

TELLS WIFE PAYER OF BILLS IS "BOSS"

Mrs. Van Iderstine to Sue for Separation—"Mere Slave" to Husband

DISAGREE ON "GOOD TIME"

New York, Oct. 7.—William P. M. Van Iderstine, of Brooklyn, wealthy and socially prominent, is separated from his wife, Mrs. Grace P. Van Iderstine.

The present Mrs. Van Iderstine is his third wife. The first was Adelaide Reynolds. They were divorced in 1906.

Following the death of his second wife, in 1913, Van Iderstine retired from the meat packing business and occupied the family mansion—the original Charles Pratt house—in Brooklyn.

In April, 1916, he married Mrs. Harrison B. Moore.

In a statement written for her attorney, Mrs. Van Iderstine says her husband has displayed a dual personality that inflicted much mental cruelty and finally made her break down physically.

Mrs. Van Iderstine is unassuming, gentle-souled, thirty-five and of charming personality. Reluctantly, yesterday she spoke of her troubles. She said:

"I could not keep up with Mr. Van Iderstine's ideas of life. His idea of a good time was to make me go with him every afternoon to a number of the dance halls about 4 o'clock and keep dancing until I was fagged out.

"At home I was a mere slave to him. I had six servants. One of his idiosyncrasies was to belittle me before them.

"He would never let me move a picture or a piece of furniture. I was like the Second Mrs. Tanqueray in Wilde's play. I almost went crazy because I was always being told by my husband how wife No. 1 or wife No. 2 had done thus and so."

Coat Sale Extraordinary

Astonishing Groups Offered for the First Time Saturday at the Very Low Prices of $16.50 $25 $38.50 $58.50

Probably every well-dressed woman in Philadelphia wants just such beautiful coats as these.

Handsome fur collars, fashionable novelty materials, rich silk linings—all are procurable at often a third and a half less than our standard rates.

100 Beautiful Sample Coats at $58.50

Such coats as well-dressed women take joy in possessing. Every one of them is a beauty. Made of cordova, chameleon cord, moesine, ramona and Bolivia in Sorrento blue, black, tan, taupe, brown, reindeer and marmot.

18 are trimmed with beaver. 25 with gray squirrel. 11 with nutria. 7 with Australian opossum. 13 with mole. 23 with wolf. 5 are plain.

Some are copies of imported models. Some are embroidered in addition to the luxurious furs. Sizes up to 42, but not in each style.

Another Lot of 100 Coats at $38.50

Women who saw the first lot last Saturday will tell their friends the good news.

One hundred coats from the same manufacturer and of the same grades. Velour, normandie and Bolivia, richly silk lined and warmly interlined.

Majority with fur collars and some with fur cuffs, of beaver, mole, squirrel, Australian opossum and wolf. Sizes up to 44, and a few extra sizes in the lot.

40 Styles of New Dresses Drop in Price to $5, $7.50, $8.75, $10, $15

One dress at $15 is copied from a model that was more than double a month ago. One at $8.75 was $10.75 two weeks ago—and from the same maker.

One at $10 was $18.75 very recently. All the values are unusual.

But the makers want quick business and have taken small profits to hurry things along. Down Stairs Store customers will profit.

$5 Serge and velour frocks with blanket stitched bands, self-colored braiding, Peter Pan leatherette collars and cuffs.

$7.50 Serge dresses with braiding and all-over embroidery in self and contrasting colors.

$8.75 Serge dresses with crepe braid and wool jersey in wanted colors.

$10 Serge, wool jersey and tricotine, some with elaborate embroidery, braiding and beads.

Velveteen and Other Dresses $16.75

First Autumn shipment of lovely velveteen frocks. Some with delightful embroidery and flowing sleeves. Other interesting frocks of serge and tricotine, the latter with duvetyne trimmings.

Sample Frocks $22.50 and $25

$25 crepe-back satin frocks with beads, such as we had a month ago at fourteen dollars more.

$22.50 Canton crepes with striking coral red heads or lovely ones of crepe de chine with intricate steel beads.

Autumn Sale of Women's Fine Gloves

Many of the gloves are a third below today's standard values, and all are less than regular prices.

They are such reasonable, desirable gloves from every point of view that we are particularly proud of them. The leathers are uncommonly fine.
