Nancy Wynne Takes in the Styles at the National Tennis Tournament at Manheim-Sees Many Prominent Philadelphians Just Home From Abroad

THE crowds attending the National Tenris Tournament at Manheim have certainly shown that Philadelphia is home again. Everybody was there on Friday. I think, and those there on to surely turned out Saturative of Mrs. Archibald McCrea, of Brunswick Hall. Louisville, Ky., and Mrs. John Lowber Welsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lowber Welsh, of 1422 Spruces there on Friday. I think, and those there on the surely turned out Saturative which will take place the early part of October in New York. Mrs. Welsh and Mrs. All at Narragansett Pier, R. L. and will not return until early in November. think? To me it is all of Germantown in a nutshell. However, you would not know the pace these days with the

in a nutshell. However, you would not know the p ace these days with the world's greatest tennis stars battling it out for highest honors and the cream of seciety in the East looking on.

The first person to attract my attention was Neo Strawbridge, wearing an all-white dress and a large black hat. She has just returned from Newport with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert it her parents, where she has been for quite a time. You know, Neo went abroad some time in the spring and returned directly to Newport. She was one of last senson's most popular debutantes, and many delightful entertainments were given in her honor.

Mrs. Crawford Madeira looked very well in a dark blue and white striped silk gown and a large black straw hat, as did Mrs. John White Geary, in a white silk skirt and a dark blue jersey cloth sweater. With this Mrs. Geary were a small, dark blue hat?

QUITE a few were there from the Main Line who generally came over w. Hepburn was also dattractive in a black crepe de chine dress, made with several painted overskirts and panels on both sides. Her hat was a large picture shape of black velvet trimmed with black aigrettes. Mrs. Hepburn resently returned from abroad. Mrs. Joseph Wayne, Jr., was also there, as were Mrs. Fitz Eugene D. Newbold and Mrs. E. Walter Clark, 3d. I noticed that the sub-debs were not as well represented as the youager school set.

MOLLY THAYER was, of course, Mon hand. She is such a wonderful player herself, you know. I saw her with Helen and Beatrice Sewell. I hear that Helen is to play at the Philadelphia Cricket Club the latter part of this month. She and Kitty Porter will again defend the title they won last year. Kitty is abroad, but it is hoped that she will arrive in time for the tournament. Molly was looking awfully well after her vacation. It was quite interesting to see every one was quite interesting to see every one shaking hands with somebody and inquiring and answering questions about trips and vacations and so forth. Another good looking get-up was worn by Josephine Hooper. It was a gray silk sweater and a gray and white gilk striped skirt. Her hat was be-coming, too, and was also gray straw trimmed in front with bunches of blue and deep rose-colored grapes. THERE will be several important I weddings next month, and one or two will take place this month. Emmie kwo will take place this month. Emmie Schwartz has decided on October 1 for hers. She is to marry McKean Allen, and the wedding will take place at St. Martins in the Fields at 4 o'clock. Hope Allen, McKean's sister, will act as maid of honor and Anne and Katherine Schwartz will attend their sister as bridesmaids. After a wedding trip McKean and his bride will live in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percival Dray-ton, on Stenton avenue, Chestnut Hill.
