Nancy Wynne Tells of the Engagement of Miss Martha Baker to Mr. Griggs, of St. Paul—She Speaks of Styles at the Horse Show This Week

THE interesting engagement that I hinted about a week or so ago is announced today. And it is Patty Baker's. I suppose some of you guessed I was referring to one of the Bakers when I said she was "one of several attractive sisters, for they are all so attractive; and whenever you hear of a family of five or six sisters you always think of the Baker girls. Well, Patty, whose rightful name is Martha Dodgson Baker, is engaged to Benjamin Glyde Griggs, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Milton Griggs, of St. Paul. And the engagement is announced today by Mrs. Baker.

I don't know how you feel about it, but I feel sorry for Mr. Baker because of the wide scattering of her family, though I rejoice with the girls who are marrying the men they care for. Here's Julie going to be married in a few days and going down to San Antonio, Tex., to live. Sophie married Ethan Allen Shepley, of St. Louis, in July; Linda was married several years ago to Mr. Ames, of St. Paul, and Rachel are married John Bell, Jr., and Rachel are the only two left in Philadelphia. It's nice that Linda and Martha will live in the same city. St. Paul is a beautiful city and has many fine things to see. Several months ago on the fact that she had married men from cities whose names begin with Saint, and now here is Martha keeping up the tradition.

Rachel just came back from Italy a few weeks ago. You know she went over with the two Strawbridge girls and several others for two months, and they had a wonderful time. But to return to the engagement. I have very nice things about Ben Griggs. Patty has known him for some time, I understand. He is a graduate of Yale, where he spent several months, and he has just returned from Europe. In fact, some one said he and Patty had not seen each other for three months, as he had been over there that long. He is to be one of the ushers at Julie's wedding in October.

I hear Sophie had a delightful summer. Mr. Shepley was able to stay on here till the middle of this month, and he was in New England most of the time and traveled around quite a lot. It's too bad they could not be there for Julie's wedding when it is to take place so soon, but he could not stay away from business any longer, and Sophie did not want to stay without him, and so they have gone to St. Louis, where they are getting settled in their new home.

I wonder if it will be as hot today as it was yesterday and Wednesday, because, according to all calculations and predictions and all the rest of it, "it had not ought to be so hot at this time of year as it has been. And incidentally when you have a beautiful day like this you are bound to find it just not quite what you had hoped it was going to be.

Furthermore, it must be hot for those who insist in their minds that it was not hot and not in the boxes and not on the terraces in sports clothes and capes—mind you, capes!—Cintia Ellis wore the most wonderful one on Wednesday. It was of duvetyne in a soft shade of brilliant orange, and she wore a large black velvet hat with it. Cintia is decidedly pretty and has brought some wonderful frocks from Europe for the parties this year. She made her debut last Saturday at an at home given by her parents in Bryn Mawr.

Far be it from me to criticize, but as an interested onlooker I wonder why the harem veil was worn of late. Why does any one want to put a wad of heavy giffon about the neck and attach it up to the back of the hat, thereby closing out all possible air, and especially why on days such as the last few have been? Somehow I can't get it. It is not pretty, it is not becoming, and yet the fashion seems to be growing and growing strong. I saw about fifteen out at the tennis, and there have been a great many at the Horse Show. Of course, every one to his or her taste, as the old farmer said when he pointed his cow sky blue, but why do you suppose some of us have such "peculiar" tastes?

Betty was playing with her kitten when Aunt Edith came to call. The kitten, whose name is Evalina, was skipping about most gayly, chasing a ball and a spoon and itself and having a wonderful time. "What a playful little thing it is," said Aunt Edith.
