Merion Star Leads Field in Qualifying Round of State Amateur Tourney

DRIGGS SECOND WITH 76

How to Get to Merion Golf Meet a la Motor

The best route as given by the committee to reach the east course at Merion, where the play for the amateur golf championship of Pennsylvania starts today, is as follows: Take three highway route, out Lancaster avenue to Ardmore avenue, out Ardmore avenue turn to left down Ardmore avenue directly to east course.

By SANDY MENBLICK

Max Marston, Merion, with a card of 73, was leading the early starters in the thirty-six-hole qualifying round of the Pennsylvania State amateur golf championship today at Merion C. C. east course today.

Eddie Driggs, a clubmate, was second with 76. This pair, with James H. Gay, Jr., of the Cricket Club, 78, and J. W. Platt, Whitewater, 79, were the only contestants to break 80.

Marston had a good chance for a 58 going out, but got mixed up on the short hole and had a 39. On the twelfth he took three putts for a 5, but got a birdie on the eleventh and a birdie 2 on the thirteenth. Going to the eighteenth, his ball was buried on the edge of the green, and he had to make a 5, losing a chance to break 70, as he required 34 for the return journey. Marston was a finalist last year and lost to Davidson Herron, of Pittsburgh.

Marston's card—4 5 4 4 4 5 4—73. In 35. His card—4 5 5 2 4 4 3 5—74. Eddie Driggs—4 4 4 5 5 4 4 4—76. In 35. His card—4 4 4 5 5 3 3 3—75. His 3 on the eighteenth was a long putt for a birdie, and he went out in 35, and Platt was out in 42 and back in 35.

Hamiltons of the Cricket Club, a newcomer, was a surprise with a 41, 40-81. Fitz Sargent, Merion, and J. J. Beadle, Lancaster, were the only two to break 80. Beadle, who had a 39, staged a comeback when he went out in 51 and returned in 28 for an 80.

The veteran Bill Fowles, captain of the all-star team of the first team of invasion, was forced to withdraw. Fowles is one of the best golfers in the country. Eleven years ago he was national champion and has twice won the medal in that qualifying round. Fowles was here Tuesday, but an absence in his ear began to bother him and he was obliged to consult a doctor.

The prospect of these two outstanding favorites meeting in the final round is a golf dith that local fans relish. If the luck of the draw does not rule otherwise the finishing matches of the championship should be as good as will be seen here all year.

LOCAL MEN IN BOUTS

VOSHELL PLAYS KINSEY

East vs. West Again in Metropolitan Tennis

New York, Sept. 1.—Eight players survived in the Metropolitan grass court tennis tournament at the Crescent Athletic Club when play started today.

The four matches brought Robert Kinsey, of California, against E. Howard Voshell, of California, against John E. Richards, of New York, and John E. Richards, of England, against Fredrick C. Anderson, of New York.

At his home today Malis said that he had a force of 200 tickets going over the records of tickets sold and checking up throughout the early hours of the morning. Just as soon as the stubs are properly recorded the fans who left their names and addresses together with identification of their tickets will have checks mailed to them, he said. This will take a matter of a day or two, according to Malis.

"I don't want to alibi about the unfortunate occurrence last night," said Malis. "I tried everything I could to do to do other than call off the main man when both Jackson and his manager insisted on a $100 out-of-pocket guarantee of $750 for Sullivan to meet K. O. Loughlin, but said he would take $500 to box any one else. When I learned that Loughlin was sick, I substituted Joe Jackson, believing that Sullivan in this case would be $500, but Bagley insisted on the $750, and finally consented to a $100 out-of-pocket guarantee of $250 to release him from the contract but I refused to do it."

Jimmy Sullivan, of New York, who boxed Joe Jackson, was the only boxer who performed to have his guarantee out, getting $600 instead of $750. The other boxers, it was said, each paid according to their agreements.

Dan Ferns, West Philadelphia sportsman, will have next week for Reading where he will have next week for some time. Dan is a great fight fan.

