

COPY OF WALSKA DECREE IS FOUND

Proof of Legal Ending of Marriage to d'Eingorne Declared in Existence

GRANTED IN RUSSIA IN 1915

New York, Oct. 7.—The mystery cast about the first husband of Mrs. Ganna Walska was dispelled yesterday. Her counsel, Dudley Field Malone, disclosed that the copy of the divorce decree obtained by the beautiful opera singer from Captain Arcadie d'Eingorne is in existence.

of disputes of the appraisal of property.

The Vore total contains an item of $100,000 for the completion of the Parkway. This has to be counted in the total of unencumbered funds, but the question arises: "What is there to complete, at this time, on the Parkway?"

More Put Under Contract

The Vore total also contains $317,515.27 for paving streets. The Controller's report shows that $31,147.05 was put under contract last month.

Two items for the grading and paving of the streets show in the list of unencumbered funds approximately $1,900,000. But the Controller's report plainly shows that this is "subject to future legislation by Council."

Another big sum which helps the Vore men to make a fine showing with figures, with of course a careless disregard of facts, is $500,000 for a rubbish and garbage destructor. In the first place this sum is subject to "future legislation by Council" and in the second place Council has just boldly refused to supply the needed legislation in an effort to hamstring it.

Another nice item in the Vore total is $134,234 for bathing beaches. The bare statement of this sum and its inclusion in the total of "unencumbered loans" ignores two important facts.

The first is that the use of the money is subject to legislation by Council, and the second is that $104,334.99 was placed under contract last month.

Water Plans Go Ahead

Work on the extension of the water supply is going right ahead, but this does not prevent the use of the Controller's figures in an effort to discredit the Administration.

For example, the Vore total includes $2,191,427 for the extension and improvement of the water supply. The Controller's own report shows that nearly $100,000 was placed under contract last month.

Among the myriad items which go to make the so-called unencumbered total are two, totaling about $5000, for the completion of City Hall. This is not a serious proposition, yet the $5000 added to many other such sums goes to swell the Vore figures.

At 1:30 A. M. a large touring car, this time containing eight men, halted alongside the curb at Eighth and Courtland streets, and called to Joseph Coombs, 4624 North Twelfth street. At 1:35 A. M. a touring car containing eight men halted near F. W. Fink, 5016 North Tenth street, and requested him to give up his valuables. Fink handed over $20 in cash and some jewelry.

Two men, Michael Walker, 3252 North Fifteenth street, and George Tucker, 3224 Westmoreland street, were on their way home from loge at about 1:47 A. M. At Thirtieth and Westmoreland streets a large touring car, this time containing four men, drove up, halted, and the four men jumped out.

"Come on, men, back up against the wall and shell out," said one of the bandits.

Walker and Tucker complied, giving the bandits $75.

Mr. Malone explained yesterday that Mrs. Walska had first used the name Ganna Walska as a stage name and later adopted it as her true name.

Last Papers in Travel

Regarding her first husband, Mrs. Walska in the affidavit filed with the marriage license application recited: "Ganna Walska, being duly sworn, doth depose and say, that an action for divorce was commenced in the Judicial Department of the Senate at St. Petersburg, Russia, by the deposition of her husband, the said Arcadie d'Eingorne. Said action resulted in a final decree in favor of the deponent entered in March, 1915.

"That deponent has made diligent and careful search for said final decree, but that the same has been mislaid and cannot be found, mostly due to the fact that deponent has traveled extensively in the last year and a half and the said papers were lost in such travel."

Second Husband Died

Mrs. Walska's second husband, Dr. Fawcett, died, and it was understood at one time that the first husband was also dead. In February, 1915, Mrs. Walska announced to the newspapers that her first husband had been killed while leading his company in the Russian advance into East Prussia. The report was reiterated in August, 1915, when the engagement of Mrs. Walska to Lowell M. Palmer, of Brooklyn, was announced.

"Captain d'Eingorne was reported alive on September 7, 1916, when Mrs. Walska and Dr. Fawcett applied for their marriage license.

Figures Show Vore Loan Hoax

elimen, said that at a most conservative estimate, $15,000,000 or $20,000,000 of this sum was definitely earmarked so that the money could not possibly be used for any other purpose.

The remaining $20,000,000 is scattered through the almost innumerable bureaus, so that the sum of unused moneys in each is virtually negligible. According to Mr. Harter and others, a large share of the whole sum of $20,000,000 can be accounted for as being in readiness for contracts, but delayed awaiting the plans and specifications.

In Result of "Logrolling"

Incidentally it is a peculiar point that Vore men are using a condition against the Administration which was created by the logrolling and earmarking tactics of the Vore Committee; a political system which was denounced by the Administration and which results in loan funds being made unavailable for any other purpose than that stated in the "endorsement" of Council.

Another point which the Vore men overlook is that they have fought against supplying the City Architect, under the City Charter is charged with the duty of preparing all plans and specifications, with an adequate staff.

Where at least sixty men are needed in the City Architect's office, only five or six are available.

This hamstringing policy has prevented the City Architect from preparing plans and therefore the actual starting of work under contract has been held up.

Other Contracts Pending

But Director Casca and others said that even so, most of the so-called unencumbered money would be under contract by the end of the year.

Not only does the Mayor propose to show by facts gathered from his directors and bureau chiefs that the "unencumbered" story of the Vore men is myth, but he will show by the report of the Controller himself that the figures have been cleverly piled up for the sake of argument.

For example, the total unencumbered funds contains an item of $90,000 for repairing and resurfacing streets. But the same report shows that upward of $100,000 was placed under contract last month and that about $200,000 has recently been spent out of the original sum of $400,000.

Experts say it is not possible to spend more than this in the time allotted.

Again the total figure used by the Vore men contains an item of $48,337.27 for wages and material for alteration, maintenance and repair of police and fire buildings.

But the Controller's report shows that nearly $4000 was placed under contract last month. Other contracts will be let as soon as the plans are ready.

Yes, it is such items that go to swell the "unduly large total of unencumbered loans."

The Vore total contains upward of $2,000,000 for the Free Library and Convention Hall, a sum bound up in litigation. There is another amount of $500,000 for the construction of new police and fire stations. But the Controller's report shows that this is "subject to future legislation" by the Vore-controlled Council.

Bridge Fund Included

One of the big items in the Vore total is $500,000 for the South Street Bridge. The facts are, according to the Mayor's office, that the Director of Public Works has advertised several times in an unsuccessful effort to get bids.

In the matter of sewers the items are almost invariably earmarked. Yet the totals count in the sum of the unencumbered fund.

For instance, the following charges stand in the Vore total: Bingham street sewer, $75,000; Charles street sewer, $50,000, and so on.

Plans are being made for these sewers or have been ordered made. Until the contract is let the sum appears as unencumbered.

Then there is $800,000 for the improvement of Delaware avenue from Snyder avenue south. The letting of contracts is held in pending adjustment
