TOWEVER, for the sake of veracity

HOWEVER, for the sake of veraeity and various other reasons, let me say that since that exciting afternoon the awnings and stand have been made very secure, and methinketh 'twould rake a hurricane to remove that awn' ing now. So if it rains today you really won't get so wet as you would if the awning were to arise on its hind legs, so to speak, as it did these sev-eral years past. In fact, I was out there in the rain one day last year and did not get one bit wet. But for the Last year you saw very few who had kept their long tresses; nearly every deb had short, curly hair. But this senson that stage of hairdressing seems to have stayed with the sub-deb set.
