

Woman's Life and Love

Love Rights of Women

WOMEN'S rights have been exploited by suffrage advocates for a great many years, meaning only legal rights. Yet the most fundamental right—the right to love—has been neglected.

WINIFRED HARPER COOLEY

Good grace, tortoise, the outthinking person. Of course they always have had that right. Let them love all they want to; nobody cares. Yet society a few years ago had a curtailed right to love.

common for the married sister in a family to congratulate the spinster on her single state, which at least was negotiating comfortably, not actively rejecting. What about the right to love, physically and congenially, of a woman who is tied to a brute or a degenerate?

Mrs. Wilson Gives to the Housekeeper Three Splendid Meals For One Dollar

She Also Warns Her to Keep All Dry Groceries in Tin or Glass Containers—Excellent Recipe for Whole-Wheat Bread

By MRS. M. A. WILSON

THE mother of a family of growing children should plan to spend her budget as follows: Spend one-quarter of total food allowance for whole-wheat flour, natural rice and cereals, such as cornmeal, oatmeal, acorn, etc.

- Breakfast: Raised Apples, Cereal and Cream, French Toast, Coffee. Lunch: Corn Omelet, Sliced Tomatoes, Apple Sauce, Tea. Dinner: Lamb Stew with Dumplings, Creamed Carrots, Sliced Tomatoes, Apple Cake, Tea.

Use dried peas, beans, lentils, with beef, lamb and chicken and fish once a week. Now in order to keep an accurate record of the money spent for the food, the wise mother will not only help herself, but sometimes advance the child.

Beat to mix and then place these tablespoons of shortening in a skillet and when hot turn in the omelet. Wipe the skillet with a paper towel and add the omelet. Turn in a measure of the money spent. Purchase an expense book and have Katie or Johnny keep the accounts.

Now, having purchased the foods, it is very important to care for them to prevent waste, particularly in the case of eggs and butter. Eggs should be kept in their original packages and in a cool, dark place.

Wipe the meat, place in a saucepan and add salt, onion and sufficient boiling water to cover. Cook slowly until tender and then season. Be sure to have plenty of gravy. Thicken the gravy with flour. To make the dumplings grate the second ear of corn in a bowl and add:

How I Would Spend $1: One pound of bread of lamb... $2.25, Carrot... .15, One-half pound of butter... .15, Two ears of corn... .15, Two tomatoes... .05, Three eggs... .12, Two pints of milk... .20, Extra loaf of bread... .10, Apples... .15, Total... $1.00 and add two-thirds cup of water and work to a smooth mixture. Now place two quarts of water in a saucepan and add one teaspoon of salt. Boiling drop in the dumplings and cover closely for fifteen minutes. Keep the water boiling all the while. Lift with a slinger or platter and then lift the lamb and pour over the gravy.

Please Tell Me What to Do

By CYNTHIA

What of Curly Hair?

Dear Cynthia—I have never written to you before, but since you give such fine advice, I try to tell you how I feel. I am a mother of twenty and have a daughter of five years of age. Now, what I would like to know is this: Do you think she is too young to wear her hair in long curls? She has the cutest dark eyes and dark hair and the prettiest round face. YOUNG MOTHER.

Scolds "Tennessee"

Dear Cynthia—May I address a few words to the unamiable person called "Tennessee," you aren't the only nut who thought of a great resemblance between you and that subject, "Tennessee." You aren't the only nut who thought of a great resemblance between you and that subject, "Tennessee." You aren't the only nut who thought of a great resemblance between you and that subject, "Tennessee."

Doesn't Believe in Present-Day Marriage

Dear Cynthia—Which is the happier marriage, one founded on love, a mutual attraction, without a real knowledge of the other's character, or one founded on mutual long friendship?

Young Man Is Wise

Dear Cynthia—Please tell me what I have to do. I recently met a young man twenty-seven, of rather a settled disposition and a fine family. It was through a friend's introduction that we met, but during a dance, and I fully believe in the old adage, "I fell for the start and he too. Since that time, which was in August, he has called on me the average twice a week. I am I to believe his intention is to marry me. He has told me he loves me, and he does not appear to be of the flake, fool, every-day-of-the-same-kind type.

YOUR EYES WILL TELL

Did you ever know that the color of them says things about your character? Here are some helps in judging yourself and others

BLACK eyes seem to have read different messages to the men who made it their business to collect data upon the subject: "But the gleam of black orb, I warn you. For dark, even like Allah's ways, is that eye."

Adventures With a Purse

ONE OF THE most natural and logical things for a woman to think about as the cooler nights approach is the question of heavier bed clothes.

Has she enough for this year, or does her supply need replenishing? Well, this story is for her who must invest some money in blankets and things. First of all, about blankets. There is a shop that is having a special on blankets. They are all made of wool, are bound with pink or blue bands for decoration, and are priced at $13.50 a pair, which sounds pretty reasonable to me.

Sharp Mouths: A sharp mouth is one which projects a bit, so that when viewed in profile it becomes an outstanding feature. It is due to the projection of the teeth and the conformation of the upper and lower jaws, and must not be confused with lips which stand out because of their thickness. In fact, such mouths are rarely accompanied by thick lips, and when they are the significance of them is largely modified.

