OVER 300 GIRLS TRAINING

When Eugene Bolden, of the Illinois A. C., holder of the national one-mile wim championship and former tenmile king, remarked that Philadelphia was the swimming center of the United States, he made a speech.

Philadelphia always has been noted for its fine men and women swimmers, and also for the large number of clubs and organizations in which the aquatic art is taught.

One of the finest of these institutions is the Philadelphia Turngemeinde, located at Broad street and Columbia avenue. The "Turners," as it is generally called, is one of the most widely known clubs of its kind in the country.

Elizabeth Becker, Florence McLough.
In. Marie Hillegass, Mabel Arklie, Margaret Majer, Frances Clarke, Anna Wright, Ruth Thomas, Margaret Ravior, Emma Sautter and Helen Hillegass are a few of the young swimmers that have made their names known throughout the East.

Miss Becker, one of the best in the country, rated as the supreme diver of the Middle Atlantic A. A. U., who sawims everything from the fifty-yard dash to the "220," is probably the best performer who splashes in the Turners tank. She is class personified and is a dangerous opponent in any sort of aquatic competition.

Marie Hillegass deserves to rank next. Although only seventeen years of age. Marie is a great sprinter and holds the Middle Atlantic A. A. U. breast-stroke championship. Her sister, Helen, is also a point-getter for the Turners. She is a diver, and a good one, too.

PLAY AT PHILA. COUNTRY

By SANDY MeNIBLICK

Some of the best outdoor golfers, some of the best indoor golfers, some of the most notable oarsmen in the world and all of Martie Cassidy's best customers will take part in the second annual open golf championship of the Falls of Schuylkili, which will be played over the links of the Philadelphia Country Club on Monday.

The play will be over thirty-street.

The play will be over thirty-six holes of medal play, every man for himself, and the lowest card turned in gets the title. You can't tell what the other boys are making by watching them play and there are many surprises when the scores are chalked up.

Nearly sixty entries have been turned in already, and the entries are expected to touch the hundred mark tonight at the "Gunbont" when the Falls citizens really turn out for their weekly golf mass-meeting.

SEVEN EVENTS ON PROGRAM

Vin O'Donnell is chairman of the committee running the event. A purse rivaling that of the district open is expected to be offered, with plate for
