

THE DAILY NOVELETTE

IN THE ROMANCE DRUG STORE

By Frank H. Williams

IMOGENE was twenty-two, the prettiest girl in the block and the eldest child in a family of eight.

Entertain in New York

MRS. E. J. AND JUNIOR DOYLE. Mrs. E. J. Doyle and Junior Doyle, formerly of Philadelphia, entertained last evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Willis, 610 West 180th Street, New York City.

A jovial mood, invited Imogene and Bill to have a soda at the Smith Brothers' drug store down at the corner.

"Yes," whispered Imogene softly, while the drug store was teeming with people, while Mr. and Mrs. Hetrick were commenting on the picture and while no one in the store was aware of what was going on.

Typical Conversations

By J. P. McEVOY

Housewife Ordering Groceries Over the Telephone. HELLO, hello! Is this Bow-din's? Yes, this is Mrs. Clark.

They seemed quite discouraged about something. Yes, I know it will happen, but it happens too often with your eggs.

Garage Employees Extinguish Fire

A slight fire caused by a short circuit in the electric wiring of an automobile in Stearn's garage, 1410-12 Melon street, yesterday about 2:10 P. M., was smothered with sand by employees before the arrival of firemen.

Guilty of Manslaughter

Louis Stenklivics was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter yesterday before Judge Monaghan in connection with the death of Vasil Smetanka, 423 North Fourth street, from stab wounds on January 1 last.

And then came the evening when love enveloped Imogene in a pink cloud of bliss. And how unpropitiously the evening started!

"Oh, Bill," she exclaimed, as a happy idea came to her, "let's go to the Family Theatre tonight. There's a good film there tonight."

"Yes," whispered Imogene softly, while the drug store was teeming with people, while Mr. and Mrs. Hetrick were commenting on the picture and while no one in the store was aware of what was going on.

ABOUT onions. . . have you any nice onions? Oh, I don't know. About a half pound.

Goodby! Yes, thank you. Yes, I think that will be all. Yes, that will be all for today.