An itemized account of the actual money given out by Louis Malis, who promoted last night's show at the Shibe Park, and which resulted in a fiasco when the Jackson-Dundee bout was not put on, shows an expenditure of $12,950.

Here is a statement of expenses issued by Malis at his home today:

Other expenses (estimated) . . . . . 5,000

By LOUIS H. JAFFE

Fight fans who were disappointed over the Shibe Park fiasco last night assembled in large numbers today at the office of the promoter, Louis Malis, 52 North 5th street, to have their tickets redeemed.

The scheduled wind-up between Johnny Dundee and Willie Jackson was canceled off by Malis, whose manager refused to accept a check for half of the fighter's guarantee. Malis announced to the spectators that all tickets would be redeemed and the amount returned to the purchasers upon the presentation of the coupon at the Shibe street office.

Anticipating a large crowd Malis ordered the services of a half-dozen police officers to guard the entrance to the Shibe street office. A dozen clerks were engaged all morning recording the stubs of the tickets. The numbers of those who were entered in a book with their names and addresses of the holders who were informed that checks for the amount of their purchase would be mailed to them within a few days.

From 9 o'clock until noon there was a steady stream into Malis' office and it is estimated that 2000 ticket holders had their coupons recorded. Every individual had more than one coupon and the amount represented was more than $3000.

A number of persons presented coupons from the boxing show given by Malis some one ago and others attempted to cash the stubs of complimentary tickets. These were quickly hustled out by the police.

The promoter estimates his loss on this show at $12,950. He was here this morning that had he staged the final bout according to schedule, his loss would have been almost double this amount.

A legible little is in prospect as another result of the fight fiasco. Both Dundee and Jackson plan to seek the advice of counsel regarding their contracts with the promoter, the fighters having signed agreements and being present and ready to go through with the battle.

Dundee, accompanied by his manager, called Director Cortelyou in the City Hall and explained the fiasco. The Director informed them that was a legal angle involving Dundee's contract with the promoter and did not expect this report and some time from Assistant Superintendent of Police Kenny.

"I will be unable to issue a statement," said Director Cortelyou in his office today. "On last night's show at Shibe Park until after I am furnished with a report from Assistant Superintendent of Police Michael J. Kenny, who is expected to report some time this afternoon or tomorrow morning."

Superintendent Kenny had the following to say: "So far as I can see no police regulations were broken last night. The crowd was smaller than the promoter expected. Mr. Malis wanted to call the main bout off and give the fans their money back. He also offered to place a substitute bout on, but because the names of such boxers had not been submitted to the Police Department he was unable to do so."

"I must say that Mr. Malis is a game man and acted entirely in good faith. He showed he was willing to assume the loss of considerable money not to disappoint the fans. He expected to take in enough money to give to both Jackson and Dundee, but there was not sufficient funds, and he offered personal checks of $2500 each in addition to $2500 cash to each of the boxers. I am at a loss to understand why the checks, which were endorsed by reputable business men, were not accepted."

"I will probably submit my report to the Director this afternoon or tomorrow."

At his home today Malis said that he had a force of 200 tickets going over the records of tickets sold and checking up throughout the early hours of the morning. Just as soon as the stubs are properly recorded the fans who left their names and addresses together with identification of their tickets will have checks mailed to them, he said. This will take a matter of a day or two, according to Malis.

"I don't want to alibi about the unfortunate occurrence last night," said Malis. WORLD'S DERBY TONIGHT ENDS LOCAL BIKE SEASON

Four Riders in 62 1/2-Mile Event at Point Breeze

The 1921 bicycle season in Philadelphia will come to a close tonight at the Point Breeze Velodrome with a 100-kilometer motor-paced race, it being the running of the annual World's Cycling Derby. Lots of interest always centered in this annual 62 1/2-mile grind, which is to have four starters this evening.

