

MANAYUNK HONORS DEAD WAR HERO

Neighbors Pay Respect to Raymond Cahill, First Man From There Killed Overseas

TO HOLD SERVICES MONDAY

Neighbors' houses for two squares on either side of the home of Raymond J. Cahill, 243 Hermitage street, a former United States marine, are decorated in honor of the dead hero whose body was brought home today.

Raymond Cahill was one of four brothers who heard the call to their country's colors. He died in action with others of the Eighty-second Company of the Sixth Marines at Belleau Wood.

He had been in France but one month when he gave up his life for the cause he had enlisted to support.

Raymond Cahill enlisted in the United States Marine Corps December 23, 1918, and was sent to Paris Island, South Carolina. After three months' training he was sent to Quantico, from where he was shipped to France in May.

He was a graduate of the Holy Family parochial school.

He will be buried in Westminster cemetery after a solemn high requiem mass in the Holy Family Roman Catholic Church at Hermitage and St. David's streets, Monday.

Funeral services for Captain Clarence Patton Freeman, killed September 30, 1918, in the Meuse-Argonne fighting, and for four other soldiers who died fighting in France, were held in the Holy Sepulchre cemetery today.

Captain Freeman's funeral was held this afternoon at Old St. David's Church, at St. David's, Pa. Captain Freeman was twenty-six years old.

Bernard Appel, a member of Company K, 31st Infantry, who was killed in action near Nantoulois September 28, 1918, was buried in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

Funeral services were held at 8:30 o'clock this morning at 6201 Germantown avenue. Solemn requiem mass followed in St. Vincent de Paul's Church.

Sergeant John G. Hink of Company G, 328th Infantry, killed October 18, 1918, in the Argonne Forest, was buried with the honors of a soldier in Holy Redeemer cemetery.

Funeral services were held at 8:30 o'clock this morning at 3453 North Howard street.

Funeral services for Charles Wharton Titus, son of Leo and Mary Titus, of 3150 Park avenue, were held this morning from the parental home. Requiem mass was celebrated in St. Stephen's Church, and burial with military honors followed in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

He was a member of the Seventy-eighth Company, Sixth Marines, and was killed in action October 4, 1918, at Mont Blanc, France.

Nab Alleged Fugitive Here

Accused of being a fugitive from Ardmore, where it is alleged that he is wanted by the police on a larceny charge, Clyde Ralph, thirty-two years old, of Harrisburg, was arrested yesterday by Detective Murray in a rooming house near Nineteenth and Arch streets.

According to the police files he was suspected of being implicated in an auto theft in this city, but he was released for lack of evidence.

'HOMELESS ALCOHOL' WILL BE RESHIPPED TO TURKEY

Cargo of the Lizzie B. Hall to Go to Constantinople

One hundred lonely barrels of alcohol, originally destined to sail on the Lizzie B. Hall, a schooner declared auctioned and unseaworthy by the authorities, are now definitely consigned to Constantinople on another steamer.

This morning Leon Rodolph, owner of the Lizzie B. Hall, through M. T. Branscomb, of the Rossville Distillery Company, of Indiana, from which the alcohol came, arranged to have the barrels shipped through the Hudson Shipping Company from the port of Philadelphia.

According to Mr. Branscomb the alcohol will leave here on the steamer Dochet, which is due in this port September 7. The Dochet will take the alcohol as a part of the general cargo she will take on board here.

LIEUT. TURN BURIED

Former Penn Student Given Military Funeral in New York

The funeral of Lieutenant Raymond Townsend Turn, 315th Infantry, Seventy-ninth Division, who formerly lived in Overbrook, took place yesterday from his home in New York City.

Lieutenant Turn was the son of John S. Turn, former manager of the Aetna Life Insurance Company.

Lieutenant Turn was killed in action on September 26, 1918, in the Argonne. He was the first casualty of his regiment. He had previously been cited by his divisional commander for gallantry in action.

He enlisted a second day after war was declared and went into active service in May, 1917, while a student at the University of Pennsylvania.

PROVES MODEL PRISONER

Erwin Bergdoll Learning to Be A Machinist, Commandant Says

Erwin Bergdoll, brother of America's most noted slacker, and himself serving a four-year term for the same offense, is not only a model prisoner, but is also learning to be a first-class machinist.

This information was given out by Colonel Malvern Hill Barnum, commandant of Fort Leavenworth, while he was on a visit to his cousin, Judge William L. Barnum, at Syracuse, N. Y.

According to the Colonel Erwin Bergdoll seems anxious to do all he can to get his sentence reduced through good behavior and is doing the work laid out for him with the utmost conscientiousness. Erwin Bergdoll is a good prisoner, the Colonel says, and when he is discharged (thanks to the training he is receiving) he will be a good machinist.

