Nancy Wynne Tells of Attending the Howard Butchers' Tea Saturday Afternoon-She Chats About Clothes. St. Cecilia Dances Oldest in America

affairs. Why, I could not be telephone ears on Saturday when the telephone rang and Mrs. — asked me to motor out to Ardmore with her to the Butcher out to Ardmore with her to the Butcher tes. I said, "Why, my dear, you're all wrong, the tea is not for some time; all wrong, the tea is not for some time; why, it is not until the seventeenth of the month "Well," said my patient and long-suffering friend, "If you can prove to me that this very day on which we, that is, you and I, are talking, conversing, arguing and fussing over this phone, is not Saturday the seventeenth of this month of September, I'll be glad to let you have the last l be glad to let you have the last

Suddenly it came upon me, that I did indeed protest foolishly, for before mine eyes was my calendar and there it was eyes was my calendar and there it was Saturday, September 17. And so I srgued no further, but hastened to accept the proffered motor ride, for I did want to go to that tea. I wanted to meet the daughter of the Howard Butchers for I greatly admire and slways have admired her mother, Marsaret Keene Butcher, and I am always interested in her and hers.

And indeed it was a lovely tea. Mrs.
Butcher looked so sweet in her gown of eeru lace combined with brown tulle, ecru lace combined with brown tulle, over a satin slip of peach color. And the debutante was dear. Her dress was a combination of white lace and tulle over fiesh-colored crepe de chine. She is rather fair, yeu know, has light brown har, blue eyes and a fair skin.

was just right.

And oh how pretty the flowers were!

A perfect symphony of color, pale pastel tints, brilliant dahlias, delicate roses, chrysanthemums, asters, del-phinium, violets, and every kind of ower you could think of.

flewer you could think of.

The girls who received with her looked well, too. It strikes me there's a very pretty set this year. Caroline Remak looked perfectly dear, and Helen Mitchell was sweet, too. There was a dinner and dance after the tea for the receiving party and additional greats.

Margaret is not going in for society Margaret is not going in for society very vehemently, you know. Instead of staying in bed most of yesterday to rest staying out of after the strenuous coming out of Saturday, she was up and off for Vassar, where she will work most of the time, returning home for some week-ends and the big holidays, when she will go out, but she is not giving up her winter to gayety alone.

SAW Brownie Warburton out at Manheim one day last week, and she had a most fetching costume. It was of heavy gray canton crepe, made perfectly plain, and was topped with a cape of plain, and was topped with a cape of the same material trimmed with wide fringe. Her hat was made of the crepe and had a few white flowers at the side of the back. But her jewels! Goodand had a few white flowers at the side of the back. But her jewels! Goodness me, but they were wonderful! I think she had about eight bracelets, solid bands of diamonds, sapphires and rubies; that is, I saw one bracelet of capphires so dark as to appear almost black, one of rubies and about six of diamonds. She had a string of pearls, the ordinary length, falling about five inches from the throat, and then a rope which fell almost to her knees. I saw her another time in the same gray frock, but this time she wore a cape and hat of deep purple broadcloth.

Will open their town house at 2222 Rithands and the daughter, and her daughter. Mrs. Lewis Audenried and her daughter, Mrs. George Fox and her daughter, Mrs. Callfulle, Mrs. George Fox and her daughter, Mrs. Georg of deep purple broadcloth.

SOMETIMES inadvertently we make mistakes, and it appears that on Wednesday of last week when announc-ing the dates of the coming Assemblies ing the dates of the coming Assemblies it was said that they were the oldest continuous balls in this country. I am told by a Southern lady, who, "bein' from the South," says she could not let that pass, that this is a great mistake; that three years before the first assembly was held in Philadelphia there were started in Charleston, S. C., the St. Cecilia dances, and they have been kept up to this day. I had not heard of these dances before, so hasten to pass the information on.

While on the subject of the Assembly, I noticed on reading the article over

While on the subject of the Assembly, I noticed on reading the article over that a typographical error had been made in the names of the committee for this year. Mr. Charles J. Biddle, Jr.'s name had been given with the prefix Dr. instead of Mr. He is Charlie Biddle, our famous ace, you know, and not a member of the medical profession.

THERE'LL be a debutante tea this week, and out on the Main Line, too, Virginia de Morat Smith, daughter of the Arthur Dearborn Smiths, of Spring Valley, Wynnewood, will be in-troduced at a tea to be given by her troduced at a tea to be given by her parents. Virginia spent last winter
