It is likely due to the use of water from an old cistern on the church property. That water was not served for drinking purposes at the supper, but some of the food, principally celery, was washed in it and then served on the table or made a part of chicken salad. All of those who attended this supper and ate chicken salad have typhoid fever or have been in a feverish condi-tion close to typhoid. They live in various parts of the county, and reports are coming that there is typhoid in Moorestown, Marlton, Vincentown, Pemberton, Juliustown, Wrightstown, lookstown, New Egypt and throughout the territory surrounding those places.
