WEST PHILA. FINDS Smallest Playing Area at Polo Grounds STAR IN BURGHOLM

Understudy for Injured Beiswanger Makes Good at Center for Speedboys

DISCOVERED BY WEILLER

By PAUL PREP

When Bill Belswinger, star center of West Philadelphia High, was injured a few days before the opening football game of the season with Rad-EDGE, SAY GIANTS nor High School at Wayne last Friday, the outlook for the season was anything but bright to the Orange and Blue squad.

And just as a thick cloak of calamity was spreading Warren Weiller, the coach, discovered Ovar Burgholm. Every one in the squad knew that Beinswanger's broken nose would keep him out of the game for the rest of the season, and all were trying to figure out just what individual would be se-grented to do the passing in the Budan ected to do the passing in the Radnor game, one of the most important on the Speedboys' schedule. Coach Weiller also was trying to dope Over in one corner of Kirkbrides' Field, the practice grounds of the West Philly eleven, the scrub team was workng out. The regular scrub center was taking a rest, and a strapping big fellow, a tackle, was tossing the oval to backs in his stand.

Watches Youngster

Weiller sat up and took notice, or, rather, he walked over to the spot and watched the youngster for a few moments. Pretty soon he turned to where Bill Belswanger, the injured center, was standing and motioned him over. "Take this fellow and teach him some of the of the art of passing," said Weiller.
"Then bring him back to me."

Beiswanger, with nose bandaged, took Burgholm, for it was he, to another part of the field and started to teach him to play the center position. Year proved an adept pupil and soon year proved an adept pupil and soon the province with his protection. Selawanger returned with his protege. The youngster was inserted in the regular line-up and what he did to the scrub center is West Philly history. He showed up so well that Weiller gave m a uniform and he was started in he Radnor game.

For a new man Burgholm played his position superbly. He had only one had pass and was the Orange and Blue star on the defense. He was one of the few real stars of the game.

The Aquinas bashetball team has elected Sid Smith to manage the team this year and he will have the same line-up that last season won the championship of the city. The players are Pete Klipatrick, Charles O'Nell, Jay Smith, Andy McMahon, McGuckin, Hanraty and McNamee. They will play all home games at their own hall at Sighteenth and Morris streets. Mays Pitches Only 86 Balls to Giants

An analysis of the pitching of the first game shows that Mays in nine innings pitched 86 times, an average of 914 an inning. Twenty-eight of these pitches were balls, 18 were strikes and 9 foul strikes. Twenty resulted in infield outs and 5 in outfield flies. The 5 hits of the Giants and a hit batter accounted for the Douglas sent the ball to the plate 103 times in the eight innings be worked, almost 13 to the inning, 39 times pitching balls, putting over 25 strikes and 6 foul strikes, and being touched for 3 fouls which did not count as strikes. Fourteen infield outs, one outfield out and the Yankees' 5 hits make up the remainder. The Yankees' other 2 hits were times—10 balls, 7 strikes, 1 foul trike and 2 infield outs.

EWING ELEVEN TO

Start Twenty-sixth Season With All-Phila. on Strawbridge & Clothier Grounds

HAVE A POWERFUL LINE-UP

The Ewing A. A. is about to start Its twenty-sixth successive year on the gridiron. The 1921 senson will be ushered in on Saturday afternoon on the Strawbridge & Clothier field, playing as a home cleven against All-Philadelphie which second a 7 to 3 feet and 1 feet a fee delphia, which scored a 7 to 0 win over Ewing last year. According to both Messrs. Wyatt and Ewing they have one of the classiest teams in this section and they expect to set a record for an independent aggregation this

There is no doubt that Ewing has a wonderful aggregation, and they should be able to uphold their reputation if they can escape the hoodoo that fol-lowed them last year and which laid low the majority of their stars. Among their players are Jimmy Moore, the kicking king of feetball; Jack Glascott, former all around star and captain and halfback of Catholic University, and Jack Dougberty, star twister of Donovigor because of the cold wave. Cance Jack Dougherty, star twiffer of Dono-MacAldrich booted the longest field goal van-Armstrong, and a grid player of note at Georgetown.

Others are Fred Harmer, of Dela-ware College; Pat Ryrne, star infielder of the North Phillies ball team; Ez Hartman, of Frank'in and Marshall; Hartman, of Frank'in and Marshall; Doug Gardner and Harry LeBline, of Dickson's Maine team; Dutch Lehman, of Villanova Prep; Jack Christie, of Villanova; Joe Shambelan, of New York University; George Hugo, former West Philly High star, whose services were sought by nearly every team city; Matt Lukeus, of the
