Nancy Wynne Talks of the Allen-Schwartz Wedding on Saturday—She Attends the Morris Tea for Miss Ellen Douglas Lloyd at Ardmore

SATURDAY was certainly some busy day. There was Emmie Schwartz's wedding at 4 o'clock in the afternoon out at St. Martins-in-the-Field, and there was Ellen Lloyd's tea out at Ardmore.

It really was not so hard to manage both, though it sounds as if they were well apart, to say the least. But you see McKean Allen and Emmie were married promptly at 4 o'clock, and the Schwartz house is on Walnut lane, so that after going to the reception there you could motor over to the Lincoln drive down to City Line and across through Bala and on up Montgomery avenue into Ardmore. I managed to get to the Schwartz house to see the bride and bridegroom, talked with Mrs. Schwartz and even had some "eats" without hurrying at all. And I was at the Morrises by 5:30 o'clock. I was glad I did get to both affairs, for they were beautiful and the day was gorgeous after the heat of the last three days of September.

THE wedding was entirely a white one, the bridesmaids and maid of honor wearing no color. It was lovely, too. They looked so sweet, and Emmie was perfectly lovely. Hope Allen, McKean's sister, was the maid of honor, and the Schwartz twins, Katharine and Anna, Emmie's sisters, were bridesmaids.

McKean had two of his brothers, Wharton and George, among his ushers, and Warren Downs, his cousin, was another usher. You know Warren's sister, Atlee Downs, is to be married today. There's nothing like having two weddings in the family just a day apart, is there? Of course, it's not the immediate family, because McKean Allen, the bridegroom of Saturday, is a first cousin of Atlee Downs, but they are a devoted and very united family and are much together.

I hear that the Allens have taken Mr. Percy Drayton's house on Stenton avenue in Chestnut Hill for the winter. Mr. Drayton, you know, is ill in the Chestnut Hill Hospital. He has been ill for many months, and I hear has recently shown a little improvement. Every one feels sorry for him and his wife. They have been devoted, and this long illness has been a terrible thing for them.

WELL, to go back to Saturday, as I said I went to the Effingham Morris tea for their granddaughter, Ellen Lloyd, after the Allen wedding, and it was certainly a beautiful affair. Such flowers! I do not remember ever having seen so many at any other tea for years. They were everywhere, such dahlias, and such roses and chrysanthemums. Ellen was charming in a French frock of white chiffon combined with white taffeta. It was made in Empire style and was simplicity itself. Of course, it was French, straight from Paris. It came home with Ellen herself when she returned last spring. Mrs. Lloyd, who received with Mrs. Morris, looked smart in a gown of steel gray chiffon made over a gray satin slip. There were a good many girls in the receiving party, and they all looked so young and sweet and fresh. I am beginning to like teas and have decided to take the trip to Penllyn tomorrow afternoon to the Harry Draytons' affair for Evelyn.

I SAW Mrs. Harrison Caner, Jr., on Broad street the other day. She had come up from Cape May, where they spent the summer, to arrange to move into town. She looked smart in a dark blue crepe de chine frock and a bright red felt hat turned back off the face. She was wearing about her neck some brilliant red beads from which was suspended a parrot done in red and green beads. It was a stunning and most unusual ornament.

MOTHER took John, aged five, with her to visit Aunt Mary, and he was sent out in the yard to play with his little cousin, who is two years younger. He came in a little later to ask if they might walk up and down outside the gate. Permission was given and he returned to little Alfred.

Mother and Aunt Mary heard a bit of an altercation in front of the house in a few minutes, and, looking out, beheld Alfred waving his hand around rather wildly in the air, as he steadfastly refused to take John's hand and "walk nice," as John was suggesting. Finally John gave it up, came back into the garden with Alfred, and after carefully shutting and fastening the gate left him there while he joined mother and Aunt Mary, remarking as he sat down: "That's enough for me. I don't bother with other people's children again after this."

REV. MOTHER ELDER BURIED

Nun, Beloved in Philadelphia, Served Here for Years

The funeral of the Rev. Mother Frances Elder, who died Saturday at the Sacred Heart Convent in Albany, took place there this morning. Interment was in the cemetery on the convent grounds.

Mother Elder was long identified with good work in this city. She entered the Sacred Heart Convent at an early age and was sent as a young nun to this city, where she taught in the convent then at 1334 Walnut street. While still a young "religious" she was made superior of the convent on Seventeenth street, in New York. Then she was sent to Eden Hall, in Torresdale. Later she was stationed again in New York and in Cincinnati, and came once more to Eden Hall in 1900, where she remained till seven years ago.

Mother Elder was widely known for her charity, singular sweetness of character and gracious hospitality. Many converts to the Catholic Church in this city received their instruction from her, one among them being Monsignor Nevin F. Fisher, rector of Our Mother of Sorrows Church.

For several years Mother Elder has been stationed at the Novitiate Home, Kenwood, near Albany. She had been in failing health for some time. Her death will be a sorrow to many persons in this city. It was while she was superior at Eden Hall that the yearly retreats for "women working in the world" were inaugurated. Last summer there were two such retreats at Eden Hall, some 250 attending each.

Urges Church Not to Retrench

This is no time for retrenchment by part of the church, according to the Revd Dr. P. K. Emmons, of the First Presbyterian Church, Trenton, who addressed Methodist clergymen today at their Monday meeting at Seventeenth and Arch streets. The world is in need, he declared, and the Church must reach out as never before.

OVER THE HILL
THERE MUST BE A REASON
WHY PEOPLE WILL FLOCK, FOR A SOLID YEAR IN ONE CITY, TO SEE A CERTAIN ATTRACTION.
AND IT IS AN UNWRITTEN LAW OF THE NEW YORK RIALTO THAT WHEN YOU MOVE A SUCCESSFUL ATTRACTION FROM ONE THEATRE TO ANOTHER YOU CANNOT PICK UP THE CROWDS AGAIN AT THE NEW LOCATION. YET WILLIAM FOX'S "OVER THE HILL" MADE FIVE MOVES. IT OCCUPIED, AT DIFFERENT TIMES THROUGHOUT ITS RUN, SIX THEATRES, AND THE CROWDS KEPT FLOCKING TO IT, JUST THE SAME. THE CROWDS THAT MADE UP THE AUDIENCES OF "OVER THE HILL" CONSTITUTE ONE OF THE STRANGEST PSYCHOLOGICAL PHENOMENA OF STAGE HISTORY. IT WAS NOT A GATHERING OF THE ERUDITE AND WEALTHY. IT WAS NOT AN OUTPOURING OF THE TOILERS AND THE MASSES. IT WAS NOT THE FRIVOLOUSLY INCLINED IN SEARCH OF RIOTOUS AMUSEMENT. IT WAS NOT THE RELIGIOUS AND SEDATE IN QUEST OF MILD ENTERTAINMENT. IT WAS JUST A LOT OF EACH. PROOF POSITIVE OF THE UNIVERSAL APPEAL OF THIS SIMPLE STORY THAT HAS BEEN SO POWERFULLY DONE. THE MANY-SIDEDNESS OF "OVER THE HILL" HAS MADE IT A WORK APART FROM ANY OTHER PICTURE EVER PRODUCED. AND ONE THAT WILL STAND COMPARISON WITH THE BEST CINEMA OFFERINGS OF THE FUTURE.
