Adventures With a Purse

LEFT the house this morning in a fearful hurry, and when I arrived town it was to remember that I had out of the house without a hat-The entire time I was dressing I assuring myself that I must be sure to slip a pin into my hat, as the grown is loose and the sightest breeze ets under it and away goes the hat, Well, there was nothing for it but to one, and as the department stores were not open as yet, I looked about until I happened upon a shop which kept them. The one I bought was for a blue hat, and so I chose accordingly. A tiny rhinestone was in the head, too tiny to be objectionable, and suspended that was a clear, sparkling blue about three-quarters of an inch long. To each movement of the head tone will dance a merry tune and also, it can be used very well as an ornament for the front of a hat. It was priced at seventy-five cents.

Nearly all of the wrist watches are worn with ribbon these days, and those of us who do not use a ribbon sooner or later look around for one, and that means the need of a clasp, too. I have priced these, and I think the cheapest of any I found today while adventuring. was one with a gold clasp and a gold ribbon, to be worn with the gold wrist watch. Still another style had a thin silver-colored ribbon, to be worn with the white gold, silver, or, if one is fortunate, the thin platinum timepiece, And last, but not least, was the con-ventional black ribbon to be worn with either silver or gold watch. Each ribon had the clasp and was priced at $1.

Big shears take care of almost every sutting need. They slit long lengths of material, be it silk or heavy woolen, cut that occasionally mine have assisted in the pulling of an obstinate tack from my wall. But there are the tiny jobs, such as cutting buttonholes, snipping breads, and small scissors are needed I saw some tiny fellows today that would just about serve every small-job purpose, and they were priced at fifty

Every woman who looks at the new coats this season is going to be surprised at their goodness and at the lowness of the prices.

Imagine a soft, warm coat of velour, in Malay brown, silk lined throughout, with a deep collar, cuffs and pocket-bands of beaverette (coney) fur for $30!

Or the embroidered coat of velour which is sketched at $37.50. This is in blue and brown and has a collar, cuffs and tab trimming of beaverette (coney).

A coat with a wide, deep collar of gray wolf is sketched at $39. This is a most unusual coat, silk lined, and may be had in Malay and navy.

A Coat With a Long Throw Collar of Mole for $57.50

This is one of the most amazing coat values we have seen in several years. The collar ends in tassels and reaches below the belt. The coat is lined throughout with peau de cygne.
