

Mrs. Wilson Values Cooking Hints Given by Fisherman Captain Joe

Recipes for Chummy Apples, Clam Fritters and Delicious Prunes Will Give You an Idea of His Art

By MRS. M. A. WILSON

ALONG the Jersey coast are many little coves and inlets and harbors where the lover and devotee of the sport of fishing will find himself just off the beach as the word goes out that the fish are biting.

Lately I have been visiting the haunts of the hunters of the finny tribe of the deep, and one day, just by chance, I turned down a narrow path to a very pretty cove of the bay.

Here I saw a large brick house of the Colonial type with gables on the roof and a second floor.

Here I saw the stern-lipped business man with his eyes on the equally keen-eyed and firm-lipped, who were clothed in the oldest and most ragged of wardrobes.

They slapped each other on the back and told Captain Joe that here they were for a spell and that they hoped the fish were biting well.

They wanted plenty of good eats, especially in regard to the corn. Then, with heavy whistling, they began to haul over the tackle and discuss the bait question.

In the kitchen, where it is as spotless as the new paint on the ship's bow and where the pots and pans are scoured so that they rival the sun, Captain Joe begins to give you his pet recipes.

How Captain Joe Cooks Prunes Wash one pound of prunes in warm water, then place in a baking dish and add sliced oranges and one-half package of seeded raisins.

Fried Fish Cleanse and scale one and one-half pounds of fish. Cut in pieces of suitable size for serving.

Clam Fritters Mince fine eight large clams. Discard the eyes. Place in a mixing bowl and add

One grated onion, Two green peppers, minced fine, One teaspoon of salt, One-half teaspoon of pepper.

Now measure the clam juice and strain and add sufficient water to make one and one-half cups. Turn in the mixing bowl and add

Three cups of flour Two level tablespoons of baking powder Beat hard to make smooth and then add one-half cup of salt, minced fine and nicely browned. Mix and bake on hot griddle.

Corn Bread Place in a mixing bowl Two cups of cornmeal, One-half cup of bran, One cup of flour, One teaspoon of salt, Two level tablespoons of baking powder

Four level tablespoons of brown sugar, Six level tablespoons of bacon drippings or lard, One and one-half cups of milk or water.

Beat hard to mix and then pour in a well-greased and smoking hot pan and bake in hot oven for half an hour. Cut in oblong blocks and then send to the table.

Captain Joe's Clam Chowder Pare and dice six medium-sized potatoes. Parboil for ten minutes and then drain. Add piece of the dough. Season with little cinnamon and nutmeg and a tablespoon of brown sugar.

Three onions, chopped fine, Two green peppers, chopped fine, Ten clams, minced fine.

Captain Joe usually does his baking early in the morning, as he cooks with a wood fire and needs the oven in the evening.

To serve chummy apples, make a sauce of One and one-half cups of milk, Six tablespoons of flour.

Dissolve the flour and bring to a boil. Cook five minutes. Add: One teaspoon of grated lemon rind, One-half teaspoon of nutmeg, Two-thirds cup of sugar, One teaspoon of vanilla.

Beat well to mix. When ready to serve, heat the chummy apples and then crush in top with spoon and pour over the sauce and top with spoonful of tart jelly.

Read Your Character By Digby Phillips No. 32—The Bump of Wit

Humor is one of the most important things in life, and most persons have it in some degree or other.

Those who haven't escape some handicaps to the efficiency of their efforts, but on the whole they lose more than they gain.

For with the ability to appreciate the humor of a situation there generally goes the ability to maintain one's balance judiciously.

How often would we be led into the most ridiculous blunders, from which we would suffer not only embarrassment but also loss of respect, if we did not have a sense of humor to hold us back?

But what is more tragic than the mating of two persons whose capabilities to appreciate wit and humor vary greatly in degree.

The witty one is condemned to the loneliness of laughing without sympathy, and the serious one is never able to understand the apparent vagaries and little conceits of the other.

Many marriages have broken over just this rock of difficulty. All persons, however, are not outwardly humorous.

The room the family loves

WHEN the morning sunshine streams into the nursery—the little ones run to mother's room for their good-morning kiss.

There the kiddies say their prayers at mother's knee, before the Sandman closes their tired eyes.

Surely this room of mother's—her very own room—surely this should be the most beautiful room in the house.

Only the most artistic, the most comfortable furniture is good enough to grace this room.

And, combined with the beauty of Barcalo Beds, is the luxury of Barcalo-comfort. An all-steel construction that cannot rattle or creak—guarantees the rest that mother deserves.

Barcalo springs and mattress will complete the room—and help make sure that your mother's bedroom is worthy of your love for her—beautiful by day, comfortable by night.

Sheer Voile Blouses, $1.55

Spick and span from their boxes, these blouses offer a variety of choice.

Most of them are of fine French voile and have either long or three-quarter length sleeves.

Lace-edged jabots, always becoming, distinguish some, while other plainer ones have fine tucks and narrow pleated edgings about the collars and cuffs.

The styles sketched may be had in all sizes, but included in the group are many other blouses which are in twos and threes of a kind.

Cotton-Filled Quilts, $2

Plenty of them in figured cotton material, with plain-colored backs, filled with cotton to a good thickness.

Full double-bed size.
