

DREAMLAND ADVENTURES

By DADDY "The Toyville Ball" Jack and Janet, made tiny as they go to the Toyville ball, where they meet many toy friends. The elephant asks Janet to be his partner in the grand march, while the Jointed Mule takes Jack as partner.

CHAPTER II The Golden Ring

DIETRO, the monkey, ground merrily on the hand organ. And gaily the toys paraded in the grand march of the Toyville ball.

Regal Cape of Rich Fabric and Hue

By CORINNE LOWE Every garment of today is apt to be cape-size. One starts out with a suit jacket in front and finds a perfect cape in the rear. One finds separate coats protruding at the neck. And of the dresses which employ cape draperies and cape sleeves there is no end.

being killed. But he wasn't killed, he was only squashed a bit, and he soon got over that when Bobby Bouncer, the rubber ball, pumped air into him. That came near breaking up the party, for the toys got into a noisy row arguing as to who was to blame.

man out. But Mr. Pieman wouldn't be helped out. Instead he began to wash his soiled apron. "Thank you!" said Mr. Pieman to the Jointed Mule. "Thank you!" My clothes needed a washing and I needed a bath.

eradic was I was 3 days old. G was its a wonder I didn't hurt myself. Ack 5. Passing the 38th story. Man. I remember when I was 6 going on 7 a bookcase full of books fell on top of me with all the books and they didn't find where I was till about 5 days. Im lucky I lived to be old enuff to fall out of this window.

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTE BOOK By Lee Pape

HIS PASSED LIFE (A Play) Ack 1. Man working on the roof of a 57 story building and looking over the edge. Man. Gosh look at all the people down there. I see them but they don't see me. If I fell out of this window I wonder if I'd remember all my passed life like they say you do in books?