Tomorrow—Extension Ears

THE life that is least conscious of its fitness is a merely average life. Its utter lack of any sense of pride in its own goodness, makes it better in its ordinary moments than the life that is aware of its superiority over the "sordidness of living."

The Question Corner

- 1. How can an artist's easel be used by an invalid? 2. Describe an easily-made lamp-stand which would be a surprise for a card party or gift for a bride's shower. 3. Why is it better to hang out white clothes without wringing them too dry? 4. What is Gretta Green? 5. In what unusual and useful way is the huge collar of a fur coat made in front? 6. If a sleeve is too tight around the arm, how can it be widened and at the same time kept in accordance with new styles?

Saturday's Answers

- 1. Mrs. Leonard Ward, of Erick, Okla., had the honor of being the first woman to graduate in the same class with her son at the State University. 2. Fasten a piece of sandpaper along the edges of shelves in the kitchen, in order to keep dishes placed upright against the wall from slipping down. 3. If you'll have dinner with me, we'll talk it over," he returned. "How about it?" She hesitated. After all, why not? If she did make for shore, she would soon be able to put Richard Blacklesie in front of her, but she would be sensible about the situation which he seemed determined to manage in his own way.

Things You'll Love to Make

Novelty Necklace

Here is a NOVELTY NECKLACE that you will love to wear with one of your simple new fall frocks. It is made of large flat wooden beads, each one of the raised edges paint small blue or pink forget-me-nots. Glue the two buttons together, back to back, string small beads on heavy thread. Run a string of the beads through the center holes and fasten them at the top. Run another string through the holes and fasten one inch away from the other string. Now join the long chain of beads to the ends of the two strings and you will have a fascinating NOVELTY NECKLACE. FLORA.

Women Who Worship Outward Beauty Often Ruin the Beauty of Their Souls

They Cannot Endure Anything Ugly and They Forget That the Path to the Beautiful Often Leads Through Ugliness

"NO TONGUE can tell," wrote Maeterlinck, "the power of a soul that strives to live in an atmosphere of beauty and is actively beautiful itself." Sometimes in our quest for beauty and our love of the beautiful we go a little too far. We take the poet's words a little too literally. We think, for instance, that he means material beauty, things, and we wear beautiful colors always, made in beautiful ways; we have our hair arranged so that it is nothing short of beautiful, and we assume the sweet, pious expression that looks as if it were saying "beauty" all the time.

On the Newest Hats

Lace is a becoming and decorative note which is still much used. It is sometimes seen in long streamers that fall from the brim across the back and down to the waist-line, or again, it is draped at one side. There are some shadow designs, but the Spanish lace is particularly interesting and quite different from anything used during the summer, because of their definitely metallic laces in gold and silver are decorative evening hats.

WHAT'S WHAT

No matter how much a hostess may disapprove of a guest's speech or action, she should not express any vexation on the subject while the guest is seated under her roof—unless the offense verges on crime. To rebuke a demerit is a gross breach of the etiquette of a hostess. To make a slight infraction of etiquette by even a casual glance is a gross breach of the etiquette of a hostess.

Plattsburgisms

THEY have two words in the army which they use very much and which are meaningful. One is "mission." The soldier's mission is the thing he is given to do. There may be any one of a hundred other things he is anxious to do with opportunities constantly presenting themselves. But the true soldier passes them by. He is on his mission. He will do the thing he has to do because he has to do it. So he fulfills his "mission."

The Heart Pirate

By HAZEL DEYO BATCHELOR

Richard Blacklesie had become engaged to Jimmy Blair, and to her surprise he was happy about it. She felt that she was being carried off because he felt that she was his right and he carried her off on his boat for a business trip to South America. The boat at first refused to work and then a storm brings her into personal relations with the man who had carried her off.

CHAPTER XXV

'I Have Something to Tell You'

Brought them no relief. With her blue suit gone, she had nothing at all to wear unless she wished to put on some of the lovely clothes Richard Blacklesie had provided for her. And she did want to wear those clothes! She did, she did, she did! More than anything in the world. But how could she without lowering her pride? It was out of the question. And yet there was the other side of the problem. How could she remain in her stateroom for days? Lovely as it was and luxurious in its appointments, it seemed like a prison now with its two small porthole windows. She longed for the deck. She had planned to steal up there as soon as darkness fell for a brisk walk, but without anything to wear it was, of course, impossible.

A brisk knock sounded on the door. "Who's there?" she called. "Who's there?" she snapped out. "Miss Caldwell." It was Richard Blacklesie's voice. She went to the door, unlocked it, and there he stood, simply stood there looking at her accusingly. "Have I sinned beyond your forgiveness?" he asked, a smile curving his mouth and giving a menacing gleam to his eyes. "It's really very lovely up on deck. Won't you relax and have dinner with me? We'll have it served up here." "I am sorry, Mr. Blacklesie, but it's quite impossible."

The Uneven Skirt Hem

Increases in Favor

The old game of "odd or even" is now changed to read "odd and even." The pertains, of course, to skirt hems. A woman whose skirt hangs even is certainly odd as the woman who never makes excuses. As a means of providing this variety, we are perpetuating the side pencil longer than the skirt. In this detail, indeed, we find one of the longest skirts ever published in the world of fashion. Each season we think we'll come to the end, but there's always a "continued in our next" sign present.
