MISS SIGOURNEY IN TENNIS FINAL

Boston Girl to Play Mrs. Mallory Tomorrow for Middle States Title

MISS TOWNSEND LOSES

Miss Edith Sigourney, the Longwood evorite, and Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, five times national champion. tomorrow for the Middle States lawn tennis singles championchip, at the Philadelphia Cricket Club, St. Martins.

Miss Signrarey reached the final round by defeating Miss Martha Bayard, Short Hills, N. Y., in two sets, 7-5, 6-1, and Mrs. Mallory at the expense of Miss Anne Townsend, Merion.

Miss Townsend could offer little or position to the terrific service and amashing drives of the national champion. The local girl won only six points in the first set. She lost the first two games of the second set, but took the third. She also won the seventh, in the eighth game she did not allow Mrs. Mallory a point. The point score follows:

Three Semi-Finalists at Manheim Are Penn Men

Philadelphia and the University of Pennsylvania are getting the best share of the honors in the national tennis championships at Manheim. Two of the four semi-finalists who battle today are Philadelphians and three of them are Penn men. This the first time in history that so nany Penn men have reached the semi-final round of the all-comers. William T. Tilden, world's champion, and Wallace F. Johnson, former Davis Cup star, class of 1915, and Willis E. Davis, Pacific coast phenom, class of 1911, are all graduates of the University of Penn-sylvania and the first two named ire native Philadelphians. The othentry is James O. Country Club and Meadow Brook Foxhunters to Clash for Junior Championship

TEAMS ARE WELL MATCHED

The national junior pole champion ship will be decided this afternoon at the Philadelphia Country Clab, with Greens in Exceptional Condithe Country Club team in at the finish against the brilliant Mendow Brook forhunters, whose treatendous playing on Wednesday at Bala wrested the chance at the final from the equally strong Meadow Brook Wanderers.

Local interest in today's match is especially keen-almost as keen as in tomorrow's contest for the national senior championship between Meadow Brook and Rockaway, in which the All-Americans winners of the International Cup at Hurlingham this year will tense because of the number of Philadelphia men playing. The Foxhunters four includes Rodman Wanamaker, 2d, and Robert E. Strawbridge, Jr., both members of the Bryn Mawr Polo Club. F. S. Von Stade is No. 1 for the team, with Wanamaker at No. 2, Elliott C. Bacon at No. 3 and Strawbridge at eack. The quality of Strawbridge's degame was a beautiful thing to ce Wednesday.

The Philadelphia Country Club four is the familiar and strong combination of Thomas Stokes, W. Standley Stokes, Lowber Stokes and Barclay Mcthrough many seasons. The

PLAY STARTS TOMORROW

By GRANTLAND RICE

St. Louis, Sept. 16 .- In the foothills of the Ozarks, upon the farm of Seven Hills, the St. Louis Country Club is now waiting for the championship test which starts tomorrow. The course belongs to the rolling, billowy type, of fine length and with more than its share of

Laid out by Charles McDonald, architeet of the famous National Links at Southampton, the battlefield here will provide a severe test in spite of pre-liminary scores, which mean less than nothing. For there is a vast difference when the back tees are used; the pencil mes out and the pressure comes on, There are no less than ten bounds' possibilities that frequently verge upon probabilities where roads and fences skirt in uncomfortably close to the fairway. But only the loss of distance will be recorded for any odt-of-bounds mistake, and this will be a pleasant change from the heavy penalty imposed in the open at Columbia. There are hills and val-leys here bordered by trees and guarded brooks that call for hard hitting if one is to have the second shot open

Recent rains have brought a wonderful glow of green to the course, which is now in exceptional condition, groomed and manicured to a finish. One exceptional condition, is allowed to start gently with a drive and pitch for the first hole, and then two iron shot holes in succession, but after this light getaway trouble begins to pile up for the unwary as mistakes grow more and more costly.

At the sixth hole, for example, a arry of 180 yards is needed to clear out of bounds territory, where there is no compromise short of this yardage. The greens, due to the constant care and attention, with the help of late rains, are in first-class shape, and no alibis for poor putting will get by. St. Louis has made every preparacombining a well-conditioned aship course with a complete
