Nancy Wynne Talks of Antelo Devereux's Illness-She Speaks of the Fetes at Southampton and Newport -Another Debutante

this wife was Frances Fell, you know, a daughter of Mrs. Alexander Van Rensselaer. Mr. and Mrs. Van Rensselaer and Mr. and Mrs. George Rensselaer and Mr. and Mrs. George Rensselaer and Mrs. and Mrs. George Dallas Dixon, by the way, started last week for Arizona in a private car. They week for Avisona in a private car. They expected to remain out there at camp a shout a month. You know at this time of year the Indians do give a very remarkable war dance. I can't remember what it is called, but I know the Dixons and Van Rensselaers intend to Antelo Devereux's illness may change Antelo Dovereux's liness may change their plans. If the illness proves very serious, Mrs. Van Rensselaer will doubtless return to be with her daugh-ter. She is a most devoted mother, you know. So far Mr. Devereux's condition been dangerous.

THINGS seem to have been gay at Bouthampton and Newport this last week. There was the fair at Southampton, which opened with a circus parade on Friday and lasted through Baturday. It was a street fair, you saturday. It was a street fair, you know, and the women in charge had been planning it for weeks. The management of Luna Park sent its circus performers to help on the good work, all the performers offering their servant the things for sale and on all the performers offering their services, and the things for sale and on shares at the various booths were wonderful. It was held for the benefit of the Southampton Hospital. And not to be outdone by Southampton, Newport held a large affair on Friday on the grounds of the Newport Hospital to the brasit of that institution. These for the benefit of that institution. They had grab-bags, and a wonderful dog was raffled off, and there was everything you can think of for sale, too. Mrs. Alexander Rice was among those interested in the fete and Miss Julia Berwind and several other Philadeltians who are at Newport for the he benefit of that institution. They phians who are at Newport for the Tou know he was thrown from his fore at the races at Unionville last fall and was partly paralyzed by the fall and very ill for a number of weeks. In fact, for a time there was not great hepe of his recovery. Then we were all delighted with the news of a turn for the appeared at several of the sporting speared at several of the sporting appeared at several of the sporting speared at several of the sporting along very stiffly. When he comes to a door it gets slower, because then the door must be opened while Thomas hangs from one hand. Then one of Betty's small feet props it open, the other gropes backward for the step and Thomas is stepped nainfully up and into the house.
