of art and with the American public before she founded the New York Association for the Blind, became world-wide in extent through her service in the war. As the moving spirit of the "Light-house," an institution for the blind in New York, she was well equipped for the service work she undertook in Europe. Among the institutions established by her were the Commission for Men Blinded in Battle, the Phare de Bordeaux and the Phare de France, the latter opened by the President of France, and both of which did invaluable service for blinded soldiers. She opened several more "lighthouses for the blind" in that country and in Italy and received high honors from the Governments of both those countries. Miss Holt has lectured in Philadelphia and various other cities of the United States and Canada on work for blinded soldiers.

Miss Winifred Holt's fame as a sculptress, well established in the world of art and with the American public before she founded the New York Association for the Blind, became world-wide in extent through her service in the war. As the moving spirit of the "Light-house," an institution for the blind in New York, she was well equipped for the service work she undertook in Europe. Among the institutions established by her were the Commission for Men Blinded in Battle, the Phare de Bordeaux and the Phare de France, the latter opened by the President of France, and both of which did invaluable service for blinded soldiers. She opened several more "lighthouses for the blind" in that country and in Italy and received high honors from the Governments of both those countries. Miss Holt has lectured in Philadelphia and various other cities of the United States and Canada on work for blinded soldiers.

Miss Winifred Holt's fame as a sculptress, well established in the world of art and with the American public before she founded the New York Association for the Blind, became world-wide in extent through her service in the war. As the moving spirit of the "Light-house," an institution for the blind in New York, she was well equipped for the service work she undertook in Europe. Among the institutions established by her were the Commission for Men Blinded in Battle, the Phare de Bordeaux and the Phare de France, the latter opened by the President of France, and both of which did invaluable service for blinded soldiers. She opened several more "lighthouses for the blind" in that country and in Italy and received high honors from the Governments of both those countries. Miss Holt has lectured in Philadelphia and various other cities of the United States and Canada on work for blinded soldiers.

Miss Winifred Holt's fame as a sculptress, well established in the world of art and with the American public before she founded the New York Association for the Blind, became world-wide in extent through her service in the war. As the moving spirit of the "Light-house," an institution for the blind in New York, she was well equipped for the service work she undertook in Europe. Among the institutions established by her were the Commission for Men Blinded in Battle, the Phare de Bordeaux and the Phare de France, the latter opened by the President of France, and both of which did invaluable service for blinded soldiers. She opened several more "lighthouses for the blind" in that country and in Italy and received high honors from the Governments of both those countries. Miss Holt has lectured in Philadelphia and various other cities of the United States and Canada on work for blinded soldiers.

Miss Winifred Holt's fame as a sculptress, well established in the world of art and with the American public before she founded the New York Association for the Blind, became world-wide in extent through her service in the war. As the moving spirit of the "Light-house," an institution for the blind in New York, she was well equipped for the service work she undertook in Europe. Among the institutions established by her were the Commission for Men Blinded in Battle, the Phare de Bordeaux and the Phare de France, the latter opened by the President of France, and both of which did invaluable service for blinded soldiers. She opened several more "lighthouses for the blind" in that country and in Italy and received high honors from the Governments of both those countries. Miss Holt has lectured in Philadelphia and various other cities of the United States and Canada on work for blinded soldiers.

Miss Winifred Holt's fame as a sculptress, well established in the world of art and with the American public before she founded the New York Association for the Blind, became world-wide in extent through her service in the war. As the moving spirit of the "Light-house," an institution for the blind in New York, she was well equipped for the service work she undertook in Europe. Among the institutions established by her were the Commission for Men Blinded in Battle, the Phare de Bordeaux and the Phare de France, the latter opened by the President of France, and both of which did invaluable service for blinded soldiers. She opened several more "lighthouses for the blind" in that country and in Italy and received high honors from the Governments of both those countries. Miss Holt has lectured in Philadelphia and various other cities of the United States and Canada on work for blinded soldiers.

Miss Winifred Holt's fame as a sculptress, well established in the world of art and with the American public before she founded the New York Association for the Blind, became world-wide in extent through her service in the war. As the moving spirit of the "Light-house," an institution for the blind in New York, she was well equipped for the service work she undertook in Europe. Among the institutions established by her were the Commission for Men Blinded in Battle, the Phare de Bordeaux and the Phare de France, the latter opened by the President of France, and both of which did invaluable service for blinded soldiers. She opened several more "lighthouses for the blind" in that country and in Italy and received high honors from the Governments of both those countries. Miss Holt has lectured in Philadelphia and various other cities of the United States and Canada on work for blinded soldiers.

Miss Winifred Holt's fame as a sculptress, well established in the world of art and with the American public before she founded the New York Association for the Blind, became world-wide in extent through her service in the war. As the moving spirit of the "Light-house," an institution for the blind in New York, she was well equipped for the service work she undertook in Europe. Among the institutions established by her were the Commission for Men Blinded in Battle, the Phare de Bordeaux and the Phare de France, the latter opened by the President of France, and both of which did invaluable service for blinded soldiers. She opened several more "lighthouses for the blind" in that country and in Italy and received high honors from the Governments of both those countries. Miss Holt has lectured in Philadelphia and various other cities of the United States and Canada on work for blinded soldiers.

Miss Winifred Holt's fame as a sculptress, well established in the world of art and with the American public before she founded the New York Association for the Blind, became world-wide in extent through her service in the war. As the moving spirit of the "Light-house," an institution for the blind in New York, she was well equipped for the service work she undertook in Europe. Among the institutions established by her were the Commission for Men Blinded in Battle, the Phare de Bordeaux and the Phare de France, the latter opened by the President of France, and both of which did invaluable service for blinded soldiers. She opened several more "lighthouses for the blind" in that country and in Italy and received high honors from the Governments of both those countries. Miss Holt has lectured in Philadelphia and various other cities of the United States and Canada on work for blinded soldiers.

Miss Winifred Holt's fame as a sculptress, well established in the world of art and with the American public before she founded the New York Association for the Blind, became world-wide in extent through her service in the war. As the moving spirit of the "Light-house," an institution for the blind in New York, she was well equipped for the service work she undertook in Europe. Among the institutions established by her were the Commission for Men Blinded in Battle, the Phare de Bordeaux and the Phare de France, the latter opened by the President of France, and both of which did invaluable service for blinded soldiers. She opened several more "lighthouses for the blind" in that country and in Italy and received high honors from the Governments of both those countries. Miss Holt has lectured in Philadelphia and various other cities of the United States and Canada on work for blinded soldiers.