Clarence Maddison, who has been defeated in his last two starts in races with Clarence Carman as one of the entries, has been training diligently for tonight's run. If nothing else, Maddison wants to release himself from the other two entrants are Paul Verkeyn, of Belgium, and Frank Corry, the Australian. All four of these international stars are great pluggers, and the result may be a sprint from the beginning until the final of the 62 1/2 miles.

Maddison has cut down Carman's individual point score and for the season somewhat by winning a race in Boston this week. Clarence finished third in the Italian champion time trial tonight, and he may even terms with Carman.

Several amateur and Class B professional events also are scheduled on the program.

The season of 1921 in bicycle competition was a great success. Several amateur stars were developed, a number of records were established among these riders, while records also were bettered in professional events.

Evening Ledger Nine Wins

The Evening Ledger Nine team journeyed to Camden and defeated the Swifts and Hub by a score of 1 to 0. The Swifts and Hub were defeated by a score of 1 to 0.

CUP GOES WEST IF JOHNSTON WINS HERE

Little Bill's Farewell to Competitive Tennis to Be Made in National Championships—Has Two Legs on Trophy

SIX years ago Maurice E. McLaughlin—Cannon Ball McLaughlin—the greatest player ever developed in California and one of the most prominent figures on the history of American tennis, passed out of the court game.

In 1915, the year of his retirement, McLaughlin's place at the head of the first ten was supplanted by William M. Johnston, another of California's sons. Now Johnston plans to recede from the spotlight, and Philadelphians will be privileged to see the last match in competition played by this wizard of the West.

Immediately after the national championships, which will be staged on the courts of the Germantown Cricket Club, beginning September 10, Johnston will leave for his home and plans to devote his time entirely to business, forgetting tennis except as a recreation.

Two Legs on Cup

The tournament here probably will mean more to Johnston than any in his career. He already has two legs on the United States Lawn Tennis Association trophy offered to the champion. A triumph here means permanent possession and William is very anxious to take the cup on a 3000-mile journey to rest at last on that what-not in the corner of his living-room.

Johnston, too, Johnston has opposed Bill Tilden in six important matches. The spoils are evenly divided, each with three victories. Another personal contest would decide the issue and award the edge to Johnston, who certainly would be a crowning achievement for the last feat of his already brilliant career.

Stars of freedom are prone to "retire" in theory more often than they do in practice. The call of the game is individual, but friends of the Little Bill are taking his announcement seriously. It looks as if he means business in a literal sense.

Draw Today

All tennis fans are hoping that the draw for the nationals, which took place at the headquarters of the national association in New York this morning, will cast Tilden and Johnston in different brackets, so that the two hills will have a fair opportunity of opposing each other in the final rounds.

Johnston and Tilden were the persons who fought it out last year in the championships, and Tilden won. This victory, however, had some of the glory cut from it when the Westerner played the British in the British title tourney. The feud ends here. It should be the match of the ages.

Cuban Stars Blank Smith

Cuban Stars proved too much for the Phillies' pitcher in a 10-0 victory at Second Base

State College, Pa., Sept. 1.—The 1921 football season was ushered in at Penn State this afternoon, when the advance guard of gridiron warriors reported to Hugo Bezdek, Dick Harlow and Dutch Herrman, Trainer Bill Marzlin was not on the job today, the popular track coach having been confined to his bed for the last ten days with a severe attack of bronchitis.

Thirty-six men received invitations from Bezdek to be on hand for the preliminary practice, and nearly all of them were here early this morning.

The Penn State coaches are not trying to conceal the fact that they are worried over the prospects for this year. With seven members of last year's eleven lost by graduation and with the possibility of still another failing to return this fall, the outlook is far from encouraging, particularly since the Nittany Mountain Lions are facing one of the toughest schedules in years.

No practice was attempted today, but uniforms were distributed. It is expected that Bezdek will order a workout for tomorrow morning and that both morning and afternoon practice sessions will then be in order until the opening of college on the 14th.
