Nancy Wynne Tells of Seeing Mrs. Rinehart at the Theatre—She Speaks of the Bryn Mawr Horse Show. An Interesting Bit About Mrs. Ned Robins

It was most exciting at the theatre last night because Mary Roberts Rinehart came on herself to be present at the opening night of "The Bat," the play which she and Avery Hopwood wrote and which had its first night here last evening.

She was the guest of the George Lorimer over night and Mrs. Lorimer gave a box party for her honor. The world and the wife were there, and it was really the first dressy evening of the season, for most of the women were in evening gowns, and the men put on their "low-cut" coats, too; and it is only September, you know, I saw so many people I knew I could not begin to tell you who all were there, but I certainly do like first nights like that, with the author present and every one all dolled up. It is so gay.

And just think—tomorrow the Horse Show will open up at Bryn Mawr. It is to last through four days. I am so glad it's Bryn Mawr, because, as I have often and anon remarked, I think the Bryn Mawr Polo Club grounds are the most picturesque in our suburbs.

Then, too, if you go for a "something-else" train and find it was a "something-else" you don't have to wait a half hour for the next, but you can go to the electric, and you are as near the show grounds that way as you are by train.

So it's easy to get to, lovely to see and will be all over this evening. Now, what more could you ask? I like things to finish in one week and not being over into two or three days of the next week; it always seems sort of chummy to have them half in one week and half in another.

There will be a good many parties in connection with the show and several small dances and dinners in the evenings. I understand a number of men from various Hunt Clubs will be there and there have been a great many entries for the show.

Did you know the "Emily Robins" on the nominating ballot for school visitor at the primaries the other day is Mrs. Ned Robins? I did not realize it at the time, for, unfortunately, "School Visitor" was not on the sample ballot. I had carefully studied over to prevent any mistake on my real ballot. (They are a bit confusing, to say the least, you will allow.)

But the name sounds so right to me, and having known Mrs. Robins' step-sister-in-law, who was Emily Robins, I thought she was of that family and she had the indorsement of that club in her candidacy for the office. She is the niece of Mrs. David Clegg, you know, and the granddaughter of the late Colonel F. Theodore Walton, one of the most prominent of this city as Recorder of Deeds and still earlier a distinguished member of the military staff of Governor Curtin.

They got into the trolley the other day, mother, Betty and Aunt Ethel. Betty was interested in everything, but not particularly in the sample ballot, and he-wisdomed gentleman who sat down by the end of the car. She would talk to mother and auntie and then she would turn and look back at the white-whiskered gentleman. Finally Aunt Ethel said, "What are you looking at, Betty?" And the small voice

BENEFIT FOR HOSPITAL

Promenade is Planned by Friends of the Misericordia Hospital, Fifty-fourth street and Cedar avenue, will be the beneficiary of a promenade to be given in the Rose Room of the Bellevue-Stratford Monday evening under the auspices of the Sisters of Mercy.

The committee supervising the promenade is composed of surgeons, physicians and nurses connected with the hospital staff. The promenade will mark the formal opening of the season in Catholic social circles and a large attendance is expected.

On the list of patronesses are many women of social prominence in this city.

Professional Dancers wear them

Dancers must safeguard the health and comfort of their feet most carefully. Many professional dancers have adopted Cantilever shoes for their off-stage footwear, because they realize the benefit and enjoy the freedom of these flexible-shank shoes. The Cantilever Shoe is patterned with extraordinary care to fit the arch of the foot. It supports the arch but it does not contain a steel shank-piece as ordinary shoes do.

The last follows the lines of the foot. The natural inner sole line allows the toes to point straight ahead in their normal healthy position. The heels are set to encourage good posture, and they accord with the new style.

If you have been suffering from fatigue, backache, neuritis, nervousness, burning or aching feet, change for a month to Cantilever Shoes. They will give you better health and a new enjoyment of comfort.