CITY SLOW TO BACK FAIR, SAYS MAYOR

Moore, in Letter, Says Citizens and Associations Have Failed to Respond to Call

SEES BOOM IN FALL

Citizens and associations have not responded either by subscriptions or pledges to the appeals in behalf of the Sequi-Centennial Exposition to be held here in 1926.

Mayor Moore said this in a letter sent today to William R. Tucker, secretary of the Philadelphia Board of Trade, replying to Mr. Tucker's letter of yesterday urging the necessity of greater activity in planning the exposition.

The Mayor's letter follows: "I am in receipt of your communication of September 1, urging greater activity in the matter of the Sequi-Centennial.

As the ex-officio head of the Sequi-Centennial Exhibition Association, I have received other communications of this kind, all of them patriotic and well-intentioned, but I have been obliged to say, as I now advise you, that the real difficulty, much as I regret to say it, is due to the fact that we do not have the means to proceed as indicated.

"Citizens or associations have not responded either by way of subscriptions or pledges, as might have been expected. Meetings thus far called at the Mayor's office have not been productive of that encouragement of and confidence in the enterprise that is essential to its success.

"During the months of July and August it was practically impossible to get the members of the Citizens' Committee together. There is no doubt in the Mayor's mind that the citizens will eventually get together and that they will set Philadelphia straight in this matter which is now reaching a crucial point.

"It is not deemed advisable to make this new start while so many people who could be helpful are away because of the heated spell. At an appropriate time, however, the general committee will be called together and the sub-committees will be put to work.

"Meanwhile, such organizations as the Philadelphia Board of Trade and others interested in pushing the exposition, can render a great service by encouraging membership in the Sequi-Centennial Exhibition Association and testing the public pulse in the matter of subscriptions that will talk more eloquently than mere resolutions of encouragement."

SPECIALIST TO DECIDE

Compensation Referee Turns Over Medical Testimony in Case

To decide whether a man died from gas poisoning or sleeping sickness, Compensation Referee C. W. Rosler yesterday turned over the medical testimony taken in the latter disease.

The issue resulted from the death of William P. King, of Andalusia, who was employed as a gas and electric welder in the chemical plant of the Barrett Company, Frankford.

King was stricken March 23 last. He died April 5, leaving a widow and six children. Previous to his illness King enjoyed excellent health. Counsel for the widow and children presented a claim for compensation on the ground that death was due to gas poisoning contracted by the decedent in the course of his employment.

This contention is opposed by the casualty company carrying the insurance. A physician in the company's employ testified the symptoms shown by King during his illness were indicative of sleeping sickness.

NABBED FOR ANNOYING GIRLS

Man Arrested in Rittenhouse Square Gets Five Days in Jail

Ching Lee, a Chinese, who said he lives in Atlantic City, was arrested last night charged with annoying two girls in Rittenhouse Square.

Lee, according to the police, followed the girls around the square several times. They complained to Patrolman Kearns. He took Lee to the Twelfth and Pine streets station. The Chinese said he was simply admiring them. He was sent to jail for five days by Magistrate O'Brien. The young women refused to give their names.

S. A. ENTERTAINS 500 CHILDREN

More than 520 children and 106 mothers of families living in congested districts were entertained by the Salvation Army during the summer months at the Fresh Air Farm at Upland. The summer outings closed today. On Labor Day nearly 300 officers, soldiers and friends of the Salvation Army will hold field day exercises at the Fresh Air Camp. Lieutenant Colonel Arthur T. Brewer, divisional commander, will be the principal speaker at the exercises, beginning at 3 o'clock.

DOCTOR SCOFFS AT BATH THEORY

Joseph Walsh, M. D., Doesn't Believe Daily Bathing Prevents Tuberculosis

DISAGREES WITH BRITON

"The daily bath is the usual thing for the majority of people in the United States, and I cannot see that it has had any particular effect on tuberculosis," said Dr. Joseph Walsh, 2026 Chestnut street, a recognized Philadelphia tuberculosis specialist, commenting on a statement of a London authority that the disease would disappear from the earth if the practice of daily baths was generally adopted.

"Of course, cleanliness is extremely important and is a big factor in the control of all diseases," said Dr. Walsh, "but there are thousands of persons who never took a bath in their lives who are not suffering from tuberculosis, while thousands who have bathed daily all their lives are afflicted with it. As a matter of fact, I doubt extremely if any reputable medical authority made such a statement."

The statement which Dr. Walsh takes exception to is attributed to Sir James Crichton-Browne, president of the Sanitary Inspectors' Association of England. Sir James said:

"If every one took a daily bath, hot or cold, tuberculosis virtually would disappear from the world, as it being abundantly proved in the United States. A daily bath is a greater factor for the preservation of health than all the medicine ever brewed or concocted. Every home, however humble, should have a tub, provided, if necessary, by the State. A bath has an uplifting power and ministers to the self-respect of mankind."
