Nancy Wynne Talks of a Boston Debutante-She Sees Smart Sweaters-Miss Cadwalader to Go Camping in Canada

A DEBUTANTE I am very interested to see and who will no doubt come on here for many of the parties is Helen Scott, of Boston. She is the daughter of General Hugh Scott and Mrs. Scott, and her mother was Helen Sanders, of this city. She is related to the Newbolds and Sanders and Scotts, of this city, and will doubtless come here for many of the parties. Her mother was Mrs. Mishael Way of Sto Wa adelphia has ever boasted of. She has a superb figure, dark abundant hair and eyes, and her features are exquisitely modeled. She was a sister of the late Mr. Dallas Sanders, whose daughters are Anita and Estelle, known as "the T GOT a glimpse of Christine Cad-I walader the other day just getting nto her motor on Chestnut street. She had on a pretty gray frock, and a small black hat. Christine and her parents Dr. and Mrs. Williams Biddle Cadwalader, will leave the end of this month for New Brunswick, where they will spend several weeks at a camp.

DID you know that Sylvin Van Rens-selner Strong has been out in Chi-cago this summer? She was with Made-moiselle Laure Quelin and they occupled an apartment at the Parkway Hotel, while Sylvia was receiving violin training at the Chicago Musical College. Sylvia is quite a musician already and has played at several small entertainments. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan H. Strong, of 2036 De Landers and the several small entertainments and the several small entertainments. very young, but when she comes us the will be a most attractive debutante, believe me. She attends the National Statement Stat believe me. She attends the National Cathedral School, in Washington, and is now at Camp Owassa, at Indian Lake in the Adirondack Mountains, with the school camp. Her parents are spending the summer at Bass Rocks, Mass., and Sylvia will join them there in Septem ber with her governess.

THE dark sweaters over white skirts I are just as much in vogue as ever, it seems to me. I saw Mrs. John Claghorn one day this week in town and she looked stunning. She had on a very pretty dark blue drop-stitch sweater, worn with a whife organdic lace collar, over a white linen skirt. Her hat was also dark blue, trimmed with white brushed wool around the edge. Mary Fiero looked attractive too in a gray blue sweater over a white skirt and white shoes and stockings. I saw her on Chestnut street yesterday. Her bat was a deeper shade of blue and was very becoming. Her brother Erwin, you know, married Peggy Perot.

BETTY, who is two and a half years old, went to the seashore the other day and dressed in her wee bathing suit went down on the beach with mother to wait for daddy. It seemed as if every little girl down there was running and calling to daddy. Betty talked and giggled with mother and then a little wave ran up and tickled ter toes. Betty caught her breath, wig-jied her toes and grabbed mother, "Oh." raid she. "I want my daddy, I'm scurred of dese waves."
