Relates His Troubles With Pests of the Wire-Others Also Complain

Harry McDevit, the Governor's secetary, is a candidate for president. He has been a candidate since he read a little dissertation on "Telephone Manners,"

In this the suggestion was made for the organization of the S. P. C. T. B. M., the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Tired Business Men. It is this society Mr. McDevitt wishes to bend.

But let him tell it himself

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger: Sir-Please consider my application for the presidency of the organization suggested in your editorial entitled "Telephone Manners." When I read it I thought the man who wrote it had probably sat at my desk for twentyfour hours, for they don't respect days or hours when they feel inclined to get in touch with the Governor. Fortunately for him, they cannot reach

Wednesday night of last week I was called up by a gentleman at 12:45 A. M., who wanted to know where the Governor would be on Thursday. When I inquired how long he had been in Harrisburg he announced that he had arrived about S o'clock in the evening, so I suppose it took him four and three-quarter hours to decide what he should do.

On Friday night I was called up at 1:15 A. M. by a former newspaper-man who had been languisting in Central Station from 8:30 in the evening. His was a modest request. He only wanted the Governor to have him re-leased until the next morning, and so leased until the next morning, and so it goes night after night. However, it seems to be part of such a job and I have neither discon-nected the telephone nor taken my name out of the directory. I desire to wish you great success in the organization of your new society. HARDEN S. McDEVITT.

HARRY S. McDEVITT.

P. S .- You ought to hear Mrs. Mc Devitt's opinion of such fellows.

And here are other letters, inspired by the same editorial:

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger: Sir-Let me congratulate you on the editorial published in your paper on Monday of this week regarding tele-phone manners. I am a very busy woman and that article went straight to the point for me

"Only recently I had an engage-ment to attend an important meeting in the suburbs and had-been delayed because of an important letter. I was because of an important letter. I was expecting a long-distance call which had bearing on this meeting and it was important to get it before I left. Just two minutes before I should have gone for the train the telephone rang, and I ran to answer it myself. The voice asked for me personally and then said. "Just a moment please." I then said, "Just a moment please." I asked who it was, but there was no answer, so thinking it was long dis-tance and I could get the desired answer before I left. I held that phone

With Telephone Pests?

Have you, up to the ears in work, been called to the telephone and asked to "wait a minute" till Mr. So-and-So is at leisure to speak to Have you, busy getting dinner, been called to the telephone to hear a pert maid's voice asking you to 'hold the wire a minute" until Mrs. Jones can find time to speak to you? Have you been called out of bed at a quarter to 1 and asked to use your influence to bring about the release, at once, of some stranger jugged for getting gay with a policeman?

Other people have had these experiences and worse, with the telephone pest. What about yours?

answer before I left. I held that phone for at least three minutes, finally to speak to some man on a matter of minor importance: and I missed the train and had to taxi all the way out at great expense and loss of time as I was too late for most of the meeting. I am ashamed to say that I was pretty revengeful, and next day I had my office call that very man to the phone and after he answered himself. I had them say, "Just a minute please." and at the end of the minute-just sixty seconds—I went to the telephone and at the end of the minute-just sixty seconds—I went to the telephone myself and remarked in dulcet tones. "Thank you very much, the minute is up now." and hung up the receiver. Perhaps if we made these time de-stroyers take a little of their own medicine in this way, they might be cured. cured.

W. LOUISE WELLS.

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger: To the Editor of the Evening Public Langel Sir—Your recent editorial aimed at the great and the near-great, who do their telephoning by proxy hit a dis-courtesy nail right on its solid ivory head. How about the number who sometimes makes a torture out of a tele-phone conversation? I mean the man, marely the woman, who "chews" his words, who does not enunciate properly, and who does not enumrate prop-erly, and who seems to have his mouth a yard away from the transmitter? My business requires a frequent use of the telephone. A large number of orders and requests come in by phone
