

DR. SUN FEARS WAR OVER ARMS PARLEY

Says U. S. Must Fight Japan With Words Now or With Guns Later

NO ANSWER FROM HARDING

Special Cable Dispatch. Copyright, 1921. Canton, Sept. 19.—America must either fight Japan with words now or with bullets later, according to Dr. Sun Yat Sen, president of the Southern Republic of China, who received an American correspondent yesterday in his home at Government House in Canton. He thinks that the Washington conference, in which he has not been invited to take part, is likely to lead to war instead of peace.

Dr. Sun wrote a long and frank letter to President Harding last May and he thinks that the suggestions in his letter might have something to do with the calling of the conference, but Mr. Harding did not answer it and the Sun Government remains unrecognized.

He had hoped that the Wood-Forbes mission would stop at Canton, but they, too, ignored him. A few members went up to Canton from Hongkong, but they made an unofficial trip and did not see Dr. Sun. The Southern Government is a simple and unassuming man, democratic in his tastes and not surrounded by pomp or show. He wears a plain gray suit unadorned by decorations. He speaks excellent English.

"I want America to realize what the situation in China is," he said earnestly. "The way things look at present I have very little hope for the results of the disarmament conference. 'You mean for China?' the correspondent asked. "Yes, and for America, too," was his answer. "If America does not take a strong hand now and help China keep off Japan it will have to go to war later. My Government is really at war with Japan now. We in South China are fighting now for the American open-door policy. You do not see that. You must help us soon, however, or it may be too late; maybe this Government cannot stand much longer alone against the Japanese pressure and propaganda."

BANDIT BETRAYED BY WIFE

Two Men Arrested for Robbing Circus Near Vancouver. Vancouver, Wash., Sept. 19.—By A. P. Ray Moore and Bert Orcutt, shot by officers near here yesterday, were identified as two of the three men who robbed a Sells-Floto circus truck of more than $25,000 near Vancouver, last Friday.

The men's names were learned from two women, who accompanied members of the circus party to a cafe where a farmer had found a quantity of money. At the jail both refused to talk. The women said they were Mrs. Moore, wife of one of the men, and Miss Christine Gross.

POLITICS UPSETS MUNICH

Hue and Cry Raised Against Reactionary Organizations

Special Cable Dispatch. Copyright, 1921. Berlin, Sept. 19.—Munich is seething with excitement and the citizens of the beer-loving town no longer have time for a peaceful glass of beer, they being forced to attend uncountable political conferences. The papers are full of reports concerning anti-republican organizations. "Orks," one of the reactionary organizations, with headquarters in a fortified castle near Rosenheim, was denounced, and today the castle was empty, all plotters having fled to Salzburg, Austria.

GREEKS IN FULL RETREAT

Retiring to Positions They Held Before Drive on the Turks

Constantinople, Sept. 19.—Greek forces engaged in the offensive against the Turkish Nationalists in Asia Minor have begun a general retreat toward the positions they held before the drive began. Information received here indicates the Greeks have fallen back toward the Sakaria River, the forcing of which caused heavy casualties during a battle which lasted more than ten days. The movement backward across the river was accomplished without enemy pressure. The Turks in this city are rejoicing over this turn in affairs, and are displaying the Turkish flag. The Greeks, on the other hand, appear to be disheartened by the reverse, as they had believed the fall of Angora to be certain.

PETROGRAD RELIEF WORK SPEEDED UP

Americans Overcome Big Handicaps and Quickly Supply Children With Food

SOVIET GRANTS REQUESTS

Special Cable Dispatch. Copyright, 1921. Petrograd, Sept. 19.—Fifteen days after the signature of the contract between the American Relief Administration and the Bolsheviks and four days after the arrival of the first cargo of supplies at Petrograd the first American kitchen was opened in Soviet School No. 27. Any doubts as to whether Hoover meant business were dispelled by the rapidity with which the machinery was put in motion during the four days between the arrival of the ship and the opening of the kitchen. It was necessary for the Americans to find and put in order suitable warehouses, arrange for the unloading of the cargo, establish an office, select Russian personnel, arrange medical aid, recruit children, establish the kitchen, and transport the food from the warehouse to the kitchen.

All this would have been sufficiently complicated under ordinary conditions, but it was made more difficult on account of the Soviet system, which was entirely different to anything the Americans had ever seen before. It was not an easy matter for the American Relief Administration to fit into the Russian scheme, especially in view of the contract by which, although they have a free hand in establishing their organization, they could not interfere with the Soviet arrangement of things. That the Soviet is living up to its contract is evidenced by the fact that so much has been accomplished in such a short time.

According to the Soviet system, every one works for the Government, and when the Americans need a particular person to assist them they request the authorities for his service. Up to the present time all requests have been granted.

The opening of the first American kitchen was an event in the city. An American woman living in Petrograd took charge of the cooking, being assisted by a well-known chef, who explained that it had been such a long time since he had prepared anything but soup that he had forgotten his art. It was interesting to watch the expressions on faces of the children when they were being fed the piles of rice pudding and caldrons of cocoa. At first they were overawed at the sight of being handed a roll or a piece of white bread they could not contain themselves.

"This is better than Easter," said one child—Easter being Russia's greatest holiday, at which the children eat all kinds of dainties.

The American Relief Administration estimates that it will open 100 kitchens in which it will feed 50,000 children of Petrograd.

JAPANESE WOULD DISCUSS OUR COAST

Viscount Kato Declares U. S. and Mexican Shores Should Be Taken Up

By the Associated Press. Tokyo, Sept. 19.—Japan should insist in discussing at the Washington conference not only questions regarding the Far East, but also matters affecting the American coast, including Mexico, and also Australia, says Viscount Takaaki Kato, president of the Kensei-Kai, or Opposition party, in a statement issued here. The withdrawal of fortifications from all islands in the Pacific, the neutralization of the Panama Canal, the removal of limitations on coastwise trade throughout the world and the settlement of racial discrimination on the principle of the co-existence of mankind and the spirit of justice and humanity should be included in Japan's proposals at the conference, in the opinion of the National Policy Investigation Association. This body was organized to educate the public concerning the conference.

Several professors are leaders of the association and before the war with Russia the same men formed a similar organization for furthering the spirit of patriotism. On that occasion they were assisted by many of the leading publicists of Japan.

In addition to the foregoing demands, the association believes self-defense armaments should be reduced to the minimum. The organization also urges that the sovereignty and integrity of China should be respected and that all her customs rights should be restored. It holds that the right of Siberian people to govern themselves should be recognized, and that the "open door" should be inaugurated in all countries touching the Pacific. The army and navy advisory delegates going to the Washington conference will sail on the steamship Korea Maru on October 1.
